PUBLISHERS' PREFACE.

IN accordance with their original plan the Publishers are continuing to keep "THE ENGLISH AND EMPIRE DIGEST" up to date, the method adopted being very similar to that employed in the case of the "LAWS OF ENGLAND," and the system has been found by Subscribers to be equally satisfactory in use.

Supplement No. 3, to which this note is a preface, brings the published Volumes of the main Work up to January 1st, 1928, viz. Vols. 1-36.

The use of this Supplement will enable subscribers to find with the minimum of time and trouble all the judicial decisions and annotations reported since the first thirty-six Volumes were each and severally published.

As regards English cases additional citations and annotations are preceded by the number of the case in the original volume, while new cases follow as far as possible the arrangement in the original volume, and are given the number of the case which they should follow, with the addition of a letter of the alphabet, beginning with the letter "a."

In dealing with the Scottish and Irish decisions, and the decisions of the Overseas Dominions, where they can be justifiably connected with a specific English case in the original volume, or in the Supplement, or with a specific Colonial case in the original volume, that fact is indicated by giving them the number borne by the English case, or the letter of the alphabet borne by the Colonial case, followed by a serial number in Roman numerals. Cases that cannot be joined in this manner are marked with two letters of the alphabet, the first one being the letter "s," and are placed as near as possible to the English or Colonial case which they most resemble.

As regards the Table of Cases to the Supplement the name of the title in which the case is cited is given in an abbreviated form between the number of the original volume in which the title appears and, as regards English cases, the number of the case, or, as regards Scottish and Irish cases and decisions of the Overseas Dominions, the number of the page of the Supplement on which the case is dealt with. The abbreviated forms of the titles are set out below :—

Just as the Supplement to "THE LAWS OF ENGLAND" has helped that great Work to establish its unrivalled position in the British Commonwealth of Nations, so do the Publishers confidently believe that the Supplement to "THE ENGLISH AND EMPIRE DIGEST" will assist in making "THE ENGLISH AND EMPIRE DIGEST" not only always complete and up to date, but also indispensable wherever the great system of law practised by the English-speaking nations is in force.

MEANING OF TERMS

USED IN CLASSIFYING ANNOTATING CASES.

THE different expressions used to describe the effect of the annotating cases have the following meanings, and the classification of the annotating cases has been done strictly in accordance with these meanings. The annotating cases, except such as are classified as "Mentioned," are grouped according to the points in the case which they annotate: within these groups they are listed chronologically, except such as are classified as "Referred to," which come at the end of the group and are arranged inter se in chronological order. Cases which annotate the annotated case generally are grouped together after cases which annotate specific points, similarly arranged, and are followed by cases classified as "Mentioned" arranged chronologically inter se. The terms used in classifying the annotating cases are as follows:—

- "APPLIED" (Apld.).—This expression is used to denote the fact that the principle of law enunciated in the annotated case has been applied to a new set of facts and circumstances in the annotating case.
- "APPROVED" (Apprvd.).—This expression is used to denote the fact that the annotated case has been considered to be good law in the annotating case where the latter is in a higher court than the former.
- "CONSIDERED" (Consd.).—This expression is used where the remarks in the annotating case are devoid of adverse criticism and merely denote the giving of more or less careful consideration to the annotated case.
- "DISTINGUISHED" (Distd.).—This expression is used where the earlier case is not necessarily doubted, but where some essential difference (either on the facts or in law) between it and the annotated case is pointed out.
- "DOUBTED" (Dbtd.).—This expression is used where the court in the annotating case without definitely going to the length of saying that the annotated case is wrong, adduces reasons which seem to show that it is not accurate.
- "EXPLAINED" (Expld.).—This expression is used where the earlier case is not necessarily doubted, but the decision arrived at is justified or accounted for by calling attention to some point of fact or of law which is usually, but not necessarily, one not obvious on the face of the report.
- "EXTENDED" (Extd.).—Compare "APPLIED," supra.
- "FOLLOWED" (Folld.).—This expression is used to denote that the same principles of law are applied in the two cases. It does not necessarily imply that the facts are substantially identical in the two cases.
- "NOT FOLLOWED" (N.F.).—Compare "FOLLOWED," supra, to which it is the adverse.
- "OVERRULED" (Overrd.).—This expression is used where the annotating case is on substantially identical facts with the annotated case and in a higher court and the rule in the latter case is held to be wrong.
- "REFERRED" (Refd.).—This expression is used only where the annotating case deals with the point of the Digest paragraph and is without comment of any definite character on the case annotated, and where there is no delicate shade of approval or disapproval which would justify the use of any of the foregoing words.
- "MENTIONED" (Mentd.).—This expression is used only where none of the foregoing terms apply. In other words, it is used only where the case annotated is cited on a point having nothing to do with the point in the Digest paragraph.

TABLE OF CASES.

INCLUDING CASES FROM THE COURTS OF SCOTLAND, IRELAND, THE EMPIRE OF INDIA, AND DOMINIONS BEYOND THE SEAS.

The Figures in Black Type relate to Volumes.

The Figures in Ordinary Type relate as regards English cases to the number of the case, and as regards other cases to the page in the Supplement on which the case appears.

- 90a. ————]—The Food Controller requisitioned certain cattle feeding stuffs under Defence of the Realm Regulations, but whether under reg. 2 B. or reg. 2 F. was doubtful. By reg. 2 B. the price to be paid for goods taken thereunder was to be determined by the tribunal by which claims for compensation under Defence of the Realm Regulations were determined, but was not to exceed a certain maximum price fixed by an Ord. in Council. By reg. 2 F. compensation for goods taken thereunder was to be paid as determined by an arbitrator, taking into account the cost of production of the goods & a reasonable profit. The maximum price fixed by the Ord. in Council had been paid. The Defence of the Realm Losses Commission having refused to entertain a claim for compensation, the owners of the goods presented a petition of right, claiming that the Food Controller had acted under reg. 2 F., & that they were entitled to compensation fixed by arbn. thereunder. At the trial the judge held that the Controller had acted under reg. 2 B., & dismissed the petition. On July 22, 1920, suppliants gave notice of appeal. On Aug. 16, 1920, Indemnity Act, 1920 (c. 48), was passed:—Held: (1) the appeal was not a "proceeding instituted" within sect. 1 of the Act; (2) those words do not include a final judgment given before the passing of the Act, & therefore the appeal well lay. —*ROBINSON (J.) & Co. v. sa. Action—Claim for damages & injunction—Transfer of Land Act, 1893 (No. 14), s. 117.—The term "action at law" in the above sect. embraces an action of the nature of a suit in equity, e.g. a claim for an injunction & damages in respect of trespass to & interference with a right of way. —STILLITZ BROTHERS v. BRITNALL (1912), 15 W. A. L. R. 12.—AUS.

sb. ————] Divorce petition—Insolvency Act, 1915 (No. 267), s. 174.—The word "action" in the above sect. does not include a proceeding by petition in divorce. —Re HARVEY, [1920]

sc. ————] Petition of right — A petition of right is not an "action". The definitions of "actions" in Judicature Act & rules are merely a conventional method of interpreting the statute & rules, adopted for the sake of brevity & simplicity, & not for the purpose of changing the true nature of things. —*MILLAR v. sd. Proceeding in action—Application for relief against restraint—H v. R (Inf. Act).—The above Act empowers a judge of the Supreme Ct. to dispense with the restrictions therein contained.

Appl. distrained against resp. under a mtge. notwithstanding that resp. was within the protection of the Act. Resp. applied to a county ct. judge as "local judge" of the Supreme Ct. for relief, who made an order against resp. dispensing with the restrictions of the Act. —Held: the local judge had no jurisdiction, as the proceeding was not a proceeding in an "action," as required under the wording of the Ord. in Council, June 16, 1906. Resp.'s proper remedy against applt. was by injunction to restrain applt. from invading his rights under the Act. —HANNA v. COCHRAN, [1919] 1 W. W. R. 930, 44 D. L. R. 478.—CAN.

Where the sole exor. under a will never made any claim against the beneficiaries for repayment of certain costs which he had been ordered to pay to them, all he did having been to reserve his right to claim such repayment under a deed of indemnity that the beneficiaries had executed in his favour:—Held: the ct. had no jurisdiction to make a declaratory judgment under R. S. C., Ord. 25, r. 5, & Ord. 54A, r. 1, on the application of the beneficiaries, their duty being to 104 ii. ———.]—The expression "a cause of action" in Supreme Ct. Act, 1913 (No. 2733), s. 141, means the particular act or omission occasioning the injury complained of, & so giving rise to pliff's claim, not every fact material to be proved in order to entitle pliff. to succeed.—CHIDZKY v. BRECKLER, [1920] V. L. R. 558.—AUS.

PART I. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 1.

104 iii. ———.]—The "cause of action" in District Ct. Act, R. S. S., 1920 (c. 40), s. 29, means the whole cause of action, including every material fact which pliff. must allege & prove to give him a right to judgment, & therefore if the whole cause of a district ct. action did not arise in one judicial district the action should be brought in that district where def't. or one of several def'ts. resides or carries on business. Notwithstanding sect. 2, sub-sect. 2 (2), of the Act providing that in the Act unless there is something in the subject or context repugnant thereto the expressions "cause" & "action" shall respectively have the same meaning as the same expressions have in King's Bench Act, the words "the cause of action" in sect. 29 should not be construed in the same way as in King's Bench Act, s. 35, because in sect. 29 "there is something in the subject or context repugnant thereto," namely, the fact that sect. 29 confers jurisdiction on an inferior ct. & therefore must be strictly construed, jurisdiction not being assumed beyond what is clearly conferred, whereas a different principle applies in sect. 35 which does not affect to deal with jurisdiction but simply deals with practice & procedure in a superior ct.—HOWELL v. WARREN, [1921] 3 W. W. R. 587.—CAN.

PART I. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 2.—A.

st. Sale of goods—To be delivered at place named—Payment to be made elsewhere.—Def't., in Perth, gave to B., who was agent for pliff., a written order for certain goods at a price. This order B. transmitted to his principal in Melbourne, who declined it, but authorised B. to inform def't. that pliff. would accept the order at increased prices, added in ink on the original order. These new prices were subsequently submitted by B. to def't., who agreed to take certain of the goods at the increased prices. By the contract the goods were to be delivered f.o.b. Melbourne, payment to be by draft payable at Perth, cost of exchange to be added. Pliff. shipped the goods to def't. in Perth, who refused to accept the draft, alleging inferiority of the goods:—Held: the contract was made in Perth; & the only breach of the contract took place in Perth; & although delivery had to be made f.o.b. Melbourne, there was not a cause of action arising within Victoria.—CHIDZKY v. BRECKLER, [1920] V. L. R. 558.—AUS.

ag. ———.—]—A "cause of action" on a breach of contract includes the contract & its breach. If a purchaser of machinery promises to pay the purchase price to the vendor at M., but signs the agreement & receives the machinery at W. the vendor's cause of action for the pur-chaser's failure to pay cannot be said to arise at M.—WESTERN CANADA AUTO TRACTOR CO., LTD. v. BJAARNA-SØN, [1920] 1 W. W. R. 621.—CAN.

sk. ———.—]—Pliff. sold & delivered a motor car to def't. at Prince Albert, & def't. gave him notes therefor signed at Prince Albert but payable at Saskatoon:—Held: the suit for balance due thereon was properly entered in the Saskatoon judicial district as the "cause of action" arose there.—OLMSTEAD v. SCOTT, [1921] 1 W. W. R. 1033.—CAN.

st. Contract—Where act or omission giving cause of complaint occurs.—A "cause of action" as applied to actions in the Ct. of King's Bench & for the purposes of King's Bench Act, R. S. S., 1920 (c. 39), s. 35, arises where, with regard to a contract, the act or omission of def't. occurs which gives pliff. his cause of complaint, although the term may have a different construction in cases involving the local jurisdiction of inferior ct.s.—*ST. PART II. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 1.

237 iii. —.]—Pltfs. complained that defts. dug holes in the beach upon their lands on the shore of a lake, where the sand met the grass-covered bank, that sand swept from pltfs.' lands by storms was carried by the wind across defts.' beach, & came to rest in these holes, & that, when the next storm came, the sand remained in the holes & was not blown back to pltfs.' lands. Pltfs. contended that it was wrongfully detained by defts.—Held : pltfs. had no cause of action, as the sand could not be considered a chattel upon its severance by the wind from its original situs, if shifting sand could be said to have a situs.—BRENNER v. BLEAKLEY, [1924] 2 D. L. R. 202; 54 O. L. R. 23; revgg., [1923] 2 D. L. R. 576; 52 O. L. R. 124.—CAN.

- 249a. — Unlawful means used.—A single person or a body of persons commits an actionable wrong if he or they inflict actual pecuniary damage upon another by the intentional employment of unlawful means, such as threats of coercive action, to injure that person's business, even though the unlawful means may not comprise any specific act which is per se actionable & actual malice is not proved. The element of conspiracy in a case of this kind is of importance only in considering the weight of the acts alleged & the extent of the damage resulting therefrom.
- Defts.*, the British Medical Association, a body incorporated for the purpose of maintaining "the honour & interests of the medical profession," & other defts., who were members of the Association, instituted & pursued a system of professional & social ostracism or boycott against plffs., who were medical men, by means of threats & widely extended coercive action. Defts. sought to justify the boycott on the ground that the conduct of plffs. in acting as the medical officers of a certain medical dispensary was detrimental to the honour & interests of the profession. As a result of the boycott plffs. suffered pecuniary loss in the exercise of their profession:—Held: plffs. had a good cause of action against all defts. for damages.—*PRATT v. - 257a. ——A number of discharged sailors entered into a partnership according to the terms of which the sailors were to perform together at certain music halls & were not to appear during the terms of the partnership in any other theatre or music hall. Plffs., who were members of the co., complained that the deft. had induced certain of the sailors to break the contract by promising to get them employment & by obtaining other engagements for them. By amendment it was further alleged that deft. had wrongfully continued persons in her employment with the knowledge that by being in her employment those persons were breaking a contract with plffs.:—Held: assuming an action lies to recover damages on the latter ground, the foundation of this action is that there shall be notice to deft. of a subsisting contract which one party, at all events, is still willing & able to perform; & there being sufficient evidence before the county ct. judge that the partnership had for all practical purposes come to an end, no action lay. *LONG v. - 259a. — Damage by rats.] A firm of artificial manure manufacturers had on their premises, for the purposes of their business, a heap of bones which attracted rats. The occupier of adjoining premises was a farmer. The rats made runs between the factory & the fields & entered the farmer's land, & damaged his crops. The business had been carried on for at least thirty years, & there was no evidence to show that the bone heap had been increased beyond what it had been in past years, or anything to show that an increase which had actually taken place in the numbers of the rats was due to anything done by the manufacturers. In an action by the farmer against the manufacturers:—Held: in the absence of evidence showing that there had been an unusual & excessive collection of bones on the factory premises, or of anything unusual or excessive done by defts., or of any duty neglected by defts., plff. could not maintain an action for damages.—STEARN v. 376b. ————]—In 1916 a Russian Govt. Committee, of which deft. was a member, was set up in London by the Imperial Russian Govt. & continued by its successor, the Russian Provisional Govt., & the committee, which incurred large financial obligations, had possession of certain documents, which related to those obligations & were the property of those Govts. The committee ceased to operate in 1918, & the documents were handed over to a board of trustees appointed by the Chargé d'Affaires of the Russian Provincial Govt., & deft. became president of the board. The documents had become the property of plffs., the present Russian Govt., whose sovereignty had been recognised by the British Govt., but they were still in the possession of deft. Certain actions were pending against deft. as a member of the Russian Govt. Committee with regard to the transactions to which the documents related. Plffs. claimed the delivery up of the documents, & deft. contended that he was entitled to a lien on the documents until he had received an indemnity in respect of the other actions, & he set up the contention by way of defence & counterclaim:—Held: although where a sovereign state was a pltf. a counterclaim could be maintained against it, yet the counterclaim must be in respect of matters immediately connected with the claim, & as the indemnity sought by deft. was not in respect of any liability incurred by him in & about the custody of the documents, & was not in respect of matters immediately connected with the claim, the action succeeded & the counterclaim failed.—SOVIET REPUBLICS UNION v. 387a. ————]—Notwithstanding restrictions on exercise of sovereign rights.—(1) It is the settled practice of the ct. to take judicial notice of the status of any foreign Govt., & for that purpose, in any case of uncertainty, to seek information from a Secretary of State; & the information so received is conclusive.

(2) A Govt. recognised as sovereign by His Majesty's Govt. is not the less exempt from the jurisdiction of our ct. because it has agreed to restrictions on the exercise of its sovereign rights.

By a deed dated in July, 1912, the Govt. of Kelantan granted to applt. co. certain mining & other rights to be exercised in that State, & the deed contained an arbn. clause, which incorporated Arbn. Act, 1889 (c. 40), so far as applicable. Disputes having arisen as to the effect of the deed, they were referred to an arbitrator, who made an award in favour of the co. & directed the Govt. to pay the costs of the arbn. In Dec. 1921, the Govt. applied to the Ch. Div., under Arbn. Act, 1889, s. 11, to set aside the award, but the application was refused. In June, 1922, the co. obtained from the K. B. Div., under sect. 12 of the Act, an order giving leave to enforce the award, but the order was set aside, on the application of the Govt., on the ground that Kelantan was a sovereign independent State. Before setting aside the order the master asked the Secretary of State for the Colonies for information as to the status of Kelantan, & received in reply an official letter stating that Kelantan was an independent State & its Sultan the sovereign ruler thereof, & that the King did not exercise or claim any rights of sovereignty over Kelantan, & enclosing an agreement regulating the relations between the Sultan & the King. By this agreement the Sultan agreed to have no political relations with any foreign power except through the medium of the King, & in all matters of administration, other than those touching the Mohammedan religion & Malay custom, to follow the advice of an adviser appointed by the King:—Held: (1) the statement in the letter as to the sovereignty of Kelantan & its rulers was not intended to be qualified by the terms of the agreement, & the letter was conclusive; (3) the Govt. of Kelantan had not submitted to the jurisdiction of the ct. for the purpose of the proceedings to enforce the award, either by assenting to the arbn.

clause or by applying to the ct. to set aside the award.—DUFF DEVELOPMENT Co. v. KELANTAN GOVERNMENT, [1924] A. C. 707; 93 L. J. Ch. 343; 131 L. T. 676; 40 T. L. R. 566; 68 Sol. Jo. 559, H. L.

392a. ———.—(1) In proceedings in the cts. of this country by or against the ruler of a colonial State whose status is disputed a written statement by the Secretary of State for the Colonies that the ruler is an independent foreign sovereign is equivalent to a communication from the Crown & therefore conclusive, & the ct. will accept it without considering whether it is borne out by documents which are appended to it.

In an arbn. in this country between pltf. co. & the Govt. of Kelantan an award was made in favour of the co. with costs. The Govt. of Kelantan then moved to set aside the award & this motion was dismissed with costs. An appeal from this decision was also dismissed with costs. No portion of these costs had been paid. The co. obtained a garnishee order nisi to attach money in the hands of the Crown agents of the Colonies on behalf of the Govt. of Kelantan. Upon an application by the co. for payment by the garnishees the Govt. of Kelantan & the Crown agents appeared together & contended that Kelantan was an independent sovereign State & the ct. had no jurisdiction to execute the orders for costs by a levy on the property of that State.—Held: (2) although the Govt. of Kelantan had, by initiating proceedings to set aside the award of the arbitrator, submitted to the jurisdiction of the ct., (3) that submission had not the effect of rendering liable to execution any property belonging to the Govt. within the jurisdiction.—DUFF DEVELOPMENT Co. v. In exercising such discretion the ct. may consider circumstances, such as the infancy, ignorance, or poverty of pltf., which may afford excuse for the failure to prosecute in respect of the felony. Where pltf. has obtained a verdict in the civil action, the ct., on motion for a new trial or for judgment, may consider the circumstances that between verdict & motion deff. has been prosecuted in respect of the felony.—CARLISLE v. use, the subject of conversion being the same as that in respect of which the criminal charge was made; on Sept. 22 pltf. was committed for trial on the criminal charge, & on Sept. 30, a true bill was found against him in the sessions. On a subsequent day the judge of the division ct. heard argument as to whether the action should be proceeded with before the criminal charge was taken up; he decided that it should, & fixed a day for trial, but on Dec. 10, 1920, neither the action nor the criminal proceeding having been tried, an order was made by a judge of the Supreme Ct. of Ontario, upon the application of deffs., prohibiting the judge of the division court from proceeding in the action until after the final disposition of the criminal prosecution. Pltf. appealed from this order, & before the completion of the argument of the appeal pltf. was tried upon the criminal charge & acquitted.—Held: the division ct. judge had the right, the claim & counterclaim being within the jurisdiction of the ct., to stay proceedings or otherwise deal with the case; & prohibition did not lie, even if the judge erred in the conclusion to which he came.—Re BRYANT v. for libel in the conduct of the business of the assocn., & in the same action C. counter-claimed against pltf. for damages for libel in respect of the same business. The action resulted in judgment for defts. on the claim, with damages for £75 for C. on the counter-claim. The assocn. before the hearing of the action had passed resolutions to indemnify C. & W. against any liability or costs arising from the action against them, & that the indemnity should extend to the costs of any counterclaim that counsel might advise should be made, provided that any costs of the action for which the assocn. would be liable should be paid pro tanto out of any moneys recovered in the action. Pltf. then brought an action against the assocn. for maintenance & champerty, & other relief:—Held: (1) champerty being a form of maintenance, a decision which applies to the genus must also apply to the species; (2) pltf. had not proved any special damage, & his claim in champerty failed equally with his claim in maintenance.—*HICKMAN v. of the hotel for the time being & his servants to have access to the platforms of the station & that the tenant or occupier of the hotel shall have the option of renting the refreshment rooms "at a rent to be fixed as there mentioned, "in preference to any other party." In 1860 H. granted a sub-lease of the hotel premises to B. for 21 years, & the co. also granted to B. a lease of the refreshment rooms for 21 years. In 1866 pltf. co. obtained an assignment from B. of his interest under those two documents, & an assignment from H. of the land comprised in the lease of 1853 & "All & singular other premises comprised in & demised by the said recited indenture of lease of Aug. 1, 1853." From 1866 onwards pltf.s. managed & conducted both hotel & refreshment rooms, & after the expiration of the 21 years' term granted by the sub-lease of 1860 to B., they continued in occupation of the rooms upon such terms of that sub-lease as were applicable. In 1879 defts. succeeded by statute to the contracts of the L. & C. Ry. Co. On April 2, 1891, defts. & the Caledonian Ry. Co. demised to pltf.s. a plot of land adjacent to the hotel for 962 years. The deed recited the lease of 1853, & referred to it as the "principal indenture"; & it also provided that "these presents are without prejudice to any of the covenants conditions & agreements contained in the principal indenture," which were to remain & be in full force. On Mar. 21, 1916, defts. gave six months' notice to pltf.s. to determine their occupation of the refreshment rooms. Pltf.s. gave up possession, & then served a written notice on defts. stating their desire to exercise the option contained in the lease of 1853, & requesting to be informed as to terms. Defts. having ignored the notice, pltf.s., on Oct. 16, 1916, obtained an express assignment from the personal representatives of H., who had died in 1876, of "all that the benefit right title & interest, if any, now remaining outstanding of or otherwise vested in them or any or either of them of & in the railway obligations." Pltf.s. claimed (a) a declaration that defts. by the lease of 1853 were under an obligation to put & keep the occupier of pltf.s.' hotel in occupation of the refreshment rooms, upon the terms of paying therefor a fixed market rent; (b) to have such rent fixed under the direction of the ct.; (c) damages for the breach of such obligation by defts. — Held: (1) the option clause did not run with the land, & pass ipso facto by the assignment of the lease of 1853, as it did not touch or concern the thing demised; (2) the option clause was assignable, & was not a covenant merely personal to the covenantor; (3) the benefit of this clause was not assigned by the deed of 1866, inasmuch as the word "premises" therein referred to the land & buildings demised, & not to the option clause; (4) the deed of 1891 was not a fresh grant of the option rights to pltf.s., & did not constitute a binding recognition of pltf.s. as the assignees of the option clause; (5) the assignment of Oct. 16, 1916, by the personal representatives of H., of the option clause in the lease of 1853, being an assignment of a right of property, was not invalid for champerty; (6) the option clause was void for uncertainty; (7) the option clause was 621a. — Dilapidations.—A freehold messuage & tenement were the subject of the following leases: (a) a head lease which expired on Dec. 25, 1917; (b) an underlease which expired on Dec. 18, 1917; (c) a sub-underlease which expired on Dec. 15, 1917. All three leases contained onerous covenants to repair the premises & to keep them & yield them up in good repair. The sub-underlease became vested by assignment in deft. On Dec. 18, 1917, pltf. who had been a tenant to deft. of the same premises, & was liable to him under a covenant to repair less onerous than those in the three leases above mentioned, agreed to purchase, & on May 1, 1918, took a conveyance of the fee simple of the premises together with the benefit of the covenants in the head lease. At the expiration of all the leases the premises were out of repair & deft. was threatening pltf. with an action on his covenant. Thereupon pltf. obtained an assignment of the full benefit of the lessee's covenants to repair contained in the sub-underlease, & commenced an action against deft. as assignee of the sub-underlease for breaches of the lessee's covenants therein:—Held: the assignment was free from objection on the ground of maintenance or champerty, the right of action on the covenants being so connected with the enjoyment of property as to be more than a bare right to litigate.—*ELLIS v. - 141b. —]—Government not formally recognised. —Pltfs., Esthonian subjects, the owners of two sailing vessels, with the approval & support of the Esthonian Govt., issued writs in rem claiming possession of the vessels, which had been requisitioned or sequestered by the Provisional Govt. of Northern Russia, & by them hired to a partnership assocn. for the purposes of trading, subject to the control of the director of naval transports. The Provisional Govt. entered appearances under protest, & motions were set down to set aside the writs & all subsequent proceedings on the grounds (inter alia) that the vessels were in the service of the Provisional Govt. & therefore immune from arrest; & that the dispute was between foreigners as to the possession of foreign ships, & therefore that, even if the ct. had jurisdiction, it should decline to exercise it. The judge invited the assistance of the Foreign Office as to the status of the Provisional Govt. of Northern Russia, & was informed by the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs that, while the Allied Powers were co-operating with the Provisional Govt. in the opposition which that Govt. was making to the forces of the Russian Soviet Govt., the Provisional Govt. had not been "formally recognised either by H.M. Govt. or by the Allied Powers as the Govt. of a sovereign independent State :—Held : (1) although under the control of an official of the Provisional Govt. the vessels were not in the possession or service of the Govt.; (2) even under the older decisions, the ct. in its discretion would entertain a possession suit between foreigners if the representative of the foreign State to which the vessel belonged requested the intervention of the ct. After the vessel had been released from requisition pltfs. commenced an action in rem for their collision damage. In that action defts. pleaded (inter alia) that "at the time when the collision is alleged to have taken place the Sylvan Arrow was under requisition by & under the sole control & management of the Govt. of the United States & was being navigated by persons who were the servants of the Govt. & for whose negligence defts. were & are in no wise responsible. . . . Defts. say that the action is not maintainable in rem by reason of the facts set out" above. On the hearing of this question as a preliminary point of law :—Held : defts. had surrendered their vessel to the United States Govt. under compulsion; in no sense could it be said that the master & crew derived their authority from defts., & in the circumstances no maritime lien attached to the vessel by reason of the collision, & her owners were not, either through their vessel or otherwise, liable to pltfs.—THE SYLVAN ARROW, [1923] P. 220; 92 L. Under the terms of requisition the possession or control of the vessel passed to the Greek Govt., & the master & crew ceased to be employed by defts. & were conscripted into the Greek forces. At the end of the period of requisition the vessel had to be returned to defts. in the same condition as at the beginning of the period. While under requisition the vessel stranded, & was saved from possible total loss by the services of pltfs.' salvage ship. After the vessel had been returned to her owners she was arrested by pltfs. in an action in rem:—Held: the terms of requisition did not dispossess defts. of their property in the vessel; the services were of benefit to defts., as thereby they had their vessel instead of merely a claim against the Greek Govt.; as the services were not those of the crew of the Greek vessel, it was immaterial that the crew were the servants of the Greek Govt., & defts. were liable to pltfs. for salvage.—THE MEANDROS, [1925] P. 61; 94 L. Parcels of goods were accepted in N. for delivery at S. to the shippers' order, there being given to each shipper a document of the above-mentioned character. Upon the named ship arriving at S. the goods were not delivered. Resps., twenty firms, each being indorsees of one of the documents, issued a joint writ in rem claiming severally to recover damages. The writ stated that plffs. claimed as consignees or indorsees of bills of lading for non-delivery of goods agreed to be carried by the named ship, or agreed to be shipped within a reasonable time by some other vessel of the same line. On affidavits sworn separately by plffs., alleging that the goods were either lost or not shipped on any other vessel within a reasonable time, the ship was arrested. The owners of the ship took out a summons to set aside the writ & all proceedings thereunder:—Held: (1) the documents in question were bills of lading within the above sect., & the proceedings being to set aside the writ & it not being denied that some of the goods were received on board, the action should proceed; (2) the action being in rem & the joinder of plffs. convenient, the view of the full Bench of the Supreme Ct. that plffs. could properly be joined under the rules locally applicable should not be interfered with.—*MARLBOROUGH HILL, SHIP v. During that time they had succeeded in cutting a hole into No. 4 hold, had buoyed the wreck, & had extracted some portions of cargo of little value at a cost of over £40,000. In July, 1923, defts., British subjects & partners in a rival salvage co., arrived on the scene in a British registered ship, & by sending down their own divers & interfering with ptfss. diving operations, tried to secure possession of the wreck & cargo, & either prevent further work on the part of ptfss. or establish themselves with ptfss. in concurrent occupation :—Held : (1) an action in respect of injurious acts done on the high seas had always been within the jurisdiction of the High Ct. of Admty.; (2) ptfss. were sufficiently in occupation of the wreck to exclude third parties from interfering with the property; (3) as defts. interference was high-handed & deliberate they would be restrained until further order from doing any acts at or near the wreck whereby ptfss. might be prevented or hindered in the carrying on of their salvage operations.—THE TUBANTIA, [1924] P. 78; 93 L. Accordingly, after the outbreak of war with Germany, the ship was seized as prize, & on July 28, 1916, the Prize Ct. pronounced her to have belonged at the time of seizure to enemies of the Crown, & ordered her to be detained by the marshal until further order. Meanwhile on Jan. 11, 1916, under Prize Ct. Rules, Ord. 29, the ship had been requisitioned by the Lords Comrs. of the Admty., & she remained in their possession. On Apr. 5, 1917, the writ in the present action was issued claiming a declaration under M. S. Acts, 1894 (c. 60), & 1906 (c. 48), that the ship was forfeited to the Crown on the ground that she was not entitled to be registered as a British ship :—Held : as the Lords Comrs. of the Admty. had merely temporary possession of the ship & had to return her into the custody of the Prize Ct. which had at some time to make a final decree either of condemnation or release, the Admty. Ct. had no jurisdiction to entertain the forfeiture action & to make the usual order for appraisal & sale, & the action must be dismissed.—THE ST. TUPNO, [1918] P. 174; 87 L. J. P. 105; 34 T. L. But, inasmuch as Maritime Conventions Act, 1911 (c. 57), s. 8, contains provisos for extension of time unknown to any other statutes of limitation, the application to renew a writ in an action which comes within the operation of sect. 8 must be considered on its merits, & if, under the circumstances, the ct. would give leave to issue a writ notwithstanding the lapse of two years, the ct. will allow an extension of time for the renewal of a writ, the time for the renewal of which has expired.—THE ESPANOLETE, [1920] P. 223; 90 L. Pltfs. did not admit the facts set out in defts.' affidavit in support of the motion:—Held: the facts being in dispute the ct. could not try the issue on motion by affidavit & the motion must be dismissed,

Subsequently the ship was arrested by the Admiralty marshal in an action in rem for necessities. Various other writs in rem were issued against the ship, including a writ by the master in respect of wages. The £100,000 being insufficient to satisfy plffs.' judgment, plffs. who admitted that quid damages they could not recover more than the £100,000, threatened to arrest defts.' vessel in respect of interest & costs; & under protest, defts. provided bail in a further sum to avoid arrest:—Held: having received bail in the full value of defts.' vessel, plffs. could not arrest her in rem, but could proceed in personam, & were entitled to a declaration that the amounts due in respect of interest

781b. Undertaking to put in bail—Afterwards withdrawn—Effect of subsequent arrest of vessel.—On June 22, 1920, defts. solrs. gave an undertaking to enter an appearance & put in bail in respect of a writ in rem claiming damages in respect of loss by collision. In consequence defts. vessel was not arrested. On Feb. 17, 1921, defts. solrs. wrote to plffs. solrs. that their clients were unable to make arrangements for bail, that accordingly the undertaking for bail was withdrawn, & that, as the vessel was within the jurisdiction of the ct., plffs. could arrest her. Plffs. solrs. arrested the vessel, but wrote to defts. solrs. that they reserved all their clients' rights under the undertaking for bail. On Mar. 16, 1921, the vessel was appraised as being at that time of a value of £600. Defts. provided bail in that sum & the vessel was released. On Apr. 12, plffs. applied for an order that defts. solrs. should forthwith provide good & sufficient bail, pursuant to their undertaking. It appeared that in June, 1920, the value of the vessel was much in excess of £600, & plffs. estimated her value at £1,500 :—Held : (1) the undertaking to give bail could not be withdrawn by substituting the vessel for the bail; (2) plffs. had not waived their rights under the undertaking by arresting the vessel; (3) defts. solrs. must complete their undertaking by putting in bail to the value of the vessel as on June 22, 1920; (4) nature of bail discussed.—THE BORRE, [1921] P. 390; 91 L. 781e. Benefit of bail—Action in name of cargo owners—Some owners not joining in proceedings.—The steamships W. & J. came into collision & the W. & her cargo were damaged. Before the issue of the writ an undertaking to put in bail to the amount of £100,000, had been given on behalf of the owners of the J. The writ was in the names of "The owners of the steamship W. & cargo v. the owners of the steamship J.," but at that time no authority from any of the cargo owners had been received. While the litigation was proceeding the owners of the W. asked the various underwriters on the cargo, subrogated to the rights of the respective cargo owners, to join in the proceedings or share in the costs. Some assented & some declined. The litigation proceeded to the House of Lords, where the J. was held alone to blame. The sum of £100,000 being insufficient to satisfy all the claims, the owners of the W. contended that having sued as owners of the ship & bailees of the cargo they were entitled to receive the whole of the bail for which the undertaking had been given, pay themselves the amount of their own damage as shipowners in priority to all other claimants, & that the non-assenting cargo owners had no right to share in the fund :—Held : (1) although, as bailees of the cargo, the shipowners were entitled to recover the full value of the damage to the cargo, represented by the bail, they must account to all the owners of the damaged parcels of cargo for their share; (2) it was the duty of the ct., when the bail was recovered, to see that all persons having a claim on the fund, including the non-assenting cargo owners, shared in the distribution.—THE JOANNIS VATIS, [1922] P. 92; 91 L. J. P. 182; 120 L. T. 718; 15 Asp. M. L. C. 506, C. A.

781f. — Several salvage actions.—A vessel which had stranded on rocks & sustained heavy damage got off with the assistance of various salvors & was placed in dock for temporary repairs. In respect of these services various salvage actions & an action by the ship repairers for salvage &/or necessities were instituted. No defence was put in, but in the first action an appearance was entered & an undertaking given to put in bail for ship, cargo & freight in the sum of £1,000. The cargo & freight were valued at £327. Before the other actions were instituted the cargo had been landed & dispersed. After some temporary repairs had been effected the vessel was sold by the marshal. She only realised £889 :—Held : the bail for cargo & freight did not constitute a fund in which all the salvors could share; the undertaking was given in one action only, & plffs. in that action, in which the total values were £1,217, could treat ³²⁷1217 of £1,000 as bail representing the cargo & freight.—THE RUSSLAND, [1924] P. 55; 93 L. J. P. 18; 130 L. T. 763, 40 T. L. R. 232; 68 Sol. Jo. 324; 16 Asp. M. L. C. 288.

781g. Amount of bail—Value of ship & freight—Limit of liability—Facts disputed by plaintiffs.—If, in an action of damage by collision, the amount for which the action is brought exceeds the statutory limit provided by M. S. Act, 1894 (c. 60), s. 503, deft. shipowners on filing an affidavit in the damage action stating the tonnage of their ship & that the collision happened without their actual fault or privity, will, if these facts are not denied by plff. shipowners, be entitled to have the ship released on bail being given to an amount sufficient to cover the statutory limit, together with interest & costs. But if plffs. dispute the facts on which the right to limit liability depends, bail must be given to the full value of defts. ship.—THE CHARLOTTE, [1920] P. 78; 89 L. J. P. 62; 123 L. Security was given, but on ptfs. making a similar application defts. refused to give security on the ground that the N. was owned by the French Govt., & was not subject to arrest:—Held: the ct. had no power to order security to be given or, in default thereof, to stay defts. counterclaim.—THE NEPTUNE, [1919] P. 17; 88 L. 1047a. — For disposing fairly of cause—For saving costs.]—The owners of the steamship N., one of two ships found jointly to blame in a collision action, limited their liability & paid the amount into ct. Claims against the fund were in due course filed by the owners of the N. & the owners of the other ship, the S., & also by the owners of cargo on the S. The same solrs. presented the claims on behalf of the owners of both ships. The owners of cargo on the S., who were not parties to the collision action, then sought leave to administer four interrogatories to the owners of the S. Nos. 1 & 2 asked whether there had been, as between the owners of the two ships, a mutual abandonment of claim or a settlement on other terms. No. 3 inquired whether there had been any assignment of the claim of the owners, master, & crew of the S.; & No. 4 asked by whom the particular solrs. were instructed to present the claim of the owners of the S. The registrar allowed Nos. 1 & 2, but disallowed Nos. 3 & 4. On appeal by both sides:—Held: the first three interrogatories were necessary either for disposing fairly of the cause or matter or for saving costs, within lt. S. C., Ord. 31, r. 2, & must be allowed. No. 4 was not pressed.—THE NEDENES (1921), 41 T. L. R. 243.

The report was subsequently passed through various departments in defts. offices until it reached the solr.'s hands. It was then dealt with by the solr. in the course of his professional conduct. A report was made in these circumstances by the master of a vessel belonging to defts. in respect of a collision with ptfs. vessel. Ptfs. claimed to have this report produced to them:—Held: the report having been obtained for the solr., in the sense of being procured as materials upon which professional advice should be taken in proceedings pending or threatened or anticipated, it was privileged from production.—THE HOPPER No. 13, [1925] P. 52; 94 L. They also pleaded certain soundings which differed from those pleaded by certain of pltf's. Pltf's. by their reply joined issue upon the defence save in so far as the same consisted of admissions :—Held : pltf's. were entitled to put in the logs of defts.' vessel with a view to proving that the ship was in real danger, & also a graphic representation of the soundings based on sketches in defts.' log, but not to call evidence as to the facts, e.g. the displacement of certain tugs. THE WOODHRA (1921), 38 T. 1196 ih. ———.—Two ships collided on a very bad night. The collision was caused by the M., which was light, dragging her anchors, & coming down on the R., which was holding to her moorings. When the M. was dragging her anchors she had steam up but did not use it, by which failure she omitted to take a reasonable measure which might have avoided the accident. In an action for damages by the R. against the M. there was uncontradicted evidence to the effect that the steam had not been used because those in charge of the M. did not & could not know owing to the darkness & the weather that they were dragging their anchors. The Lord Ordinary, without expressing any opinion as to whether he credited that evidence or not, accepted an opinion expressed by the nautical assessor to the effect that it would not have been difficult for those on the M. to know that they were dragging their anchors :—Held : it was for the Lord Ordinary & not for the nautical assessor to pronounce upon the trustworthiness of that evidence, & to say whether or not the master of the M. ought to have known when his anchor began to drag, & on the ground that the evidence did not establish the fault, the M. absolved.—*CAMBO SHIPPING CO., LTD. Thereupon certain charterers, to whom the mtgcs. had chartered the ship for a term of years, intervened, claiming a declaration that the charterparty was binding on the mtgces.; & by an order of Mar. 3 the sale of the ship stood over pending the trial of the issue, upon the interveners giving security in an amount satisfactory to the registrar for loss arising from delay & any loss on sale due to a fall in shipping values. On July 15 the ct. gave judgment that plffs. were not bound by the charterparty, that they were entitled to the judgment they had obtained, & that the costs of & occasioned by the intervention should be paid by the interveners. On Oct. 14 the ship was sold by the marshal for £20,000 less than she had been valued at nine months previously. Plffs. took out a summons for further security:—Held: although judgment had been given against the interveners & they were not appealing against that decision, the matter was still at large, as they were contesting plffs.' claims before the registrar, & the interveners could be ordered to give further security in respect of possible loss of capital & interest & for the marshal's expenses; the case must be referred to the registrar to find what amount should be given & what was the amount of plffs.' damages under each head.—THE LORD

- 1520a. — Measure of compensation.—While it has always been the practice, owing to the nature of their calling, to allow seafaring witnesses to be detained on shore to give evidence, & to allow them reasonable compensation for their detention, it is a question for the taxing master whether a party who seeks to charge his opponent with the cost of detaining an expensive witness has acted reasonably in incurring the expense or whether he ought not to have examined the witness on commission. A taxing master should bear in mind that a witness duly summoned is bound to attend, & the witness is not entitled to receive, as the measure of his compensation, the exact sum he may prove he has lost by reason of the detention. He is, however, entitled to some compensation, & not merely to the conduct money given him with his subpoena; & the wages he is earning may afford an important indication of what is fair compensation. But although this is correct in the case of seamen, as regards captains & other officers, as in the case of professional witnesses, their earnings cannot be taken as a fair criterion on which to base the allowance.—THE IBIS VI., [1921] P. 255; 90 L. 1551a. — — — Unascertained liability — Right of plaintiffs in limitation suit to claim against fund.—In Feb. 1917, two Norwegian vessels, the C. & the O., came into collision & the C. sank. In Mar. 1917, the owners of the cargo laden on board the C. began an action against the owners of the O. in the Admty. Ct. The action was heard in May, 1919, when both vessels were pronounced to blame, & accordingly it was adjudged that plffs. were entitled to receive a moiety of the amount of their damage from defts. Thereupon defts., the owners of the O., commenced a limitation action against the owners of the C., the owners of her cargo, & all persons claiming to have received damage by reason of the collision. This action was heard in Feb. 1920, when a decree was pronounced limiting the liability of the owners of the O. to £8 per ton on the registered tonnage of the O. calculated in accordance with M. S. Act, 1894 (c. 60). The decree provided that all claims were to be brought in within three months & that claims not so brought in would be excluded from sharing in the limitation fund. Claims were filed by the owners of the cargo on the C., but although the owners of the C. entered an appearance they took no further steps in the limitation proceedings. Meanwhile, however, in Feb. 1919, the owners of the C. had commenced an action in Norway against the owners of the O. & in June, 1920, when the reference was held in the limitation proceedings & the registrar made his report, the trial of the Norwegian action was still pending. The owners of the O. accordingly took out a summons asking that the report be not confirmed & that they might have leave to file a claim against the fund in respect of any liability they might incur under the Norwegian proceedings. The judge declined to postpone the distribution of the fund & dismissed the summons. Plffs., the owners of the O., appealed:—Held: (1) plffs. had no absolute right under the limitation sects. of M. S. Act, 1894 (c. 60), to have the distribution of the fund stayed & to bring forward a claim when ascertained; (2) limitation proceedings do not contemplate claims by plffs., & the owners of the O. could not file a claim against the fund in their own right; (3) had an application been made in proper form the ct. would have had a discretion to extend the time before distributing the fund, in order to allow plffs. to ascertain their liability under the pending Norwegian judgment & to apply to the ct. to the distribution of the fund so that plffs. might obtain credit for the amount payable under the Norwegian judgment; but, having regard to the lapse of time & to the fact that limitation proceedings contemplate that claims shall be brought in promptly & the distribution of the fund not be unreasonably delayed, the ct. had rightly exercised its discretion in refusing to postpone the distribution of the fund. THE KRONPRINZ OLAV, [1921] P. 52; 90 L. 2 i. — — —.]—Held: in the circumstances despite the designation of deft. as agent by plff., the real relationship between the parties was that of purchaser & seller.—BRIDGEFORD v. DIXON, [1918] E. D. L. 156.—S. AF.

4 a. — — —.]—Where a consignee of goods for sale is authorised to sell them at a certain minimum price & told that whatever amount he obtains above that price will be his commission, the relationship between consignee & consignee is that of principal & agent.—REX GROCERY v. PART III.

108 i. Broker.—A broker is an agent of a special kind. A broker who approaches a buyer or seller acts in the first instance as agent of the person who employs him, but directly the other party is aware of the fact that he is a broker, he becomes the agent of both parties, not with a plenary power to bind both parties, as he chooses, but to communicate between them until they are ad idem.—JAKOBS LEVIATZ & BRAUDE v. KROONSTAD ROLLER MILLS, [1921] O. P. D. 38.—S. AF.

127a. —[.]—Pltfs. bought from the first defts. a quantity of seed under a written contract, which stated that the first defts., through the agency of the second defts., acting as del credere agents, sold the seed to pltfs. The second defts. were paid a commission by the first defts., & received nothing from pltfs. The first defts. were unable to deliver the goods. In an action for damages:—Held: as the second defts. were not in fact the agents of pltfs. but only of the first defts., & as the mere description of the second defts. as del credere agents, without any further words making them del credere agents of either party in particular, did not make them agents of pltfs., the action failed as against the second defts.—NOUVELLES HUILLERIES ANVERSOISES S. A. v. MANN (H. C.) & Co. (1924), 40 T. L. R. 804.

164a. Counsel—Signing pleadings.—B., the owner of freehold premises, agreed to sell them to E., but there was no memorandum in writing to satisfy Stat. Frauds. B. then agreed to sell the premises to G., & a valid contract was executed, which B. did not perform. G. brought an action for specific performance against B., who by her defence signed by counsel pleaded the contract with E. in terms that made the pleading a valid memorandum within the statute. G. added E. as a deft. to the action; & E., by a counterclaim, claimed specific performance of his agreement:—Held: counsel was the duly authorised agent of B. to sign the pleading & to plead the contract with E., & although the signing of a memorandum within Stat. Frauds was not in the minds of either counsel or client, the pleading, as signed by counsel before E. was a party to the action, was a valid memorandum to satisfy the statute, & E. was entitled to judgment on his counterclaim, & G.'s action against B. must be dismissed.—*GRINDELL v. PART IV. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 1.

149 iii. —[.]—Statute of Alberta, 1906 (c. 27).—It is merely the terms of the agency agreement, whether they may be meagre or detailed, that must be in writing under the above Act. The price & the other terms of the proposed sale may or may not be mentioned. If they are, in the circumstances, an essential part of the agency agreement they ought to be in writing. But it is a question of interpretation, even since the statute, whether the terms mentioned as those of the proposed sale are intended merely as a basis on which the agent may negotiate or are intended to bind the agent strictly to a sale on the named terms before he can claim his commission.—KING v. SCHON, [1918] 3 W. W. R. 892; 44 D. L. R. 111.—CAN.

149 iv. —[.]—Real Estate Commission Act, R.S.A., 1922 (c. 139), s. 2. The fact that a written instrument evidencing an agreement for the sale of land does not contain all the terms of the agreement does not prevent it being sufficient to satisfy the proviso to the above sect., if it is one which the ct. will order to be rectified to include the terms agreed on but omitted by mutual mistake, & which when so rectified will be enforceable by the parties thereto subject to such legal or equitable defences available to either of them as the agent who effected the agreement cannot be held accountable for.—HANTON v. STEPMAN, [1925] 1 W. W. R. 642.—CAN.

149 v. —[.]—Auctioneers & Commission Agents' Act, 1922, s. 23.—Sufficiency of agency contract.—So long as the relationship of principal & agent in respect of the transaction is evidenced in writing, the mischief aimed at by the above sect. has been duly met & the requirements of the sect.

satisfied, & the other terms of the agency contract may be effectively made & effectively varied verbally.—CANNIFFE v. HOWIE, [1925] S. R. Q. 121; 19 Q. J. P. 57.—AUS.

149 vi. —[.]—So long as the relation of principal & agent in respect of the transaction in question has been evidenced in writing, the requirements of the above sect. have been complied with, & any document signed by pltf. at any time before action brought, which evidences the essential fact, the existence of the relationship in respect of the transaction in question, is sufficient to comply with the Act. It is sufficient if the writing manifests a present intention of engaging or appointing the agent in respect of a transaction by any suitable words, whether contained in one document signed by deft., or in several documents, sufficiently interconnected by internal reference, either direct or inferential, one or more of which are signed by deft., manifesting such intention on his part.—*SKIFFER v. §1. —[.]—Land Agents Act, 1912—When applicable.—Dft. intimated to pltf. that he had been instructed to sell a property by private sale. Pltf., an accountant, told dft. that he could introduce a probable purchaser, & would do so if dft. would pay pltf. half the commission payable by the owner of the property to dft. in the event of a sale being effected. Dft.

agreed, & on the same day pltf. introduced B. to dft. with whom a sale was arranged. Pltf. in his evidence stated that he was not a land agent, & for the preceding five years had had no transactions for the sale of land except the one in question.—Held: the arrangement between the parties was not one of a series nor the commencement of a series of transactions, but a solitary transaction, & pltf. was not a land agent within the above Act.—COOKE v. WALLACE (1914), 33 N. Z. L. R. 1054.—N.Z.

§ii. —[.]—Land Agents Act, 1912, s. 13, applies only to persons carrying on land agency as a business, & does not extend to casual agency outside the scope of the agent's business.—LUTON v. JOHNSTONE, [1921] N. Z. L. R. 35.—N.Z.

§iii. —[.]—Effect of.—The effect of Land Agents Act, 1912, s. 13, is not to make the contract of agency illegal by reason of the want of written authority, but merely to prevent the agent from recovering his commission by action.—GLASGOW v. HOOD, [1920] N. Z. L. R. 586.—N.Z.

§iv. —[.]—Form of appointment.—An appointment of a land agent under s. 13 of the above Act must be signed by the principal himself & is not sufficient if signed by an agent on his behalf.—BUTLAND v. SAMSON, [1923] N. Z. L. R. 558.—N.Z.

SECT. 4.—AGENCY OF NECESSITY (Vol. I., p. 203).

For "See HUSBAND & WIFE; SHIPPING & NAVIGATION," substitute as follows: -

- 215a. Extent of doctrine.]- An agency of necessity can arise in other cases than that of carriers by land or sea or the acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer. Extraordinary circumstances, such as war conditions, which make it impossible for a buyer of goods on behalf of a principal abroad either to despatch them or to communicate with him, would entitle the buyer to sell the goods as an agent of necessity. But in order to establish an agency of necessity the agent must prove that there was an actual & definite commercial necessity for the sale, & that the transaction was bonâ fide in the interest of the principal.

Where an agent in London bought skins in 1915 & 1916 to be forwarded to his principal in Roumania as the principal might direct, & in consequence of the occupation of Roumania by the Germans in 1916, the agent was unable to send the skins to his principal or communicate with him, & the agent thereupon sold the skins without authority:—Held: the agent had failed to establish agency of necessity because (a) the deterioration of the furs might have been prevented by putting them in cold storage at a comparatively small expense, & moreover, they had steadily increased in value, & (b) the agent had not acted bona fide in selling the skins.—PRAGER v. BLATSPIEL, STAMP & HEACOCK, LTD., [1921] 1 K. B. 566; 93 L. J. K. B. 410; 130 L. T. 672; 40 T. L. R. 287; 68 Sol. Jo. 460.

the bank. T. in fraud of pltt. drew a cheque on pltt's account, in favour of defts. in part-payment for a motor-car which T. had obtained from them for his own purposes on the hire-purchase system. Defts. knew that the cheque was drawn by T. as agent for pltt. In an action by pltt. to recover from defts. the proceeds of the cheque :—Held : as defts. knew that the cheque was being used to liquidate the private debt of the agent, pltt. was entitled to recover.—*RECKITT v. 338a. — Authority to sign for business purposes.—Resps. had two accounts with applt. bank at Sydney in connection with a business which they there carried on. They informed the bank in writing that the two managers of their business had authority together to sign & indorse cheques, to draw & indorse promissory notes & bills of exchange, & to transact on their behalf all business connected with the accounts. Banks in Australia frequently issue to a customer, in exchange for a cheque in favour of the bank, a cheque, described as a "bank cheque," drawn by the bank on itself in favour of a person designated by him, or to bearer. In exchange for cheques drawn in favour of applt. bank by the managers, the bank issued to one of the managers bank cheques payable to a name designated by him; these cheques he fraudulently appropriated :—Held : applt. bank was not entitled to debit the bank cheques against resps. 283 li.] Applt. co. gave to H., customs broker, a power of attorney "to transact all business which" applt. co. "may have with the Collector of the Port of Montreal or relating to the Department of the Customs of the said Port . . . ratifying & confirming all that . . . said attorney & agent shall do . . ." Cheques to the order of the collector of Customs were given to H. on his requisition for the payment of duties on goods imported by applt. co., these cheques being made by the latter for fixed amounts corresponding to the invoices. Afterwards, through fraudulent devices, H., having succeeded in passing entries for much smaller sums than the quantity of goods required, induced the Customs House cashier to take the cheques thus issued by applt. co. for a higher amount than the one apparently due, & either to apply the surplus in payment of duties owing by third parties or to reimburse him in cash :—Held : (1) It was within the scope of the power of attorney given to H. by applt. co. that he should receive, in cash from the custom officials, balances of cheques delivered by him to them, after deducting the duties payable in respect of entries made by H. on behalf of applt. co.; (2) It was not within the scope of the power of attorney that he should direct the application of balances of applt. co.'s cheques in payment of duties owing by H.'s other customers.—*CANADIAN PACIFIC RY. The above price to be clear of all commission charges." The agent, within the fourteen days, signed a contract of sale by which the property was sold to pft. for £6,700, payable £1,000 deposit (£50 preliminary deposit, to be increased to £1,000 within one month), £2,250 within three months, & £3,450 within six months, possession to be given after the second payment £2,250 at the end of the three months. There was no provision for interest on the balance. Held, the document signed by defts. was not an authority to the agent to sign a contract containing the above terms as to payment. — *ROYD v. 398 m. — Contract containing penalty clause — Held, the existence of the penalty clause, which was not covered by the agent's instructions & was not separable from the remainder of the contract, justified the principal in repudiating the agent's action, & the contract must be set aside. — DE PRIZR v. Defts. were not prompt in providing funds, & pft. complained of the delay which hampered him in buying, & in order to induce him to carry out the contract, defts.' agent offered an advance of 25 cents per bushel on the contract price for four cart loads of potatoes. Held, the agent on the spot, looking after defts.' interest, had a general authority sufficiently broad to cover the making of the contract for the advanced price. — *LEGACY v. 423 iv. — Express authority to let on weekly tenancy — Lease granted for long term — Pft. was the owner of premises let to a weekly tenant. When the tenant left she recommended deft. to pft. as a tenant. Pft. never saw deft., but pft.'s husband arranged some form of lease with him, & thereafter collected the rent, which was paid monthly, on behalf of pft. & with her authority. In an action of ejectment deft. alleged that pft.'s husband had given him a lease for four years from 1st 1913, & that he was a tenant from year to year. Pft. denied any knowledge of a lease for a term, or that she had given authority to her husband to make such a lease. Held, the fact that pft.'s husband had collected her rent was no evidence that he had authority to make a lease for four years on her behalf. — *VOGE v. The agent submitted the property to pft., who elected to take a lease. The agent drew up an agreement to lease the property upon the terms mentioned by deft., & signed it on deft.'s behalf. Held, deft.'s letter did not authorise the agent to bind him by a concluded contract, but merely amounted to an authority

- 485a. ——— Improper sale.—Pltf. was the owner of the A. tapestry & the L. tapestry, & he gave to P., a dealer in antiques, a limited authority to obtain & submit offers from possible purchasers. P. falsely represented to pltf. that he could obtain £525 for the A. tapestry, & pltf. allowed him to take it away for delivery to a purchaser, who in fact did not exist. P. then sold the A. tapestry to deft. for £250. Subsequently P., who never had authority to sell the L. tapestry, stole it from pltf. & sold it to deft. In an action for conversion deft. contended that P. had been in possession of the tapestries as a mercantile agent within the Act of 1889 & that as he had bought them from P. in good faith he had acquired the property in them. He also contended that pltf. had held out P. as a person with authority to sell & was estopped from saying that P. had no such authority in fact :—Held : (1) although P.'s authority was limited, & although he was not acting for any principal other than pltf., yet these facts did not prevent him from being a mercantile agent & in the circumstances he was a mercantile agent & in possession of the A. tapestry with the consent of pltf., & as to that tapestry the defence under the Act of 1889 was established; (2) as to the L. tapestry, as P. was never in possession of it with pltf.'s consent, the defence under the Act failed, & as pltf. had never represented to deft. that P. had authority to sell it, there was no estoppel, & pltf. was entitled to recover the value of the L. tapestry alone.—*LOWTHER v. - 495a. ——— Agent obtaining possession by trick—Authority to sell—At specified price.—The owner of a motor car delivered it to a mercantile agent for sale. The owner stipulated & the agent agreed that the car should not be sold at less than a specified price without the owner's permission. The agent intended from the beginning to sell the car immediately for the best price he could get & to use the proceeds for his own purposes. On the day on which he got the car he sold it for less than the specified price to a purchaser who bought it in good faith & without notice of the agent's fraud. The agent misappropriated the proceeds. The car was subsequently purchased by deft. In an action of detinue by the owner of the car against deft. :—Held : (1) deft. acquired a good title by virtue of 1889 Act, s. 2; (2) the mercantile agent had not rendered himself liable to be convicted of larceny by a trick, inasmuch as he was authorised by pltf. to pass the property in the car to a purchaser;

495b. — To specified person—Sale to third party.—Pltf., desiring to sell his motor car for £210, & being informed by N. that he had a friend H., who would probably buy it for that price, allowed N. to have possession of the car for the sole purpose of showing it & endeavouring to sell it to H. There was no such person as H., & N. represented that there was with the intention of obtaining the car for his own benefit. N. afterwards through an intermediary sold the car to defts. for £110. Before N. got possession of the car he had been convicted of theft & other offences, but that was not known to any of the parties. While N. was in possession of the car he obtained an appointment as car salesman to a firm of motor engineers. In an action by pltf. against defts. for the return of the car or its value & damages for its detention:—Held: (1) N. had obtained the car from pltf. by larceny by a trick, pltf. never having given any real consent to his having or passing the property therein, & pltf. should succeed in the action unless defts. had some valid defence thereto; (2) defts. could not rely upon the defence that under 1889 Act, s. 2 (1), the sale to them was as valid as if the seller had been expressly authorised by pltf. to make the same, inasmuch as N. was not a "mercantile agent," & if he was, the sale by him was not a sale in the ordinary course of his business as a mercantile agent, within that sub-section; & further, because defts. had failed to satisfy the proviso to that sub-section by showing that they had not at the time of the disposition notice that N. had not authority to sell the car; & defts. had no defence to the action.

(3) Under 1889 Act, s. 2 (1), proviso, the onus is on the person taking under the disposition of the goods made by the mercantile agent of proving that he acted in good faith & without notice of the agent's want of authority, & is not upon the person whose goods have been disposed of by the agent of proving the contrary.—*HEAP v. sp. Act of 1889—"When acting in ordinary course of business" defined.—The expression "when acting in the ordinary course of business of a mercantile agent," means when acting within business hours, at a proper place of business, & in other respects in the ordinary way in which a mercantile agent would act, so that there is nothing to lead the pledgee to suppose that anything wrong is being done, or to give him notice that the disposition is one which the mercantile agent had no authority to make.—*ACME STEEL GOODS CO. st. Act of 1889—Necessity for proof of mala fides of purchaser.—Where an owner of goods, who has placed them with a mercantile agent, sues an alleged purchaser thereof from the agent for wrongful conversion, & debt, reliance [the above Act] the actual payment of money by debt. to the agent will not destroy the fact of mala fides, but the fact that the transaction is found not to have been an ordinary sale, i.e. a sale to one desirous of either using the goods or disposing of them to advantage, can of itself have a bearing only on the question of good faith, & proof of the dishonesty of the agent is not sufficient; it must be shown that debt. acted in bad faith, & the evidence should be such as to prove to the hilt the mala fides of the alleged sale.—*ACME STEEL GOODS CO. 573 i. Agent—Authority to buy at discretion—Secret limitations.—If a person desiring to buy grain arms his agent with contract form; for the purpose & sends him out to have these forms executed by vendors & with authority to sign them on his behalf subject to the verbal condition that the agent must stipulate that the contracts are not to come into effect until his principal has approved of the samples, this is a holding out that the agent has authority to make the contracts, & the principal is bound thereby though no such stipulation is made therein & no samples approved by the principal, if the vendors have no notice of such limitation of the agent's authority.—*LEED & KNABT v. In 1917, an agreement was entered into between deft. & the general manager of the owners & a third person, whereby the latter became the tenant of the licensed premises & deft. was released from all obligations under the tenancy. The licence, however, was not transferred, & deft.'s name remained painted up over the doorway. During the continuance of the new tenancy liquor as well as food was sold on the premises. Pltfs., during this period, supplied fish, fruit & vegetables to the tenant. The accounts were not fully met, & pltfs., on discovering that deft. was the licensee, which discovery was made after the goods had been supplied, sought to make him liable for the price on the ground that the tenant was either the agent of deft. by operation of law, or that deft. was estopped from denying such agency:—Held: where two people agreed that one should illegally & improperly occupy a position which could only be lawfully occupied by the other, that did not necessarily make the person occupying the position the agent for all purposes of the person who ought to be occupying it; the tenant was not in fact deft.'s agent; & as between himself & pltfs., deft. was not estopped from setting up the true state of affairs, because, whatever misrepresentations were made, they did not reach pltfs., nor cause them to act to their detriment. *MACFISHERIES, LTD. v. In an action for return of the $200, the offer not having been accepted, the trial judge found that L. when approached by pltf. sent him to D. & told him to make an offer through D.; that D. procured from pltf. a written offer to purchase at $5,000, paying part only in cash, & that offer was refused by L.; that D. obtained from pltf. a second offer to pay all cash, & this L. also refused:—Held: D. had authority to receive an offer, & as the making of a deposit was a part of that offer, D. was not going beyond his authority in receiving it.—*SILVERMAN v. Defts. nevertheless paid for coal supplied to them by ptfs. by cheques made payable to W. or order. All these cheques were duly honoured on presentation. W. paid seven of defts.' cheques into his own private account & embezzled the proceeds:—Held: as W. was authorised by ptfs. to receive payment in cash for coal supplied, & defts. had paid W. by cheques payable to his order, & the cheques were duly honoured, defts. were discharged, notwithstanding that ptfs. had notified them that all cheques must be made payable to ptfs.' order.—BRADFORD & SONS v. PART V. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 15.

804 i. Agent—Implied authority from circumstances. Husband authorised to purchase stock for wife.]—The fact that a husband was authorised to act, & has acted, as his wife's agent in the purchase of stock through brokers does not in itself justify the brokers in assuming that he is her agent to direct a sale of it; & even assuming that the rules of the stock exchange subject to which the order to purchase was placed confer on the husband authority to direct such sale, the brokers' responsibility to the wife for the proceeds of the sale is not discharged by payment to the husband unless they show that he had authority, either express or implied, to receive the money.—ANKMAN v. BURNICK BROTHERS, [1923] 4 D. L. R. 832; 3 W. W. R. 785; varying, [1923] 1 D. L. R. 1165; 31 B. C. R. 478.—CAN.

808 v. ——— Break in market.]—Instructions by an owner of wheat to his agent to "sell" without more means "sell as soon as possible," unless there is something in the circumstances or the custom of a particular trade known to both parties to give the words a different meaning. Where instructions to sell, without stipulating any price, were given after the close of the market on May 3.—Held: the agent was justified in selling without further instructions at the opening of the market on May 4, though the market had broken by reason of the Grain Exchange having withdrawn option trading & the possibility of the Govt. fixing the price.—GEARHART v. QUAKER OATS CO., [1919] 3 W. W. R. 888.—CAN.

809 ii a. ———.]—Deft. wired to S., a land agent: "Bed-rock, £13,250 net, £400 down, stock & furniture at valuation." S. replied, "Your wire says £100 down; suppose you mean £1,000, wire us giving authority to sell if we can get your net price." Deft. then wired, "Four thousand down. Sell if you can get my net price." S. replied, "Have sold in accordance with your wire, freehold for £13,750, stock & furniture at valuation, showing you £13,250 net, £1,000 to be paid down, balance to be arranged on mtge. by you. Possession as soon as license granted, not *later than Aug. 20, £500 deposit paid."—Held: S. had no authority to sell on the terms on which he did sell.—PRINGLE v. McKAY, [1922] N. Z. L. R. 818.—N.Z.

815 iii a. ———.]—GLADHART v. QUAKER OATS CO (1918), 42 D. L. R. 791.—CAN.

815 iii b. ———.]—A land agent, whom ptff. had informed of his willingness to sell a property for £900, obtained an offer of £825 & telegraphed it to ptff., but through a mistake in transmission the message as delivered to ptff. mentioned £925 as the amount of offer. Ptff. telegraphed his acceptance without naming an amount. The offer having been withdrawn, the agent agreed to sell the property to ptff. for £825, & let him into possession. On the tender of the formal contract to ptff. for execution a month later he learned about the mistake in the telegram for the first time & refused to complete.—Held: the specific authority originally given to the agent did not authorise the sale of ptff.'s property for less than £900, & no land agent as such is held out as having a general authority on behalf of his client to sell on any terms or at any price.—SHORTAL v. BUCHANAN, [1920] N. Z. L. R. 103.—N.Z.

815 v. ———.]—Ptffs., an incorporated co., owning lots of land, appointed C. their general manager to supervise the sale of the lots. In the agreement between ptffs. & C. it was provided that he had no authority to make any representation as to ptffs.' properties other than those contained in their printed matter, & that he should have authority to accept offers for the purchase of lots according to ptffs.' price-list. Ptffs. employed G. to sell their lots. G. in Mar. 1914, telephoned to ptffs.' office & induced ptff. to buy two of the lots, upon the express agreement that ptffs. would resell the lots not later than Aug. 1914, at a profit of $100 on each lot; G. informed ptff. that he was authorised by C. to make this arrangement. C. was present when G. was telephoning, & heard what G. said; C. told G. that he should not have said that ptffs. would resell

*the lots; but, according to the testimony of G., C. himself was not called as a witness, C. ratified the representation made in his name & ostensibly by his authority. Held: C., as general manager, had ostensible authority to make or ratify the collateral agreement, & any secret restriction of his authority would not affect ptff. who relied upon his being the general manager.—CAYMAN v. ALBERT, SEGUIN & CO., [1918] 13 O. W. N. 355; 14 O. W. N. 71; 45 D. L. R. 20.—CAN.

817 ii. ——— Implied authority.]—A broker who had purchased corn on margin for a customer. Held: justified in selling on the customer failing to forward margin money when a slump occurred in the market price, on a general condition of the broker transacting such business being that he reserved the right to close transactions without further notice when margins were unsatisfactory, which condition the customer must have been known to the customer who had been for some time a "room trader" & dealer on a larger scale in the broker's office.—MALLOO v. BICKELL, [1920] 1 W. W. R. 407; 50 D. L. R. 590; 17 O. W. N. 291; 59 S. C. R. 429.—CAN.

817 iii. ——— Authority to find purchaser.]—On Jan. 20, 1920, ptff. handed to his brokers a letter in those terms: "I authorise you to procure a buyer of the above premises for Rs. 45,000 & on your sending same, I shall pay you as remuneration at 1 per cent. on the purchase-money. The same will be paid at the registration of the conveyance, otherwise not." The offer contained in the letter was accepted by ptff. & thereupon the fact of such acceptance was communicated on the same day to ptffs. Held: the offer contained in the letter amounted only to an offer to be put into touch with intending buyers of the premises & it was in no sense an authority to the brokers to sell ptffs.' property or an offer on the part of the vendor to sell the premises to whoever might be brought in touch with the vendor by the brokers.—PURNA CHANDRA DUTT v. - 834b. ———.]—The mere employment of an estate agent by an owner to dispose of a house confers no authority to make a contract. The agent is solely employed to find some one to negotiate with the owner. But if the agent is definitely instructed to sell at a certain price, those instructions involve authority to make a binding contract & to sign an agreement.

The defence was that the agents had a limited authority to state a price only. The premises had been offered for sale by auction by order of the mtgees. under particulars & conditions of sale referred to in the correspondence on Jan. 18. H. & R. inclosed plan & auction particulars to plffs. stating in their letter that their client would be willing to sell the freehold at £550.

sk. Solicitor—Authority to receive tenders—Tenders to be sent either to agent or principal. Exors. gave instructions to solrs. to advertise for tenders for a property & they told the solrs. to insert in the advertisement a notice to the effect that tenders might be sent either to the solrs. or to either of the exors.; this latter the solrs. did not do. A tender was received by the solrs. & forwarded by them to the exors. & they wrote acknowledging the receipt thereof. Some days later the tenant of the property forwarded a tender to one of the exors., who did not communicate with his co-exor. or the solrs. about it. The solrs., having heard no more from the exors. entered into a contract to sell the property to the person who made the first tender.—Held: the solrs. had no authority to give notice to the person making the first offer that his tender was accepted.—DEANS v. OUK (1922), 63 D. L. R. 720.—CAN.

a. Transpose lines 5 & 6 of this paragraph.

On Jan. 27, plffs. offered $400. On the 28th H. & R. submitted that offer to the first deft., & asked for her instructions. On Feb. 8, the first deft.'s husband communicated with H. & R. over the telephone, & on Feb. 10, they wrote to plffs. stating that their client would not accept $400, & that "we are now authorised to close with you if you will increase your offer to $450." Plffs., on Feb. 14, wrote to H. & R. referring to the letter of Feb. 10, & stating "we are prepared to accept your offer of this property agreeing to the price of $450. Kindly forward the contract in due course." On Feb. 17, H. & R. wrote informing the first deft. that, as instructed by her husband, they had offered the property to plffs. for $450, & that plffs. had agreed to buy. The second deft. was prepared to purchase the property from the mtgees. at a price more than $450:—Held: the agents had authority to conclude the contract, & plffs. were entitled to judgment for specific performance of it.—*ALLEN & Co., LTD. v. 1033a. — After issue of notice to abate—Before institution of proceedings.]—By a bye-law of the city council of W., which was the sanitary authority of W., it was provided that whenever the council was in vacation the mayor & the chairmen of the respective committees of the council might give such instructions as were requisite with respect to any matter of an urgent nature, provided that all such acts were in due course reported to the council. The council of W. held no meeting between July 26, 1917, & Oct. 18, 1917—the summer vacation, & the public health committee of the council did not sit between July 17, 1917, & Oct. 9, 1917. On July 17, 1917, the public health committee passed a resolution appointing its chairman, & in his absence the acting vice-chairman, to deal with all urgent matters on behalf of the committee during the summer vacation. This resolution was reported to the council & approved by them on July 26, 1917. About the middle of Sept. 1917, the medical officer of health, being satisfied that a nuisance existed upon certain premises in the district of the council & city of W., caused a written notice of the fact of its existence to be served on the owner of the premises under Public Health London Act, 1891 (c. 76), s. 3. As the nuisance was not abated, the matter was reported by the medical officer to the chairman of the public health committee, & the latter, considering that the matter was urgent, & acting under the authority conferred upon him by the resolution of the public health committee, which had been confirmed by the council, as before stated, directed that a notice should be served upon the owner of the premises requiring him to abate the nuisance in accordance with the provisions of sect. 4 of the Act. This notice, which was issued in due form, was served upon the owner on Sept. 25, 1917. This action of the chairman was reported to the public health committee at their first meeting after the summer vacation, on Oct. 9, 1917, & approved by them, & the matter was later on, on Oct. 18, 1917, reported to & approved by the council. As the nuisance still continued, proceedings were taken against the owner by the sanitary inspector, & on Dec. 5, 1917, an order was made for its abatement by the magistrate who heard the complaint. The owner thereupon applied for & was granted a rule nisi for certiorari to quash the order of the magistrate on the ground that the same was made without jurisdiction, the notice of Sept. 25, 1917, not having been given by the authority or direction of the council or of the public health committee, or after consideration by them in pursuance of Public Health London Act, 1891 (c. 76), s. 4 (1):—Held: as the act of the duly authorised agent of the council, namely, the chairman of the public health committee, appointed to act in urgent matters during the vacation under the bye-law & in pursuance of the resolution of the committee subsequently ratified by the council, was reported to & approved & ratified by the council prior to the institution of proceedings against the owner of the premises, the ratification related back to the time of the doing of the act in question, namely, the serving of the notice of Sept. 25, 1917, & the magistrate had jurisdiction to make the order of Dec. 5, 1917.—*R. v. 10861. Purchase — Acceptance of goods bought.—Where an agent, authorized to buy goods of a certain kind, buys goods of a different kind, if the principal for whom they are bought, though repudiating the contract and returning most of the goods, keeps part of them, he thereby does an act in relation to the goods which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller, & so accepts them, and so doing makes the purchase absolute. 10 N. E. 2d 1007, 1010, 1011, 1012, 1013, 1014, 1015, 1016, 1017, 1018, 1019, 1020, 1021, 1022, 1023, 1024, 1025, 1026, 1027, 1028, 1029, 1030, 1031, 1032, 1033, 1034, 1035, 1036, 1037, 1038, 1039, 1040, 1041, 1042, 1043, 1044, 1045, 1046, 1047, 1048, 1049, 1050, 1051, 1052, 1053, 1054, 1055, 1056, 1057, 1058, 1059, 1060, 1061, 1062, 1063, 1064, 1065, 1066, 1067, 1068, 1069, 1070, 1071, 1072, 1073, 1074, 1075, 1076, 1077, 1078, 1079, 1080, 1081, 1082, 1083, 1084, 1085, 1086, 1087, 1088, 1089, 1090, 1091, 1092, 1093, 1094, 1095, 1096, 1097, 1098, 1099, 1100, 1101, 1102, 1103, 1104, 1105, 1106, 1107, 1108, 1109, 1110, 1111, 1112, 1113, 1114, 1115, 1116, 1117, 1118, 1119, 1120, 1121, 1122, 1123, 1124, 1125, 1126, 1127, 1128, 1129, 1130, 1131, 1132, 1133, 1134, 1135, 1136, 1137, 1138, 1139, 1140, 1141, 1142, 1143, 1144, 1145, 1146, 1147, 1148, 1149, 1150, 1151, 1152, 1153, 1154, 1155, 1156, 1157, 1158, 1159, 1160, 1161, 1162, 1163, 1164, 1165, 1166, 1167, 1168, 1169, 1170, 1171, 1172, 1173, 1174, 1175, 1176, 1177, 1178, 1179, 1180, 1181, 1182, 1183, 1184, 1185, 1186, 1187, 1188, 1189, 1190, 1191, 1192, 1193, 1194, 1195, 1196, 1197, 1198, 1199, 1200, 1201, 1202, 1203, 1204, 1205, 1206, 1207, 1208, 1209, 1210, 1211, 1212, 1213, 1214, 1215, 1216, 1217, 1218, 1219, 1220, 1221, 1222, 1223, 1224, 1225, 1226, 1227, 1228, 1229, 1230, 1231, 1232, 1233, 1234, 1235, 1236, 1237, 1238, 1239, 1240, 1241, 1242, 1243, 1244, 1245, 1246, 1247, 1248, 1249, 1250, 1251, 1252, 1253, 1254, 1255, 1256, 1257, 1258, 1259, 1260, 1261, 1262, 1263, 1264, 1265, 1266, 1267, 1268, 1269, 1270, 1271, 1272, 1273, 1274, 1275, 1276, 1277, 1278, 1279, 1280, 1281, 1282, 1283, 1284, 1285, 1286, 1287, 1288, 1289, 1290, 1291, 1292, 1293, 1294, 1295, 1296, 1297, 1298, 1299, 1300, 1301, 1302, 1303, 1304, 1305, 1306, 1307, 1308, 1309, 1310, 1311, 1312, 1313, 1314, 1315, 1316, 1317, 1318, 1319, 1320, 1321, 1322, 1323, 1324, 1325, 1326, 1327, 1328, 1329, 1330, 1331, 1332, 1333, 1334, 1335, 1336, 1337, 1338, 1339, 1340, 1341, 1342, 1343, 1344, 1345, 1346, 1347, 1348, 1349, 1350, 1351, 1352, 1353, 1354, 1355, 1356, 1357, 1358, 1359, 1360, 1361, 1362, 1363, 1364, 1365, 1366, 1367, 1368, 1369, 1370, 1371, 1372, 1373, 1374, 1375, 1376, 1377, 1378, 1379, 1380, 1381, 1382, 1383, 1384, 1385, 1386, 1387, 1388, 1389, 1390, 1391, 1392, 1393, 1394, 1395, 1396, 1397, 1398, 1399, 1400, 1401, 1402, 1403, 1404, 1405, 1406, 1407, 1408, 1409, 1410, 1411, 1412, 1413, 1414, 1415, 1416, 1417, 1418, 1419, 1420, 1421, 1422, 1423, 1424, 1425, 1426, 1427, 1428, 1429, 1430, 1431, 1432, 1433, 1434, 1435, 1436, 1437, 1438, 1439, 1440, 1441, 1442, 1443, 1444, 1445, 1446, 1447, 1448, 1449, 1450, 1451, 1452, 1453, 1454, 1455, 1456, 1457, 1458, 1459, 1460, 1461, 1462, 1463, 1464, 1465, 1466, 1467, 1468, 1469, 1470, 1471, 1472, 1473, 1474, 1475, 1476, 1477, 1478, 1479, 1480, 1481, 1482, 1483, 1484, 1485, 1486, 1487, 1488, 1489, 1490, 1491, 1492, 1493, 1494, 1495, 1496, 1497, 1498, 1499, 1500, 1501, 1502, 1503, 1504, 1505, 1506, 1507, 1508, 1509, 1510, 1511, 1512, 1513, 1514, 1515, 1516, 1517, 1518, 1519, 1520, 1521, 1522, 1523, 1524, 1525, 1526, 1527, 1528, 1529, 1530, 1531, 1532, 1533, 1534, 1535, 1536, 1537, 1538, 1539, 1540, 1541, 1542, 1543, 1544, 1545, 1546, 1547, 1548, 1549, 1550, 1551, 1552, 1553, 1554, 1555, 1556, 1557, 1558, 1559, 1560, 1561, 1562, 1563, 1564, 1565, 1566, 1567, 1568, 1569, 1570, 1571, 1572, 1573, 1574, 1575, 1576, 1577, 1578, 1579, 1580, 1581, 1582, 1583, 1584, 1585, 1586, 1587, 1588, 1589, 1590, 1591, 1592, 1593, 1594, 1595, 1596, 1597, 1598, 1599, 1600, 1601, 1602, 1603, 1604, 1605, 1606, 1607, 1608, 1609, 1610, 1611, 1612, 1613, 1614, 1615, 1616, 1617, 1618, 1619, 1620, 1621, 1622, 1623, 1624, 1625, 1626, 1627, 1628, 1629, 1630, 1631, 1632, 1633, 1634, 1635, 1636, 1637, 1638, 1639, 1640, 1641, 1642, 1643, 1644, 1645, 1646, 1647, 1648, 1649, 1650, 1651, 1652, 1653, 1654, 1655, 1656, 1657, 1658, 1659, 1660, 1661, 1662, 1663, 1664, 1665, 1666, 1667, 1668, 1669, 1670, 1671, 16

1100 iv. — Paid by cheque of unauthorised agent — S. took part in the negotiations for the sale of an engine by applt. to resp., but was not applt.'s agent either to effect the sale or to collect the purchase-money. After the sale resp. paid the money to S., thinking that he was applt.'s agent, & a few days later S. told applt. that he had received the money but could not pay it over to him, & asked to pay it to some one to whom applt. agreed. After several applications from applt. S. handed him a cheque for the balance shown to be due in an accompanying statement, in which S. debited himself with interest & took credit for commission. Applt. accepted the cheque & paid it into his account, but it was dishonoured & he then sued resp. for the purchase-money. Held, resp. applt.'s adoption of the cheque was evidence of S.'s unauthorised act evidencing his ratification of S.'s unauthorised act in receiving the money. — *McEWAN v. 1184 v. — — — Goods not in accordance with order.]—Defts gave to plff. a written order to ship from England on account of defts. one thousand two-gallon and two hundred & fifty three-gallon stoneware jars. Plff. ordered jars from a manufacturer in England to be shipped in performance of this order. Two lots were shipped & delivered to defts. the paid for them. Delivery of the 1st lot, which comprised thirty-nine three-gallon & three hundred & forty-two two-gallon jars, was refused by defts on the ground that there were twenty-three more of the three-gallon jars & twenty-five less of the two-gallon jars than had been ordered, & also that the mouths of a large number of the jars were not of the specified size :—
Held: plff. was under a duty to purchase goods for the purpose of the description ordered, & his failure to do so amounted to a breach of duty.

1243a. — Extent of liability.—Pltf. employed deft., a chartered accountant, to investigate the affairs of a co. in which he was interested. In a letter of instructions to deft. pltf. inserted libellous statements concerning two officials of the co. Deft. handed the letter to his partner, who negligently left it at the co.'s office. The manager found it, read it, & communicated its contents to the two persons defamed, each of whom sued pltf. for libel & obtained judgment against him for damages & costs. Pltf. then sought to recover from deft. the amount which he had paid for damages & costs in the libel actions as damages for breach of an implied duty to keep secret the letter of instructions:—Held: pltf.'s liability for damages in the libel actions did not result from deft.'s breach of duty, & deft. was liable for nominal damages only.—*WELLD-BLUNDELL v. The entries in the books were falsely made by a fraudulent clerk, whose defalcations were not discovered, as they would have been if the entries in the books had been checked by reference to the pass-book:—Held: (1) the accountants were negligent; (2) they were liable in damages for the amount of the defalcations of each year which would have been discovered if the proper steps had been taken as to the pass-book.—*FOX & SON v. 1214 iv. — Neiglaent misrepresentation.—An agent who induces his duty to his principal in breach of his duty by negligent misrepresentation to enter into a contract is liable to make good to his principal the loss arising therefrom.

1245 iv. — *A law-agent, to whom a client entrusted money for investment on heritable security to yield 5 per cent., invested £1,000 of the amount in 1903 on a heritable bond which bore to be secured over tenement property, & £200 on a postponed bond over other subjects. These properties both belonged to another client of the agent's firm, who, in 1905, died insolvent, & heavily indebted to the firm. He had granted an ex facie absolute disposition of the tenement property in favour of the firm prior in date to the bond for £1,000, which* loan was accordingly not validly secured; & the postponed bond for £200 was worthless, as the prior bond exhausted the value of the security subjects. None of these facts were communicated to the lender:—Held: while the agents were not guilty of negligence in investing the money as they did in 1903, in view of the fact that they were called upon to obtain a 5 per cent. investment they were guilty of negligence upon the death of the borrower in 1905, in respect that, a conflict of interest having then arisen between them & the lender in connection with the £1,000 bond, they failed to inform their client of the position, failed to realise her investments, & failed to advise her to seek independent legal advice.—*WERNHAM v. 1260 I. Factor.—Where advances are made by a factor on the security of a world commodity, such as grain, consigned to him for sale, it is his duty to deal with the goods in such a way as to guard, not only himself, but the principal also, against loss. There is implied in every such transaction a right on the part of the factor to realise on his security whenever the exigency of the case demands it.—UNITED GRAIN GROWERS, LTD. v. MAREY, [1925] 1 D. L. R. 301; [1925] 1 W. W. R. 19.—CAN.

1262 ii. — Extent of duties.—If a local agent is entrusted by an absent owner with looking after & renting a furnished house, then, although he is not an insurer of the safety of the property, he must use reasonable care & diligence in its protection & preservation, & if he fails to do so he will be liable for the resulting loss. If furniture disappears or is damaged beyond reasonable wear & tear, he is prima facie liable to account for it. Evidence sufficient to excuse him from liability would in some instances be quite light, in others more burdensome, depending on such questions as the checking over or not of the articles of the furniture, the character of the tenants & the constituents of the tenant's family, the value & nature of the missing articles, etc.

When the owner claims damages against the agent for lost or damaged articles the question of liability may be directly involved in regard to each article, & that liability is a question for the judge, & in such case the value of any article or the damage done to it can be most conveniently determined by the judge when deciding the question of liability, rather than by a referee.—CARLILE v. NORTHERN TRUSTS CO., [1924] 2 W. W. R. 961.—CAN.

selling the cotton which he had bought for applt. He sold (inter alia) two lots of foreign cotton to different jobbers at the respective market prices of the day & immediately bought back from the same jobbers at the same prices equivalent amounts of cotton of the same description. The broker having assigned his property for the benefit of his creditors, resp. as trustee of the deed of assignment, sued applt to enforce the broker's claim to be indemnified. 1594 III. — — — — —]—Held: pltf. could not recover any commission, because he was in a position where his interest was opposed to that of his principal, so that he had a temptation not to perform faithfully his duty, & failed to disclose the facts.—D'ARCY v. LAND (1920), 47 N. B. R. 203; 52 D. L. R. 660.—CAN.

sj. — Agent to raise money advancing sum himself.]—Under a contract between a principal & a financial agent, by which the agent agrees to raise sums of money for the principal upon first & second mortgages, at stated rates of interest, of the principal's land, it is not illegal for the agent to find the money himself, unless there is a special stipulation to the contrary; the fact of the rates of interest being specified

mi. — Agent acting for both parties.]—The rules applicable to agents for the sale of land do not apply to a middleman employed merely to bring the vendor & purchaser together to enable them to make their own bargain; neither such a middleman nor the vendor is obliged to inform the purchaser of the payment by the vendor of a commission for introducing the purchaser.—(CLARK v. afterwards purported to repudiate the contract, wrongfully, as the judge found. During the pendency of an action by him for the recovery of the deposit pltf. died, & his exors. were substituted as pltf.s., & they then discovered that at the time the contract was entered into deft. had promised, without the knowledge of pltf., to give pltf.'s chauffeur a share of the profit on the sale of the car if pltf. bought it. On the ground of that secret arrangement the exors. now sought to avoid the contract & to recover the deposit:—Held: the surreptitious dealing between deft. & pltf.'s chauffeur was a fraud on pltf.; the fact that pltf., when he purported to repudiate the contract, was not aware of the fraud, did not prevent his exors. from now relying upon it; & they were entitled on the ground of the fraud to avoid the contract & to recover the deposit.—ALEXANDER v. sm. Agent to do repairs—Agent doing work himself.]—Defts., house-agents, acted as agents for pltf. to collect the rents & to do the necessary repairs to her property. Defts. were originally appointed in 1908, & up to 1911 had the repairs executed by outside contractors. In 1911 defts. opened their own repairs yard, did the repairs themselves, & charged the "usual trade prices," which included a profit. Quarterly statements of account were regularly furnished by defts. to pltf. from the commencement of the agency. Pltf. claimed to have the accounts reopened on the ground that she had been charged a secret profit by defts. on the repairs executed by them in addition to their commission.—Held: as pltf. knew & approved of the repair work being executed by defts., & defts. had made sufficient disclosure to pltf. that they were charging a profit, & the charges were not shown to have been unfair or unusual, pltf. was not entitled to have the accounts reopened.—SHERARD v. 1864 xiv c. —.—[Under an oral agency agreement an agent claimed commission for selling at a lump sum certain property. Shortly before the trial, Alberta Stat. 1906, c. 27, was amended:—Held: (1) the amending Act did not apply to an agreement made before its passing; (2) the agent was entitled to compensation, fixed at the commission rate for the proportionate value of the goods, for sale of the chattels.—FILEAU & DUBOIS v. NRSBUTT, [1920] 2 W. W. R. 892; 53 D. L. R. 614; 15 Alta. L. R. 522.—CAN.]

1664 xiv d. —. —.]—An agreement for the exchange of lands was on a principal form on one side of a sheet of paper, but in two parts, the one called the offer & the other the acceptance, the one being placed immediately above the other; the lower part only signed by deft., & the upper was signed only by the person with whom deft. was making the exchange. The upper part contained a clause by which the person signing was to pay "the regular commission"; & the lower part, signed by deft., contained the words "I agree to pay a commission of 26,000 s. a 2^d part of the exchange of the agreement to pltf. :—Held : the agreement to pay pltf. a commission did not satisfy Stat. Frauds, s. 13, as enacted by 6 Geo. 5, c. 24, s. 19, & amended by 8 Geo. 5, c. 20, s. 58, for the agreement was not in writing separate from the sale agreement, & an affidavit that the agreement could not be maintained.—*Davis v. 1864 xiv g. —.]—Held: an addition to Stat. Frauds was not retrospective, & was no bar to an action based upon an agreement not in writing entered into before its enactment.

An Act which is a bar to an action to recover an agent's commission unless the agreement therefor be in writing is also a bar, where such agreement is not in writing, to an action by him to recover damages from his principal for preventing him from earning the commission.—SMITH v. 1684 xxiii. ————]. Deft. listed lands with pft. for sale, & pft. negoti- ated with three soldiers, although, apparently, pft. did not get into touch with the soldiers until after July 7, 1910, when the above Act came into force. Eventually the land was sold direct by the Soldier Settle- ment Board to the soldiers & pft. claimed commission from deft.:—Held: pft. not entitled to commission. —TODD v. POTVIN, [1922] 1 W. W. Board at the specified price of $3,800.
Deft. agreed to purchase at $3,800.
The Board refused to pay more than $3,200. Deft. then arranged with the owner that the latter should transfer the lands to the Board for $3,200, which was subsequently done, & he agreed to give, & did give, his promissory note for the balance of $600 as a consideration & as in increase in price
—Held: the above sect. did not apply.

1864 xxv. —.]—In order to found a legal claim for commission there must not only be a causal, but also a contractual, relation between the introduction & the ultimate transaction of sale. Where there is no employment to sell express or implied, there can be no claim to remuneration. —WREDEEN v. TURNER (1922). 68 D. L. R. 748; [1922] 3 W. W. R. 623. —CAN.

1871 viii. — In the absence of an express contract as to the commission which a real estate agent is to receive, he is entitled to a reasonable remuneration having regard to the circumstances of the particular case. The fact that the agents in a certain town have established a custom among themselves as to the rate of commission, does not render such custom binding upon those who do business with them in the absence of notice, express or implied, that the charges for their services are to be based on such custom.—GARLAND v. NEWMAN (1922), 66 D. L. R. 770; 32 Man. L. R. 1; [1922] 1 W. W. R. 867.—CAN.

1871 ix. — When implied contract negatived.—Def't. advertised his business for sale in a local newspaper. The following day pl'tfs. having seen the advertisement, called on def't. & inquired the price. Pl'tfs. then entered into communication with A., who ultimately bought the business:—Held: def't. had never considered that he was employing pl'tfs. to act as his agents, & pl'tfs. had failed to prove any implied contract by def't. to remunerate them.—(CHAPLE v MOSS, [1920] 22 W. A. L. R. 74.—AUS.)

1671 x. — — — — —. — Plff. was asked by defts. to find a purchaser for a wagon, & he succeeded in introducing to defts. H., who bought the wagon from them. Defts. denied that it was agreed that plff. should be paid a commission, but it was admitted that they knew that he received commission for wagons sold by him. H. stated that he was sent to defts. by plff. & would not have bought the wagon if he had not been persuaded by plff. to do so:—Held: an agreement to pay commission was implied.—NICHOLAS v. DUMOULIN (1919), 46 D. L. R. 687.—CAN.

1871 xi. --- - - -.]—An implied contract to pay a real estate agent a commission for his services if he found a purchaser for a property is negatived by the fact that the owner refused to list the property with him, although she gave him the terms upon which she was willing to sell.—TOLLEY & CO. v. SKUEL (1922), 63 D. L. R. 602.—CAN.

1671 xii. — [J.] — It is not a general principle of law that whenever a man having found out from the owner of property the terms upon which it can be sold or leased, produces a third party who will buy or lease on those terms, he thereby & without more entitles himself to payment of a commission by such owner. There must be, in addition to this, an intimation to the owner that a commission would be expected from him in the event of a sale or lease being effected upon the terms stated. The intimation of expectancy of a commission is not necessary by the owner who permits the other to go to the trouble of finding a customer in the expectation of earning a commission, may well be a fact from which a promise to pay a commission may be inferred. A mere volunteer who acts as a go-between between buyer & seller & ultimately produces a sale cannot upon that fact alone found a legal claim for commission, nor can a third party, who acting for a possible purchaser, obtains from a property owner terms of sale or lease & thus brings about a sale or lease, claim a commission on those identical terms legally claim a commission from the owner in the absence of some promise to pay a commission, either express or implied. — CHAMBERLIN v. MAW (1922), 88 D. L. R. 764; [1922] 1 W. W. R. 299. — CAN.

1879 iv. — Out of what fund payable.—The agent is entitled to pay himself his commission out of any money paid to him by his principal, without any appropriation by the latter. The right, however, does not extend to any sum paid to the agent by some third person on behalf of the principal. —GLASGOW v. HOOD, [1920] N. Z. L. R. 586. —N.Z.

1879 vi. ————.]—When a deposit on a sale of land is paid to a land agent he must pay it over to him on demand, subject to the agent's right to apply the same in payment of expenses, commission, or other charges incidental to the sale; but commission which is made irrecoverable by law is not a just allowance deductible by the agent.—*BUCHANAN v. 5th. Amount of remuneration—Sale of mortgaged property—As if free from incumbrances [—] Resp. placed a farm in the hands of applts. for sale or exchange & undertook to should any sale or exchange be effected by them, to pay commission at specified rates. Applts. found a purchaser for the property & an agreement was executed whereby resp. agreed to sell the property "as if free from incumbrances." Applts. sued for commission on the full value of resp's property unincumbered, but the magistrate held them entitled only to commission on the value of the equity of redemption: - Held: commission was payable on the gross price of the property sold. - KAYE & PRATT v. § 60.—1st—In case for commission on sale.—Taylor v. Hanning, 84 N. H., 179, 180, 181.—When in an action for commission on a sale the principal's pleadings deny the agreement for sale, such denial indicates his repudiation of the agreement to pay the agent, & under the doctrine of anticipatory breach, the latter, on proving his right to the commission, is entitled to judgment for the whole amount thereof, even though under the agreement he was to be paid in installments at dates which are yet in futuro. 1893 xiv. —.] — An auctioneer was employed to sell property by auction on condition that if the reserve price was not reached no commission was to be charged. The reserve price not being reached, the property was not sold. A prospective purchaser, who was present at the auction & who knew who the owner of the property was, was about to approach the owner after the conclusion of the auction with a view to negotiating for the purchase of the property when the auctioneer formally withdrew therefrom. After protracted negotiations the prospective purchaser bought the property:—Held: the auctioneer's agency terminated the moment he failed to sell by auction.—

1702 xl. —.]—Plff. as agent for the owner of certain property introduced it to A.. The owner was asking $175. per week. Plff. gave A. the key, which was a label bearing only the name of the owner. A. told plff. the property was unsuitable, & returned the key. About a fortnight later A., through seeing the owner's name on the label & consulting the telephone directory, discovered the owner's address, & met him to discuss the letting of the property, but did not tell him that she had seen plff. After negotiations between A. & the owner extending over some days, the owner agreed to let the property for $125. per week for twelve months at $13 1/3s. per week. Held: plff. was entitled to commission. —SYMONS v. CAILLIE, [1923] V. L. R. 49.—AUS.

1702 sh. ———.—Deft. gave to p[er]s. written authority to sell her land on terms, one of which was price, very lowest, £10,000. P[er]s. brought the property under the notice of the court, and into personal communication with deft., decided that it would suit him in every way, except as to price. After a delay of some weeks deft. & A. resumed negotiations, which led to a sale of the property to A for £7,300.—Held the relation of buyer & seller was really brought about by p[er]s., who were entitled to commission.—BURTON v. 1706 xix. —. —. —.]—Deft. listed a property with pltfs. with instructions to find a purchaser at the price of $5,000. A month later deft. listed the property with another broker at $1,750, the second broker having his offices across the hall from pltfs.' offices in the same building. Pltfs. interested in the property & brought her to view it. Shortly after S. went her to pltfs.' offices with a view to purchasing, & when about to enter the offices saw a picture of the property in the window across the hall marked for sale at $1,750. She went into pltfs.' offices, discussed the sale but went out without making the purchase, crossed the hall & purchased the property from the second broker at $1,750.—Held: pltfs. were entitled to their commission.—THURMAN v. AKIN & CO. v. FIELD (1923), 33 B. C. R. 56.—CAN.

1706 xx. —. —. —.]—Pltf. received written authority from deft. to enter into a contract with a purchaser for the sale of his farm & stock. The info. of remuneration was stated to be a certain percentage on the value of the land sold. Pltf. introduced the property to a prospective buyer, who ultimately purchased the property, but through the instrumentality of another agent. Pltf. claimed from deft. £171 19s. in respect of the land sold, & £65 in respect of the stock & implements. The jury found that the sale had resulted from the introduction of the purchaser from pltf.:—Held: pltf.'s right to commission depended on the terms of his authority, & this did not authorise any commission on the sale of the stock.—ROWL v. BUFLER, [1921] N. Z. L. R. 437.—N.Z.

1706 xxi. —. —. —.]—Deft. agreed to pay pltf. commission if a sale of deft.'s house to X., who was introduced by pltf., went through. Deft. also agreed to let pltf. know should he be prepared to sell his house for a smaller amount than he had mentioned to pltf. Deft. subsequently instructed another attorney to offer the house to X. at a reduced price, & a sale was thereupon concluded.—Held: pltf. was entitled to the commission agreed upon.—VAN DER WALT v. HOFMEYER, [1920] C. P. D. 50.—S. AF.

1706 xxii. —. —. —.]—A. agreed to give B. a commission in case of a sale of certain premises. B. introduced C., but no sale resulted. C., of his own motion & not as an agent of B., subsequently introduced D., & A. sold the premises to D.:—Held: B. was 1729 III.—Sale of remainder of land.—Pltf. employed deft. to sell a house & portion of the block of land on which it stood. Dft. found a purchaser & a contract of sale was signed under which pltf. gave the purchaser certain provisional rights over the unsold portion. Afterwards pltf. endeavoured to obtain from the purchaser a modification of the contract with regard to the rights over the unsold portion, & deft. did considerable work in trying to induce the purchaser to vary the contract in this respect. During the negotiations deft. repeatedly urged pltf. to sell the whole of the land. Negotiations having failed pltf. behind the back of deft. sold the remainder of the land to the original purchaser & the whole was included in a single transfer:—Held: deft. was not entitled to commission on the sale.—*MCANDREW v. sa. Transaction similar — Further sale.—A. in 1911 employed pltf. to sell a Crown lease, & an agreement was entered into which provided that if pltf. sold the lease for £25,000 he was to receive £5,000. In 1914 through the instrumentality of pltf. the lease was transferred to B. & C. on payment by S. of £5,000, pltf. received £1,000 as commission. In 1919 A. & S. sold the lease to T. for £14,000. Some years prior to this sale pltf. had submitted full particulars of the lease to T., who would not then buy. L., who was employed for that purpose by A. & S., had brought about the sale to T. Pltf. claimed commission in respect of the sale to T.:—Held: pltf. was not entitled to commission.—DEWDNEY v. MATTHESON, [1923] S. A. S. R. 105.—AUS.

pl.—Pltf. claimed for commission on sale of timber holdings of deft. co. The shareholders had passed a resolution authorising a sale at a fixed minimum price upon terms agreeable to the directors, & a letter from the co.'s managing director to pltf. offered $35,000 commission should pltf. make a sale at a certain named price, which price would not be so such minimum price. A sale was made through other agents, not for a lump sum, but for a price based on board measurement to be paid for as the timber was taken, with an additional sum to be paid when the timber had been logged:—Held: the sale was not a sale within the contract.—RORAY v. N. MPEKISH LAKE LOGGING CO., LTD., & GARLAND, [1919] 2 W. W. R. 105.—CAN.

yl.—E. requested S., a servant of pltf., to obtain a buyer for his property. E. told S. that he wanted £850, & would pay commission. S. then asked E. if he would consider an offer. E. replied he wanted £800 clear. S. introduced K. to E., but the price offered was too low, & after various negotiations no sale took place. Six months later E. sold the property to K. for £600:—Held: as the buyer offered less than £800, pltf. was not entitled to commission.—ROBINSON v. EVES, [1917] S. A. L. R. 71.—AUS.

1751a. —[J]—Ptiffs., who were shipbrokers, negotiated on behalf of defts., the owners of a steamship, a charterparty of the steamship which was to be in force from Oct. 1920 for five years, & which contained a clause providing that the charterers should have the option of purchasing the steamship at any time between the signing of the charter & the completion of the charter period for £125,000. On the day when the charterparty was signed defts. signed & gave to ptiffs. a commission note in these terms: "We hereby agree to pay you . . . 5 per cent. brokerage on hire. . . . Should the option of purchase contained in the charter be availed of, the brokerage on purchase to be 3½ per cent. . . ." The charterparty was acted upon until June, 1921, when defts. sold the steamship to the charterers for £65,000. Ptiffs. brought an action against defts., claiming (inter alia) 3½ per cent. commission on £65,000, the price paid by the charterers for the steamship, &, in the alternative, a quantum meruit for their alleged services in effecting the same:—Held: (1) the former of these claims failed, the option of purchase mentioned in the commission note never having been exercised, & the sale effected being a sale at a different price from that upon which alone the brokerage of 3½ per cent. was to become payable; (2) the latter claim also failed inasmuch as the parties having reduced their bargain into writing in the commission note, there was no scope for the operation of the principle of quantum meruit.—*HOWARD-HOULDER & PARTNERS, LTD. v. When the time for taking delivery of the lambs arrived, ptiffs. refused to advance the price to the level of that of competing buyers & deflt. was unable to procure the lambs which he had agreed for:—Held: ptiffs. had defaulted & were estopped from saying that deflt. did not complete his contract.—*NEW ENGLAND DRESSED MEAT & WOOL CO. v. st. Principal not negotiating in good faith.]—Where under an agreement to pay an agent commission on a sale of real estate, the agent is to be entitled to the commission only when the principal concludes a sale to a purchaser found by the agent, the law implies an agreement by the principal to negotiate in good faith with the purchaser proposed & to demand only such terms as, considering all the circumstances, might be conceivably demanded in perfect good faith. sm. Principal selling ship to charterers—Commission payable under charter.]—Ptiffs. negotiated a charterparty, which contained a clause providing for payment of commission on the estimated gross amount of hire as earned & paid. Subsequently the owners & the charterers entered into a contract of sale, which contained a clause cancelling the charter & so cancelling the clause therein providing for the commission:—Held: ptiffs. were entitled to the amount of commission which would have been payable if the charterparty had not been cancelled, but, especially having regard to the fact that the action was brought before the period of hiring under the charterparty had expired, subject to a fair deduction in view of the risk of the hire ceasing apart from any voluntary action by the owners.—*ROXBURGH v. fi. — [—W., having agreed to sell shares to a co., entered into a contract to pay C. a commission for services in effecting the sale. The purchase price of the shares was to be paid by instalments & the commission was to be paid out of the respective instalments. The contract provided that if the payments were not made by the purchaser, W. would be under no liability to pay the commission. The initial payment was made & the commission thereon paid to C. When the next payment fell due the purchaser defaulted & shortly after the co. was placed in liquidation. The liquidator offered the assets for sale & accepted the tender of W. & H. The successful tenderers received all the assets of the estate including the stock sold by C. There was no evidence that the assets had a cash value equivalent to the amount of the unpaid purchase price of the shares.—Held: W. had not received payment for the shares, & the commission was not earned.—CECIL v. WEITLAUFER, [1923] S. C. R. 69; 1 D. L. R. 352; aff'd, 20 O. W. N. 260.—CAN.

gn. Third party repudiating contract.—Where a contract for sale was entered into between A & B, & A accepted B. as the purchaser, but B. did not pay any portion of the purchase-money, & subsequently repudiated the contract:—Held: the agent who negotiated the contract was entitled to commission on the sale.—BONN & DAWSON, [1923] St. R. 1776a. — "Private treaty" sale.]—Where an estate agent is employed to find a purchaser of an estate, the terms of the agent's employment being that commission is payable to him on the purchase price on sales by "private treaty," his principals are liable for his remuneration only when a sale has been completed & the purchase price has been paid on completion, except where the non-completion is due to some default or omission on the part of his principals. When, therefore, the agent has been employed simply on the above terms, he is not entitled to commission on the purchase price if he has merely brought about a purchase agreement which, without default or omission on the part of his principals, has not been completed.—KNIGHT, FRANK & RUTLEY v. ab. Agent himself paying deposit—To prevent sale of land until definite purchaser secured.]—Where an agent for sale of land paid his principal $200, leading the principal to believe it was paid as a deposit on behalf of P., whereas it was really paid to hold the land until a definite purchaser could be secured:—Held: the agent was not entitled to any commission.—TURNER & PATTERSON v. BRAYBROOK, [1919] 3 W. W. R. 422.—CAN.

1780 ix. — [—Agreement to pay commission on work done.]—Plff., who was employed by deft. to sell a station property & to find a lease for another, found A., who was ready & willing to purchase the one & to lease the other, & with him deft. entered into a contract. Subsequently the contract having fallen through, plff. was employed by deft. to raise money for him which it was hoped would enable the purchase & lease by A. to be carried through, & a written agreement was entered into between plff. & deft., by which it was provided that in the event of the completion of the sale & lease deft. should pay to plff. a certain sum "representing commission due to plff. on these transactions." The sale & leasing were never completed. In an action to recover the sum mentioned in the agreement, the trial judge found that when the agreement was entered into plff. had a right to recover a reasonable sum for commission in respect of the work he had then done, & that the contract did not deprive him of that right:—Held: plff. was entitled to recover a sum made up of 1 per cent. of the purchase-money & 5 per cent. of a year's rent.—FRY v. BYRNE (1917), 23 C. L. R. 589.—AUS.

1784 iv. — [—Deft. placed a property in the hands of plff., a commission agent, for sale upon prescribed conditions. Plff. found A., who was ready & willing to purchase upon all the prescribed conditions except two, to which at all material times he expressed his unwillingness to agree. Dft. thinking that A. had agreed to all the prescribed conditions, submitted to A. a contract of sale containing all the prescribed conditions. A. refused to sign the contract unless the two prescribed conditions were struck out.—Held: plff. was not entitled to any commission or other remuneration

No hire was in fact earned under the charterparty:—Held: (1) the charterers, as trustees for the brokers, could enforce the clause against the shipowners; (2) a custom by which commission was payable only if hire was earned under the charterparty could not be set up by the shipowners as an answer to the brokers' claim, inasmuch as it was inconsistent with the terms of the clause.—Affrèteurs Réunis Société Anonyme v. Leopold Walford (London), Ltd., [1919] A. C. 801; 88 L. 1787 ii. ——[A claim upon a quantum meruit for services as agent in respect of certain properties, disallowed on the ground that it was not the understanding of the parties that payment should be made except as commission on a sale being effected; in suing upon a quantum meruit, in order to rely upon the acceptance by deft. of something plff. has done he must have done it in circumstances which led deft. to know that if he accepted what had been done it was on the terms he must pay for it.—WEDDEN v. TURNER (1922), 68 D. L. R. 748; [1922] 3 W. W. R. 623.—CAN.

1789 i. No right where express contract.—Where a contract of agency stipulates the circumstances in which the agent will be entitled to a commission, compensation by way of quantum meruit will not be allowed in circumstances where no commission can be claimed; so to allow it would be to declare a contract existing between the parties different from the one they have made themselves.—*LAW & MACLEAN v. 1793 ii. ——[Deft. employed plff. as agent to sell land & equipment of cattle, horses, implements, etc., & furniture, at a price on a basis of $50 an acre with a certain cash payment. Plff. found a purchaser who wanted the land alone, but could not make a cash payment. Deft. & the purchaser came to an agreement for sale on crop payments at $60 an acre, & signed an agreement prepared by plff., which was crude & improvident but one from which the rights of the parties could be defined. Subsequently a more elaborate agreement was drawn by deft.'s solr., which because of certain onerous additions therein for the protection of deft. the purchaser refused to sign, & the transaction was broken off:—Held: there was in effect a sale of which plff. was the causa causans, &

he was entitled to payment for his services, on a quantum meruit basis.—BANKERMANN v. BRADLEY, [1919] 3 W. W. R. 952.—CAN.

w. i. ——[Where an agreement as to commission is that the agent is to receive all over & above a certain figure, but nothing is said as to when the commission is to be paid, the agent is not entitled to his commission until the vendor has received in full the amount stipulated, & a promise made by the principal after the sale to pay the commission at once does not render him liable to make immediate payment.—*CLAVELLE v. so. Commission payable out of purchase-money:—Total purchase-money paid into bank—Disclaimer by seller of interest in sum agreed to be paid to agent.—An agent for the sale of goods was authorised to ask a price which would give him a certain amount for his own benefit. The buyer paid the total purchase price into a bank to be paid over to the seller, & the latter disclaimed any interest in the amount which he had agreed to let the agent have. The buyer then claimed that amount as his.—Held: the money belonged to the agent.—DEVALLE v. GORMAN, [1918] 3 W. W. R. 221; 42 D. L. R. 573.—CAN.

sd. ——No purchase-money paid.—Where a principal incurred no contractual obligation to pay commission except out of the purchase-money as received, & no part of the purchase-money had been received.—Held: the principal was not liable.—*THORNDYKE-TRENHOLME REALTY CO. v. sl. Commission payable out of profit on resale—Resale at large nominal profit—No part of purchase-money paid.—B. & C. through plff. purchased certain land, agreeing to pay plff. a commission of $1 per acre, which was to be paid, however, only out of a profit on a resale. B. & C. assumed to make a sale at a purchase price showing a large nominal profit, which purchase price was to be paid by crop payments. The purchasers had three crop failures, paid nothing on account of principal, interest or taxes, & finally abandoned the agreement of purchase & went out of possession of the land:—Held: the sale was a resale at a profit within the contemplation of the parties, & plff. was entitled to commission.—HANTON v. ROYAL TRUST CO., [1924] 3 D. L. R. 809; 2 W. W. R. 1016.—CAN.

sk. Commission payable out of specified instalment—Instalment not paid.—Where it was an express stipulation of a contract as to commission that the balance of commission due was to be paid out of a specified instalment of the purchase price payable on a specified date.—Held: the instalment not having been paid by the purchaser, who had abandoned the land, no commission was payable.—*BURDECK v. ii. ——[Plff., by writing signed by deft. on Sept. 16, 1919, was authorised "from this date until withdrawn by me in writing" to offer for sale land for $7,500, & deft. thereby agreed to pay plff. a commission "on this or the selling price, should you effect a sale." Later on the same day, deft. himself sold the property to M. for $7,000. On Sept. 18, plff. obtained a written offer under seal from B. to buy the property for $7,500 cash, & the offer was accompanied by a cheque for $1,000; the offer & cheque reached deft. on Sept. 19. No notice in writing of the sale to M. was given to plff. until Sept. 20, when deft. wrote advising plff. of that sale & returning the B. offer & cheque:—

The contract did not refer to the use by the agent of any influence as a member of the committee in effectuating the sale; the agent took no part in the discussion by the committee of the report of a sub-committee as to the expediency of the purchase by the board of such land, & acted throughout bona fide & without concealment of the fact of his agency, & he was not at any time a member of any valuation sub-committee :—Held : the contract was void as being against public policy, & the agent's claim for commission failed.—WOOD v. Pltf., however, having found a tailoring co. who wanted to purchase the lease, received an assurance from the landlords that they would consent to a tailoring business, & he, by concealing this fact from deft., induced him to agree to sell the lease to the tailoring co. for £2,250 in ignorance of the fact that the proposed purchasers carried on a tailoring business. From July 10, 1916, onwards the agent regularly sold goods of that class on behalf of another firm, & he also bought & sold such goods on his own account.—Held: the agent was not entitled to an accounting for the period subsequent to July 10, 1916, as he was then in material breach of his contract, but he was entitled to an accounting for the period prior to that date during which he had duly obeyed the contract.—*GRAHAM & CO. v. sk. Agent selling at less than listed price.—An agent for the sale of goods is not entitled to a commission for introducing a purchaser where the goods are sold at a reduction from the listed price greater than the commission, & the agency contract provides that if any goods are sold for less than the current price list by the agent, the acceptance of such sale shall not entitle the agent to the commissions set forth, but such reduction in price shall be deducted from the agent's 1947a. —[j]—By a contract in writing deft. appointed plffs. to be sole agents for the United Kingdom, with certain exceptions, for a period of three years. Plffs. were to be paid a commission at the rate of 22 per cent. on all goods sold throughout the United Kingdom, with the exceptions above referred to, whether the goods were sold through the instrumentality of plffs. or not, & deft. agreed with plffs. that he would keep them fully supplied with samples, & would execute all orders with due diligence, & would not, directly or indirectly, canvass orders or in any manner approach or solicit any of the customers, or potential customers, of plffs. in respect of the sales of his goods. Before the expiry of the three years deft. broke these undertakings & then wrote to plffs. cancelling the agreement :—Held : as it was a necessary implication from the terms of the contract that plffs. would not decline reasonably to introduce customers, the agreement was not void for lack of mutuality, & although the mere appointment of an agent on commission for a term of years does not carry with it the necessary implication that the business shall be carried on for that term, yet, as deft. had undertaken certain obligations to facilitate the earning of the commission & had broken his undertakings, he could not, by a purported cancellation of the contract, limit his liability for damages to the period prior to

1951a. —[j]—By an agreement made between pltf. & a limited co., which carried on business in Lancashire, in consideration of pltf. subscribing for £1,000 in shares of the co., & of introducing to the co. certain new classes of goods to be manufactured by them, the co. appointed him their sole agent in the United Kingdom, India, & the Colonies for the sale of those goods for the term of seven years, if the agent should so long live, & thereafter until the agreement should be determined by six months' notice on either side. The agent was to use his best endeavours to obtain orders for the co.'s goods at prices to be from time to time agreed upon, & all orders obtained by the agent were at once to be communicated to the co., who upon approving or rejecting the same were to inform the agent thereof & who were to carry out such orders as were accepted without undue delay; & the agent was not definitely to accept orders for the co., but only subject to confirmation & acceptance by the co., such confirmation or acceptance not to be unreasonably withheld. The co. were to pay the agent a commission upon the invoiced prices of all goods delivered by the co., & duly paid for by the respective purchasers. A few months afterwards the co. required fresh capital, & they applied to pltf. to assist them in finding it, telling him that otherwise they would have to close down. Pltf. tried to do so, but failed. The co. then asked pltf. to give up the agency for the Manchester district, telling him that he would have to stand down so far as that district was concerned, in which case they thought that they could find the necessary capital, but he refused. The co. thereupon being insolvent passed resolutions for voluntary winding up & ceased to do business through pltf. & eventually sold their business. In an action to recover damages for breach of the agreement to employ pltf. as their agent for the seven years :—Held : the agreement was to employ pltf. as agent for the seven years & a term could not be implied to the effect that the co. could terminate the agency at any time by ceasing to carry on they did, & he must repay to them the amount so expended.—CANADIAN GRAIN CO. LTD. v. NICHOL, [1920] 3 W. W. R. 127; 53 D. L. R. 375; 13 Sask. L. R. 30.—CAN.

that they had shipped a consignment of goods on behalf of pltf. The goods arrived on Oct. 20, & on Oct. 22 defts. cleared & trucked the goods to Johannesburg & sent pltf. a consignment note which he received on Oct. 26. Immediately on receipt of the note pltf. telegraphed to defts. instructing them to keep the goods for sale in Durban. Defts. on the instructions of pltf. had the trucks stopped & returned to Durban. Defts. in order to obtain delivery of the goods paid the railway charges & upon pltf.'s refusal to reimburse them declined to hand the goods over to pltf. :—Held : defts. in raising the goods without awaiting special instructions had acted in accordance with their ordinary duty as forwarding agents, & in the absence of special instructions to the contrary defts. were justified in so raising the goods.—PATEL v. The agreement further provided that the agent had to agree to supply goods to the agent, who was bound to buy exclusively from them. At the end of the three years the value of the goods sold & delivered by the agent failed to reach the stipulated turnover, & the merchants terminated the agreement. The value of the sales effected by the agent had in fact materially exceeded the stipulated figure, but the value of the goods delivered by him fell short of it, owing to the failure of the merchants to supply him with the

the merchants, who were not manufacturers, were dependent on delivery of the goods by the manufacturers, & owing to war conditions, they were themselves unable to obtain the full supplies they required. He asked deft. to buy timber from him, telling him that he had left the employment of the builders & had set up as a timber merchant on his own account, & deft. agreed to order timber from him on the terms that G.'s debt of £17 should be set off against the price. G. had not set up in business on his own but was employed by pltf. as an agent for sale on commission. Timber was delivered to deft. with invoices & letters bearing the name, address, & description of pltf., which G. told deft. were his own trade name, address, & description. Pltf. brought an action in the county ct. for the price of the timber, & the county ct. judge found deft. honestly believed that the name, address, & description on the invoices & letters were those of G., but that deft. was put upon inquiry by the invoices & letters & had notice that G. was not selling as principal but only as an agent for pltf., & he gave judgment for pltf. for the price of the timber:—Held: deft. had no more than constructive notice that pltf. was the principal of G., & in the circumstances constructive notice was not equivalent to actual notice; deft. had made no contract with pltf., & was entitled to judgment.—*Greer v. The "building contract" & the "vessel contract" each expressly stated that a copy of the other was attached to & made a part of it. By the "building contract" deft. covenanted to build the vessels according to the terms of the "vessel contract," & this contract was expressed to be made with pltf. as well as with A. & deft. also confirmed provisions of the "vessel contract" for payment of the instalments of the purchase price to A. & appointed A. his agent to receive payments. Upon the signing of the contracts a first payment made by A. pltf. to A. was distributed by A. between the three "builders" who proceeded with the construction of the vessels. Upon pltf.'s failure to make the next deposit as provided for in the "vessel" contract, deft. gave notice terminating the contract. Pltf. having brought action for repayment by deft. of money paid on account of the vessels, less such expenses as deft. had incurred by virtue of the contract:—Held: pltf. had no right of action.—*Van Hemelryck v. 2135 ii. —[—Dft., owner of a theatre, entered into a contract with W., an advertising manager, under which W. was to conduct an advertising campaign relative to the theatre. The campaign was to take the form of a contest for prizes to be offered for selling tickets of admission to the theatre. Pltf. was assignee for value of a prize-winner's rights:—Held: the

him to sign the repair account with the Lloyd's surveyor as "approved subject to adjustment & conditions of insurances." In Jan. 1919, the repairers delivered to the owners an account of the repairs signed by the owners' agent & by Lloyd's surveyor in the above form after a detailed examination of the account. The owners paid part of the amount due on this account but declined to pay the balance on the ground that the charges were excessive. The repairers sued the owners for the balance of amount due for work & labour done by plffs. & materials supplied at the request of defts., &, in the alternative, claimed the balance as being the amount found due from defts. to plffs. on accounts stated between them & contained in an account signed by defts. by their agent, less the sums since paid by defts. in respect thereof. Defts. denied that the agent was authorised to agree the amounts due from defts. to plffs., or that he in fact purported to agree such amount, or that the account constituted an account stated:—Held: the signature of defts.' agent was an agreement by him, with their authority, that the amount charged for the repairs was correct, &, there being no ground for re-opening the account, plffs. were entitled to judgment.—CAMILLO TANK S.S. 2299 i. Funds received for investment—By local manager of bank—Improvident investment.—Two persons who formed the local advisory board of deft. co. purchased on deft.'s behalf for $7,000 the balance unpaid under an agreement for sale of subdivided property, which amounted to about $7,500 taking the assignment in their own name "as trustees." One of these persons, the local manager of deft. co., had an individual private client, for whom he had invested money. Having $5,000 of plt.'s money on hand he invested it by buying a part interest in the assignment of agreement for sale, & a declaration of trust was made by the trustees in plt.'s favour to the extent of $5,000 & interest. sc. In general.—By conferring authority upon his agent the principal gives third persons the right to assume that they can deal with the agent in the matters covered by that authority until they receive notice of his authority having been revoked, or at least until some circumstance arises which in all reason should put them upon inquiry, & this rule applies especially in favour of third parties who began to deal with the agent while his authority did in fact exist.—WATSON v. Resps. tendered a consignment of chicory, which was accepted at Alexandria after examination by V., & sent to appits. at Durban; but it was rejected by appits. as being unsound in terms of the contract. Prior to the sending off of this consignment, appits. had notified all the farmers by circular that they would reject any chicory not "tip-top," & charge railage & storage to the senders : - Held : the circulars should have put resps. on inquiry as to V.'s authority.—ELLIS BROWN v. In the letter he wrote: "All orders are booked on the understanding that my p. n. c. p. a. l. s. are given the option of shipping by steamer or sailing vessel." Defts. gave pltf. an order. Pltf. wrote to defts. saying: "I have cabled the order over to-day & I hope soon to be able to give upon cable acceptance." Subsequently he wrote: "I am glad in being able to inform you that the above-mentioned order has been booked by my p. n. c. p. a. l. s. & will send you official confirmation in due course." Pltf.'s letters were all signed "Niels Storker" without any qualification.—Held: pltf. was contracting merely as agent, not as principal, & was not entitled to sue on the contract.—*STORKER v. In none of the telegrams between pltf. & deft.'s agents by which the purchase was arranged was deft. named, but the last telegram from the agents contained the words "Buyer confirms sale".—Held: the words "Buyer confirms sale" showed that deft.'s agents were contracting as agents, & relieved them from personal liability on the contract.—*MURRAY v. - 2814a. Agent receiving proceeds of sale of goods for credit of foreign Government.]—In 1917 pl'tfs., under licence from the Russian Imperial Govt. exported timber to this country, &, in accordance with the conditions of the licence, paid the purchase-money received by them for the timber to def't. bankers for the credit of the Russian Govt. They then became entitled to receive from the Govt. in Russia an equivalent amount in roubles at a fixed rate of exchange. In Mar. 1917, the Imperial Govt. was overthrown by a revolution, & was succeeded by a Provisional Govt., which in its turn, was, on Nov. 7, 1917, displaced by the Bolsheviks, who, on Dec. 13, forcibly dissolved the Constituent Assembly & established a Soviet Republic. Pl'tfs. having received no roubles in Russia, brought actions against the bankers to recover two sums of money, one of which was paid to them by pl'tfs. in the second action before Nov. 7, & the other by pl'tfs. in the first action on Nov. 9, at which date they did not know of the Bolshevik revolution. Pl'tfs. in both actions alleged that the bankers & the Russian Govt. were merely trustees for them, & the money having been paid under a contract, the consideration for which had entirely failed, they were entitled to recover. Pl'tfs. in the first action further contended that they had paid the money under a mistake of fact, & on that ground also they were entitled to recover it :—Held : (1) this money had been paid to the bank as agents for the Russian Govt., & the ct. would not order payment of it in the name of that Govt. or its representatives ; (2) the bank were entitled to keep the money in their hands, but must undertake not to part with it without notice to pl'tfs. & an order of the ct.—*STEAM SAW MILLS Co. v. War broke out between England & Austria in Aug. 1914, but pltf. was exempted from internment & was allowed to travel between his house & defts.' place of business. In Sept. 1914, defts. wrote to pltf. that in the circumstances the agreement was null & void, & gave him to understand that it was of no use for him to attempt to do business for them any longer. 3040a. ——— By an underwriting contract dated Dec. 3, 1919, a syndicate agreed with a co. in consideration of a commission to subscribe for 150,000 of 350,000 shares to be offered to the public by a prospectus then about to be issued, & all allotments to the public were to be applied in relief of the syndicate's obligation to take up the 150,000 shares. By a sub-underwriting letter applt. agreed with the syndicate to subscribe 10,000 of the 150,000 shares underwritten by them & stated: "We now hand you application for the shares hereby underwritten by us together with cheque for £1,256, being deposit of 2s. 6d. per share." The letter also provided that applt. was only to be allotted & pay for so many of the 10,000 shares as should be his due proportion of the shares not taken up by the public, & that he was to receive a commission on the shares sub-underwritten by him. The letter also contained this clause: "This contract & our said application shall, notwithstanding any withdrawal on our part &/or any repudiation of our responsibility hereunder, or under the said application form, be sufficient to authorise & empower the directors to allot to us the above-mentioned shares & enter our name in the register of members in respect thereof." Applt. did not in fact sign or hand to the syndicate any written application to the co. for the 10,000 shares as contemplated by the sub-underwriting letter, but he handed to the syndicate the letter together with his cheque for £1,250 in their favour. On the issue of the prospectus only 55,000 shares were applied for by the public. On Dec. 12 the syndicate verbally applied in their own name & in the names of several sub-underwriters including applt. for an allotment of the total amount of the shares which they were bound to take up & paid with their own cheque for the total amount

NOTE.—The Act now in force in England is “Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923 (c. 9),” herein referred to as A. H. Act, 1923. The Act repealed (inter alia) A. H. Act of 1908 (c. 28).

Owing to the statutory extensions in the law since the original volume was published the following new sub-sections have been added to Part V., Sect. 3 :

SUB-SECT. 1a.—COMPENSATION FOR INCREASED OR DIMINISHED VALUE OF HOLDING (see p. 77, post).

SUB-SECT. 3a.—COMPENSATION FOR ENFORCEMENT OF PROPER CULTIVATION (see p. 79, post).

SUB-SECT. 3b.—ASCERTAINMENT OF COMPENSATION (see p. 80, post).

Part I.—Definitions.

The older brother, the active partner, gave notice in writing to the landlord that he intended to leave the farm. Subsequently they declined to remove from the farm, on the ground that the notice being in the name of one of the joint tenants only, was insufficient to prevent renewal of the lease by tacit relocation.—Held: (1) the notice necessary, under A. H. (Scotland) Act, 1908

(c. 64), s. 18 (1), to prevent tacit relocation, might be given by a duly authorised agent for the tenant; (2) as the evidence showed that the older brother had sufficient authority to terminate the lease on behalf of the partners, the notice given by him was effectual to prevent tacit relocation, although the fact that he was acting both for himself & as agent for his brother did not appear ex facie of the notice.—*GRAHAM v. On Dec. 23, 1914, T. conveyed about half the farm to pltf.s, subject to & with the benefit of the tenancy agreement. T. died on Jan. 4, 1919, & C. continued to pay the whole rent to her exors., as he had since the conveyance paid it to T. After Oct. 11, 1922, the rent fell into arrear. By a notice to quit dated Oct. 10, 1923, the agents of T.'s exors. & the agent of pltf.s jointly gave C. notice to quit the whole holding on Oct. 11, 1924. By an agreement dated Oct. 1, 1924, T.'s exors. agreed to sell their part of the farm to C., & it was conveyed to him on Apr. 17, 1925. C. refused to give up possession to pltf.s of their part of the holding, contending that under sect. 26 of the above Act the conan action for a declaration that the notice to quit was effective, & to recover possession of their land:—Held: as the contract to sell a part was not made by the persons who gave notice to quit the entire holding, but only by some of them, sect. 26 of the above Act did not apply; the tenancy had been duly determined as regards pltf.s' land, & pltf.s. were entitled to the declaration which they asked & to an order for possession of their land.—*ROCHESTER & CHATHAM JOINT SEWERAGE BOARD v. 56a. ——— Grass land laid down by tenant.—By a tenancy agreement made in 1894 the trustees of an estate, of which pltf. was the present tenant for life in possession, agreed to let to deft. certain farm lands & house buildings comprising 138 acres more or less, as described in a schedule attached to the agreement, on a yearly tenancy, at the rent of £48. The tenant covenanted to manage & cultivate the land in a husbandlike manner, & that he would not plough or otherwise break up "any grass land" without the consent of the landlord. In the schedule to the agreement the premises were described as consisting of 130 acres 1 r. 31 p. of arable & 8 acres of grass land. In 1898 the tenant laid down 40 acres more to permanent grass. On notice being given to him to determine the tenancy on Sept. 29, 1919, he claimed the right to plough up this 40 acres of permanent grass which had been arable at the commencement of his tenancy. In an action by pltf. to restrain him from so doing in breach of his covenants an interim order was made granting the injunction on the usual undertaking as to damages. Deft. counterclaimed for damages by reason of the interim order:—Held: (1) on the true construction of the agreement, the covenant not to plough up any grass land was not restricted to the 8 acres of grass at the date of the demise but extended to the grass land in dispute & pltf. was entitled to the relief claimed; (2) on the evidence, the proposed dealing with the land would have been a breach of the covenant to cultivate in a husbandlike manner; (3) deft. had suffered no damage from the grant-

did not affect deft.'s rights or restate the lease.—TRINK v. MILOS, [1918] 2 W. W. R. 1021; 11 Sask. L. R. 271; 42 D. L. R. 782.—CAN.

ab. Contract for share farming.—No provision as to duration.—Deft. cropped pltf.'s land on shares in 1917 & in 1918 agreed to do so again. Pltf. was trying to sell the land, as deft. knew, & during the summer sold it. No time had been fixed for deft. to give up possession:—Held: deft. was entitled to such occupation as was necessary to put in & harvest the crop for 1918.—LYONS, [1919] 3 W. W. R. 381; 48 D. L. R. 365.—CAN.

- 164a. Against sub-letting—Letting of grass keep in last year of tenancy—Agistment.]—Where the tenant of a farm covenants not to underlet or permit any other person to use or occupy any part of the demised premises without the written consent of the landlord, the sale or letting by the tenant, without such consent, in the last year of his tenancy of the grass keep, i.e. growing herbage, of his pasture lands for a definite period, is a breach of the covenant, although such sale or letting is in accordance with the usual practice of an outgoing tenant in that part of the country. Semble: agistment, i.e. the taking in by the tenant of the sheep or cattle of another to be depastured on the farm at so much per head per week, would not be a breach of the covenant.—RICHARDS v. In ejectment for a forfeiture:—Held: (1) the work thus to be performed meant any work for which teams are generally used, & therefore included drawing coals to B. The lessor gave evidence that a crop of green feed could have been grown on the 30 acres:—Held: if the lessee could not, or did not choose to crop, he must summer-fallow; "crop" within the covenant in the lease included a green

...ing tenant agreeing to repay compensation paid by landlord—Action by landlord on agreement—When cause of action arises.]—By an agreement dated Dec. 24, 1915, made under seal, plffs. let to deft. a small-holding from year to year from Feb. 2, 1916, at a rent of £132 10s. a year payable by half-yearly payments on Feb. 2, & Aug. 2, each year. The tenant agreed "to pay on entry any allowance or compensation which may be due from the council to the outgoing tenant in respect of feeding stuffs or manures or any improvements mentioned in A. H. Act, 1908, Sched. 1, Part III." Deft. entered into occupation of the small-holding on Feb. 2, 1916. At that date the amount of the compensation payable to the outgoing tenant had not been fixed, & it was not until Feb. 11, 1918, that the amount of compensation was agreed to. It was then agreed that the council should pay the outgoing tenant £30 17s. 6d., & that sum was paid by the council to the outgoing tenant on Mar. 17, 1921. On Jan. 13, 1923, plff. council brought an action in the county ct. claiming to recover from deft. the sum of £30 17s. 6d. under the agreement of Dec. 24, 1915. Deft. pleaded that plffs.' cause of action had arisen on Feb. 2, 1916, the date of his entry on the holding, & that therefore the claim was barred by Stat. Limitations, s. 3, because the action was not brought "within six years next after the cause of such action or suit":—Held: plffs.' cause of action against deft. did not arise on Feb. 2, 1916, when deft. entered on the holding but only on Feb. 11, 1918, when the amount of the compensation was ascertained by agreement

The tenant planted trees & bushes in accordance with the agreement. 264a. Notice of claim—Time for giving—Agriculture Act, 1920 (c. 76).—Held: the meaning of sect. 19 of the above Act taken as a whole was that the landlord should have a right of compensation for deterioration under the sect. if he gave a notice before the termination of the tenancy & not otherwise; but if he had a right under contract to claim for deterioration apart from the sect., nothing in the sect. should interfere with that right.

A tenant held a farm as a yearly tenant under the landlord upon the terms, as the arbitrator found, of an agreement in writing under which the father of the tenant had originally held the farm. On Aug. 20, 1920, the landlord served a notice to quit upon the tenant, which expired as to the land, other than the boozy pasture, on Feb. 2, 1922. The tenant gave up possession of the land except the boozy pasture, the tenancy of which did not expire until May 1, 1922, upon that date. On Mar. 28, 1922, the landlord gave notice of & particulars of a counterclaim against the tenant for waste wrongly committed or permitted by the tenant & for breach of contract or otherwise, whereby he claimed for neglect in the care of hedges & ditches on the land & dirty land :—Held: (1) the landlord's claim was not barred by sect. 19 of the above Act; (2) the boozy pasture & the rest of the farm were held under one contract of tenancy; the contract did not finally cease under sect. 10 (7) of the above Act until May 1, 1922, the date of the termination of the boozy tenancy, & the landlord's notice was therefore in time.—Re ARDEN & RUTTER, [1923] 2 K. 265a. — Right to compensation—Tenant holding over after notice to quit.—A tenancy was determined by notice to quit on a certain day. The tenant remained on in possession for about nine months, & was finally ejected. Two days before his ejection he furnished details of his claim for compensation :—Held: the tenant, from the date when his notice expired, was not holding under a contract of tenancy, & the land which he persisted in occupying unlawfully was not a holding within sect. 11 of the above Act, & he, therefore, was not within the benefit of the Act.—*CAVE v. In 1917 they gave notice to the tenants to quit at Michaelmas, 1918, with a view to the sale of the farm. In Oct. 1917, they agreed to sell the farm to a purchaser. On July 5, 1918, the tenants gave to the purchaser, who was then entitled to the rents & profits, notice in writing under sect. 1 (1) of the Act of 1914 of their intention to claim compensation in terms of sect. 11 of the Act of 1908. On July 18, 1918, the sale of the farm was completed :—Held: (1) the purchaser was the "landlord" within the Acts; (2) the notice of intention to claim compensation was rightly given to him; (3) he was liable to pay compensation.—*BRADSHAW v. 265c. — — — — — Person entitled to rents at end of tenancy.—(1) Where the tenant of an agricultural holding, who has been disturbed in his tenancy, becomes entitled under sect. 11 of the above Act to compensation for loss in connection with the sale or removal of his household goods, implements, or stock on the condition, among others, of giving to the landlord a reasonable opportunity of making a valuation of such goods, etc., the question whether he has given such a reasonable opportunity is in each case a question of fact depending on the circumstances. The mere lapse of an interval of several months between notice of intention to claim compensation & sale or removal is not of itself sufficient to satisfy the condition.

(2) Where the tenant of an agricultural holding has given notice to his landlord under sect. 11, proviso (b), of his intention to claim compensation for disturbance, & the landlord before the appointment of an arbitrator under that sect. assigns the reversion, the person

Agriculture Act, 1920 (c. 76).—Right to compensation.—Withdrawal of notice to quit.—What amounts to.]—In Sept. 1920, a landlord gave to the tenant notice to quit his tenancy of a farm for which he was paying a yearly rental of £506 2s. On Dec. 31, 1920, the landlord wrote to the tenant: "I have received an offer of £670 per annum for your holding. If you choose to give me the same, you are most welcome to continue the tenancy."—Held: having regard to sect. 10 of the above Act, the letter of Dec. 31, 1920, did not constitute an offer in writing to withdraw the notice to quit within the proviso to sect. 10 (1) of that Act.—Re PERHETT & BENNETT-STANFORD, [1922] 2 K. B. 502; 91 L. J. K. B. 930; 128 L. T. 57; 38 T. L. R. 849; sub nom. PERHETT v. BENNETT-STANFORD, 66 Sol. Jo. 680, C. A.

266f. ——— Ejectment proceedings following notice to quit.]—The landlord of a farm served on the tenant a notice to quit on Mar. 25, 1923. Owing to the illness of his wife, the tenant did not quit the farmhouse at the expiry of the notice, but he quitted the land, save as under the custom of the country, immediately after the expiry of the notice. Ejectment proceedings were brought by the landlord & judgment was obtained by default of appearance. On being served with the notice to quit, the tenant duly served on the landlord a notice of intention to claim compensation for disturbance under sect. 10 of the above Act.—Held: if the tenant was ejected, the ejectment was in consequence of the notice to quit, & therefore, the tenant had quitted the farm in consequence of the notice to quit terminating the tenancy, & the tenant was accordingly entitled to compensation under sect. 10 of the Act.—MILLS v. ROSE (1923), 68 Sol. Jo. 420, C. A.

266g. ——— Necessity for proof of loss or expense.—Entire holding in occupation of sub-tenants.]—The effect of sect. 10 (6) of the above Act is that as a condition precedent to his right to compensation for disturbance a tenant must prove that he has incurred some loss or some expense of the kind indicated in the sub-sect.; that on proof of that he is entitled as a minimum to one year's rent of the holding; but that unless he proves some loss or some expense of the kind indicated he does not bring himself within sub-sect. 6 & is not entitled to compensation. Therefore where a lease of a holding under the Act was duly determined by notice to quit & the holding was entirely in the occupation of sub-tenants whose sub-tenancies terminated without notice on the termination of the lease, & the lessee did not sell or remove any household goods, implements of husbandry, fixtures, farm produce or farm stock on or used in connection with the holding:—Held: he was not entitled to compensation for disturbance under sect. 10.—AGRICULTURE & FISHERIES MINISTER v. DEAN, [1924] 1 K. B. 851; 93 L. J. K. B. 374; 130 L. T. 709; 40 T. L. R. 285; 68 Sol. Jo. 401, C. A.

266h. ——— Notice of claim.—Time for giving—"Termination of tenancy"—Tenancy of different parts of holding expiring at different times.]—A landlord let a farm, according to the custom of the country, upon a yearly tenancy on the terms that the tenant should enter into occupation of the main portion of the land on Apr. 6, & of the farmhouse, farm buildings, & the remainder of the land on May 13, & that "on the termination of the tenancy" he should give up possession of the different portions of the farm on the respective dates, there being one rent reserved for the whole farm:—Held: the "termination of the tenancy" for the purposes of sect. 10 (7) of the above Act took place on May 13, notwithstanding that the main portion of the premises had to be surrendered at the earlier date.—Semble: the proviso to sect. 18 (2) of the above Act applies only to a case where the tenant has been allowed by a landlord to remain on, after the cesser of the agreement of tenancy, under a new agreement.—SWINBURNE v. ANDREWS, [1923] 2 K. B. 483; 92 L. J. K. B. 889; 129 L. T. 650; 39 T. L. R. 545; 67 Sol. Jo. 726, C. A.

266i. ——— Given under Act subsequently repealed.—Necessity for notice under repealing Act.]—A tenant who had on Sept. 29, 1920, received notice to quit his farm on Sept. 29, 1921, gave notice on Nov. 17, 1920, to his landlord of his intention to claim compensation for disturbance under A. H. Act, 1908, s. 11. That sect. was repealed by the Act of 1920, which came into force on Jan. 1, 1921, & by sect. 10 substituted a new right to compensation for disturbance. The tenant gave no notice of his intention to claim com-notice to quit. Having taken over another farm with a bound stock, he sold his sheep at a depressing sale, the landlord refusing to take them over. In a claim for compensation for the difference between the price realised & the "going concern" value:—Held: the loss was directly attributable to the quitting of the holding under the above sub-sect.—Keswick v. WRIGHT, [1924] S. C. 766. —SCOT.

pensation under that sect. as required by sub-sect. 7 (b) thereof:—Held: not having given notice under sect. 10 of the Act of 1920, he had no right of claim under that sect., but his right of making a claim under A. H. Act, 1908, s. 11, was preserved by interpretation Act, 1889 (c. 63), s. 38, notwithstanding the repeal of sect. 11.—HAMILTON-GELL v. WHITE, [1922] 2 K. B. 422; 91 L. J. K. B. 875; 127 L. 266j. Agricultural Holdings Act, 1923 (c. 9)—Right to compensation—Refusal or failure to agree to arbitration.—(1) A landlord of a holding gave the tenant notice to quit, & in the same document stated that he had no desire to terminate the tenancy if the tenant would agree to his demand that the rent should be fixed by arbn. The tenant did not agree to arbn.:—Held: the tenant did not thereby disentitle himself to compensation, for the refusal or failure to agree to arbn. dealt with by sect. 12 (1) (e) of the above Act is a refusal or failure which has taken place before the date of the notice.

(2) It cannot be laid down as a matter of law, that in no case can the minimum compensation of one year's rent provided by sect. 12 (6) be reduced under the provisions of sect. 12 (8) if the tenant, having held two or more holdings as tenant, remains in possession of one of them. But the provisions of sect. 12 (8) have no application to a case in which the tenant remains in possession of the other holding or holdings, not as tenant, but as owner.—*WESTLAKE v. 266l. — Liability to pay compensation — “Landlord” — Agreement for sale—Whether purchaser entitled to rents.—In July, 1921, the owner of an estate, which included a farm in the occupation of tenants, agreed to sell the farm to a purchaser, who agreed to pay the purchase money in Oct. 1921. The agreement was subject to conditions of sale, by one of which the purchaser agreed to pay the balance of the purchase money on the day named in the contract, & in that respect time was to be of the essence of the contract; & it was further agreed that “all rents & periodical outgoings” should be “apportioned up to the completion,” & added to or deducted from the purchase money as the case might require. On Sept. 23, 1924, notice was given to the tenants to quit the farm on Sept. 29, 1925. The purchase was not in fact completed until Oct. 1925:—Held: (1) “completion” in the condition of sale meant actual completion, & not the date named for completion; (2) on Sept. 29, 1925, the vendor was the “person entitled to receive the rents & profits” of the farm within sect. 57, & he, & not the purchaser, was the “landlord” within sect. 12 & the person to pay compensation to the tenants.—

SUB-SECT. 3a.—COMPENSATION FOR ENFORCEMENT OF PROPER CULTIVATION.

266m. Corn Production Act, 1917 (c. 46), s. 9 (9)—Who is person interested—Tenant.—(1) A notice to convert certain land into tillage, made under sub-sect. 1 of the above sect. & Defence of the Realm Regulations, 1914, reg. 2 M, was served on the owner of land who was in occupation. After the service of the notice the owner agreed to let the land to a tenant who entered into occupation & carried out the requirements of the notice. The notice had not been served on the tenant. The tenant claimed compensation for loss alleged to have been suffered by him by reason of his having carried out the requirements of the notice, & the claim was referred to arbn. under the Act, & the arbitrator stated a case in which he asked the ct. certain questions:—Held: the tenant was a “person who was interested in the land in respect of which the notice was served,” within sub-sect. 9 of the above sect., inasmuch as he was interested at the time when the loss was alleged to have occurred; & the tenant came within the words of the sub-sect. “who suffers any loss by reason of the exercise of the powers conferred by this sect.” & was entitled to compensation for the loss, if any, though the notice had not been served on him, as he had carried out the requirements of the notice.

(2) Two notices were served, each in respect of a different field in a separate farm occupied by the same tenant:—Held: in the circumstances, the loss, if any, in respect of each field should be assessed separately.

(3) The tenant of certain land in respect of which a notice to plough had been served under the Act sent in a claim for compensation on Sept. 28, 1918, for the year 1918, & in 1919 he sent in a claim for compensation for 1919. The arbn. to assess compensation was held after both claims had been sent in:—Held: the assessment should not be based on the loss, if any, in each year separately; (BANKES, L.J.) the arbitrator should take the experience of the two years, setting off any profit in one year against any loss in the other; (SCRUTTON & ATKIN, L.J.J.) the whole effect of the exercise of the powers conferred by the sect. had to be considered by the arbitrator, including an estimate of the probable loss or profit in the future.

SUB-SECT. 3b. ASCERTAINMENT OF COMPENSATION.

266q. In respect of what holdings compensation payable—Tenant sub-letting farmhouse.—By an agreement of tenancy a landlord demised to the tenant a farm of 1,000 acres together with a farmhouse & some cottages. There was a provision that the tenant should use the demised premises for farming purposes. The tenant subsequently, with the permission of the landlord, sub-let the farmhouse to a lady who used it as a house for paying guests. Upon the determination of the lease, the tenant made a claim for compensation under A. H. Act, 1908:—Held: the ct. must have regard to the substance of what had been done; by the lease the holding was an agricultural one, & the fact that the farmhouse had been let to a sub-tenant did not cause it to cease to be a "holding" within the Act. Re RUSSELL & HARDING (1922), 128 L. 266r. Notice of claim—To whom given—Purchaser—Taking subject to existing tenancies.—Applt. was the tenant of an agricultural holding under a tenancy expiring on Sept. 29, 1922. In May, 1922, the landlord contracted to sell the holding, subject to the tenancy, to resp., completion to take place on Sept. 29, 1922. The completion in fact took place on Nov. 2. The contract of sale contained a general condition that the rents, profits or possession of the property should be received or retained & the outgoings discharged by the vendor up to the time appointed for completion, & that current rents should be apportioned. By a special condition it was provided that for the purpose of this general condition any rent payable on Sept. 29 was to be deemed "current rent," & was to be payable by the purchaser on completion. After the determination of the tenancy the purchaser as "landlord" made a claim against the tenant for dilapidations, & the tenant counterclaimed for compensation:—Held: the purchaser was not at the date of the termination of the tenancy the "landlord" within A. H. Act, 1908, s. 48, & Agriculture Act, 1920 (c. 76), s. 18.—TOMBS v. TURVEY (1923), 93 L. J. K. B. 785; 131 L. T. 330; 68 Sol. Jo. 385, C. A.

266s. Particulars of claim—Sufficiency.—Held: having regard to the severity of the penalty attached to non-compliance with Agriculture Act, 1920 (c. 76), s. 18 (2), namely, total extinguishment of the claim, the presumption was that the requirement of "particulars" was not intended to be construed strictly, & for the purpose of keeping the claim alive & enabling the parties to get before the arbitrator, a less degree of particularity was required to satisfy the sect. than would be required of particulars of a statement of claim in an action, notwithstanding that when the parties got before the arbitrator he might be of opinion that the particulars were insufficient, & might order further & better particulars to be given.—*JONES v. Act, 1908, on the ground of error appearing on the face of it where there has been no misconduct on the part of the arbitrator is not taken away by that Act. That jurisdiction was not excluded by Arbitration Act, 1889 (c. 49), & when the jurisdiction under that Act with reference to arbn. proceedings under the A. H. Act, 1908, was transferred to the county ct. by that Act, the inherent jurisdiction of the High Ct. in those matters was neither expressly nor by implication transferred to it.—Re JONES & CARTER, [1922] 2 Ch. 599; 91 L. 266s. 1. Particulars of claim—Sufficiency—Agricultural Holdings (Scotland) Act, 1923 (c. 10), s. 15 (2).—By a letter, written on receipt of a notice from the tenant of his intention to terminate his tenancy of a sheep farm, the landlord intimated that he reserved his claim in respect of depilation of the sheep stock; & by a second letter, written within two months after the termination of the tenancy, in which he referred to his former letter, he stated that only 51 per cent. of the sheep stock had been delivered to the incoming tenant, & that the amount of the claim would be intimated when the exact shortage was determined:—Held: (1) in view of the severity of the penalty attached to non-compliance, the requirements of the above sub-sect. were sufficiently complied with if fair notice was given to the opposite party of the nature of the claim against him & of the case he had to meet; (2) the letters

1908, the award was made on Apr. 8, 1921, & on June 3 applt. gave notice of motion to set aside the award on various grounds. There was no rule either under County Cts. Act, 1888 (c. 43), or under A. II. Act, 1908, dealing with the time within which a notice of motion to set aside an award must be given:—Held: the words "principles of practice" in County Cts. Act, 1888 (c. 43), s. 164, did not refer to specific rules of the High Ct., & the time limit of six weeks under R. S. C., Ord. 64, r. 11, was not a "principle of practice" within that sect. of the Act; therefore the only time limit applicable in the present case was under Stat. Limitations & under the doctrine of laches, & the motion to set aside the award was made in time.—McCREAGH v. FREARSON (1921), 91 L. J. K. B. 365; 126 L. T. 601, D. C.

267a. — "Treated as a market garden."—(1) Held: the word "treated" in sect. 42 (1) of the above Act, in the collocation in which it was there used did not mean simply that the holding should be in use or cultivation as a market garden, but that it should be let by one person as landlord & occupied by the other as tenant as a market garden, & so treated as between them for the purpose of governing their rights in respect of the holding as a market garden.

By an agreement in writing dated Dec. 31, 1919, & made between the landlord of the one part & the tenant therein described as "market gardener" of the other part, it was agreed (clause 1): that the landlord should let & the tenant should take the farm therein described for the term of one year from Sept. 19, 1919, & so on from year to year at the yearly rent of £185 by half-yearly payments on Mar. 25 & Sept. 29 in each year, & that the tenant should pay to the landlord as a further rent at the rate of £6 per cent. per annum on all sums of money expended by the landlord in the supply of any fruit trees during the tenancy. By clause 7 the tenant was to cultivate the land on the best & most approved system of gardening in general practice in the neighbourhood, & was not to cut down, grub up, or destroy any fruit trees growing in or upon the land, or at any time to be planted thereon, under the provisions of the agreement, without the consent in writing of the landlord or his agent first had & obtained. By clause 9 the landlord was during the term to supply the tenant at his own expense with all fruit trees which might at any time be agreed between the landlord & tenant to be necessary, & the tenant was to pay a certain additional rent in respect of the fruit trees so supplied. Clause 11 contained the following proviso: "That nothing herein contained shall be deemed to be an agreement by the landlord that the premises hereby demised or any part thereof shall be let or treated as a market garden or give rise to a claim for compensation for fruit trees or bushes under A. II. Act, 1908, or any statutory modification thereof":—Held: (2) clause 11 of the agreement contained the clearest possible expression of the intention of the parties that the holding was not to be treated as a market garden; there was therefore no agreement in writing within sect. 42 (1) of the Act, by which it was agreed that it should be let or treated as a market garden, & therefore no claim to compensation on that basis arose, because the existence of such an agreement was a condition precedent to such a claim; (3) the agreement was not one which was avoided by sect. 5 of the Act, because the condition precedent to the tenant having the right to claim compensation had not been satisfied.—Re MASTERS & DU VEEN, [1923] 2 K. One of the conditions upon which ptfr. purchased the crop of swedes was that he should not remove from the field more than one-half of the crop of swedes, the other half having to be consumed on the field. Deft. put a number of sheep into his field of grass, & the sheep got into pltf.'s field of swedes & did considerable damage to the swedes:—Held: the fact that the right of pltf. to remove the swedes from the field was limited to one-half of the crop did not prevent him from maintaining an action of trespass in respect of the damage done by deft.'s sheep, as pltf. had such an exclusive right of possession in the crop as would entitle him to maintain an action of trespass.—*WELLMAN v. By an agreement, dated Dec. 7, 1920, A. agreed to sell all the timber standing in certain portions of the settled estates. On Jan. 18, 1922, a contract was entered into by A. for sale of part of the

Where, however, the cutting down of the timber is done for the purpose of making an immediate profit out of the timber, & without any regard to the improvement of the land, there is no implied grant to the tenant to cut & sell the timber.

(2) At the date of the contract for the sale of land & at the date of the conveyance, part of the timber, to the value of about £500, remained uncut:—Held: although as regards the purchaser of the land the timber was divided from the freehold, yet nevertheless it remained part of the inheritance & subject to the limitations of the settlement; accordingly, it did not vest in A., but being however part of the inheritance & still remaining subject to the limitations of the settlement, on severance it became the property of A., & therefore the £500 belonged to him.—*Re LONDESBOROUGH (EARL), SPICER v. Merchantable timber was to mean & include all trunks & branches of trees not less than six inches in diameter at a height of four feet from the ground. The purchasers took possession of the forest, but shortly afterwards an agrarian law was passed in Latvia under which the forest & all the timber therein became the property of the Latvian State, the agreement became annulled, & all the rights of vendors & purchasers in the forest & the timber became entirely confiscated:—Held: the contract was not an executed contract on the part of the vendors at the date when it was signed, & the property in the timber had not passed to the purchasers; the performance of the contract was entirely frustrated by the act of the Latvian State, & the parties were released from it.—*KURSELL v. The sweepings consisted of ingredients used in making bread, together with dust & dirt & other odds & ends & string:—Held: the words "on the sale of any article" in the above sub-sect. were wide enough to cover the sale of these bakery sweepings; the effect of the sub-sect. was to put the risk upon the seller, who, knowing the constituents of the article which he chose to sell as food for cattle, was made responsible if in fact it contained some article deleterious; if the seller desired to protect himself against the stringent provisions of the Act, it was competent to him to do so by a special contract made for that purpose.—*PULLING v. - 13a. ————]—By an Order in Council made on Nov. 5, 1914, Cyprus was annexed, & by a Proclamation made thereunder on Mar. 3, 1915, revoking an earlier Proclamation, it was provided that "all Ottoman subjects, resident in Cyprus on Nov. 5, 1914, have become British subjects." An amending Order in Council made on Nov. 27, 1917, after reciting that doubts had arisen as to the effect of the Order & the proper interpretation of the Proclamation, ordered that the following persons (inter alios) should be deemed to have become British subjects by virtue thereof: "any Ottoman subject who was ordinarily resident & actually present in Cyprus on Nov. 5, 1914." Resp., an Ottoman subject by birth, carried on business in Cairo from 1893 to 1913. In Dec. 1913, he went to Cyprus, & after three or four months brought his family there. He rented a house in Cyprus monthly, & while there discontinued his business in Cairo. He was present in Cyprus on Nov. 5, 1914, & remained there until Oct. 1915, when he returned to Cairo, his family following in December. He received a passport describing him as a British subject, & was so registered at the British Consulate at Cairo, but after annual renewals registration was refused in 1919. He sued for a declaration that he was entitled to registration:—Held: if there were any difference between "resident" & "ordinarily resident" the latter became the test by virtue of the interpretative Order of 1917; but on the facts resp. was both "resident" & "ordinarily resident" in Cyprus on Nov. 5, 1914, whether or not Cyprus was then his domicile; & whatever may have been his motive for going there, he was a British subject by virtue of the Order in Council.—GOUT v. custodian. In an action to obtain release of their property :-- Held: the onus was on plffs. to show that they had lost their original German nationality before Jan. 10, 1920, & not on deft. to disprove it.

Pltfs. had left their birthplace. Idar, in the district of Birkenfeld, about 1893, & with the exception of short annual visits to their mother, &, in the case of one, six weeks' military training in 1890, they had resided uninterruptedly out of Germany from 1893 to 1917 or 1918, when they were repatriated, after war internment, to Idar, where according to the police register entries, if genuine, they were registered as stateless on their arrival, & also on their departure for Amsterdam in 1920. On Jan. 29, 1923, the Birkenfeld Govt. after inquiry as to the period of pltfs.' absence from Germany, & as to their German visits during that period, granted them certificates to the effect that during that period they had forfeited their German nationality by ten years' "uninterrupted" residence abroad within North German Nationality Law, 1870, s. 21, & were therefore stateless on Jan. 10, 1920. These certificates were based on the view of the Administrative Cts. which, in considering whether German visits break the ten years' period, look to the number, length, purpose & intent of those visits. They were, however directly contrary to the view of the Leipzig Reichsgericht, which holds that the smallest visit, accidental or otherwise, breaks the period :- Held : (2) the certificates, which were admittedly only prima facie evidence & open to review in any German etc., were not conclusive in an English etc., & the onus was on pltfs. to substantiate them ; (3) if the Leipzig Ct. view was right, the certificates were invalid ; (4) even if the Administrative Ct. view was right, pltfs. had failed to satisfy the English Ct. that an Administrative Ct. on being informed of all the circumstances, including fraudulent conduct by pltfs., applications as German nationals in 1915 & 1921, & previous false statements as to their German visits, would necessarily uphold the certificates ; (5) having regard to the conflict of opinion in the German etc., pltfs. had failed to discharge the onus of proving that by unquestionable & undoubted German law they had lost their nationality on Jan. 10, 1920. — *HAIN v. & subject thereto, were directed to hold the capital & income of the trust funds upon trust for the benefit of the issue of H. & in default of issue upon trust for H.'s nephews & nieces. H. was born in England of English parents but had resided in Germany since 1906 & had been twice married there to German wives. During the war, on Aug. 8, 1916, he obtained a certificate of naturalisation as a German. In these circumstances a summons was taken out by the trustees to have it determined whether the life interest of H. in the funds was forfeited by the charge imposed on property of German nationals in this country on Jan. 10, 1920, by the Treaty of Peace with Germany, art. 297, or Treaty of Peace Order, 1919, & how the income accrued since Aug. 4, 1914, ought to be disposed of. It was admitted at the hearing on behalf of H. that in a German ct. applying German law he would be recognised as a German citizen. No question arose as to the income before Nov. 4, 1915, which had been paid over to H.'s agent:—Held: (1) the decision whether a person was a German national within the Treaty & Order fell to be determined exclusively by German municipal law, & accordingly H. was a German national; (2) H.'s interest under the settlement was forfeited as on Jan. 10, 1920, & subject to the payment of costs the accumulations of income in the trustees' hands from Nov. 4, 1915, to Jan. 10, 1920, must be paid to the custodian.—*Re CHAMBERLAIN'S SETTLEMENT, CHAMBERLAIN v. In 1917 an objection was lodged against the re-election of applt., who was a British subject naturalised in this country & denationalised in Germany, at the election to be held in March of that year, on the ground of his enemy birth. Upon the invitation of the committee applt., first in a letter & afterwards at an interview, set forth various facts in proof of his loyalty to the country of his adoption, but eventually the committee refused to re-elect him. Applt. impeached this decision on the ground that the committee had acted arbitrarily & capriciously & had been influenced by irrelevant considerations:—Held: the decision of the committee had proceeded solely upon the ground of applt.'s enemy birth, & before deeming him ineligible for re-election on that ground he had been given an opportunity of being heard. referred to the registrar & merchants for assessment. Before debts had filed then claim in the registry the war had broken out. A few days before the Peace Treaty was ratified the claim & vouchers were filed, but by consent they were treated as having been filed after the ratification. Thereupon pliffs took out a summons for an order to set aside the filing & service of the claim & vouchers on the ground that under arts 296 & 297 of the Treaty & Treaty of Peace Order 1919, s 1 (xvi & xvii), the parties had no right to litigate the claim in the registry, inasmuch as, being a debt owing to German nationals, it had to be settled through the intervention of clearing houses. Held (1) debts' claim was not a debt but a right, which by the Peace Treaty, art 297, was subject to the right to be returned & liquidated in accordance with the law of the allied State . . . concerned, namely Great Britain, (2) not being a debt, art 296 did not apply, (3) although debts would not be able to handle the sum awarded there was nothing in art 297 or in Treaty of Peace Order, s 1 (xvi) to deprive debts of their right to proceed to a reference or to prevent pliffs paying money into it with a notice that it was in satisfaction of the claim of German subjects. THE MARITIMARIS [1920] P 172, 89 L J P 206, 12 L L O 50, 50 T L R 117, 15 Asp M L C 98.

It had been the practice of the bank that, if bills so sent were dishonoured, legal proceedings were taken against acceptors in Great Britain but the bills were retransmitted to the German office so that proceedings might be taken in the German courts against the German Indorsers. Licences covering the whole period of the war were issued to the London agency, empowering it to carry on banking business under supervision to the extent of completing current transactions so as to make its realisable assets available to its creditors so far as those transactions would in ordinary course have been carried out through the London establishment. The bill having been dishonoured on presentation, was retained by the London agency which debited the German office with the amount, & filed a letter, which owing to war conditions could not be sent, to the German office intimating the circumstances. If neither infant attained a vested interest the annuity passed to the husband, also a German national. The annuity was secured by the covenant of the wife's parents with the trustees, all British subjects, & was payable during the lives of the surviving covenantor & the surviving child, but the trustees were not to be liable for any loss occasioned by their neglect to enforce the covenant. The infants' contingent title accrued in possession on the wife's death on July 17, 1918, but the trustees had not enforced the payment of any instalment since then. The custodian having claimed the annuity, the trustees submitted the matter to the ct. The custodian had not obtained a vesting order:—Held: both the arrears & the contingent future instalments payable after Jan. 10, 1920, were property rights or interests within Peace Treaty Order, 1919, s. 1 (xvi), & notwithstanding the infants' personal incapacity, were caught by the charge.—*Re NEUBURGER'S SETTLEMENT, FORESHEW v. 215h. — — — — — Accumulations of annuities.]—

By his will dated Mar. 31, 1911, a testator bequeathed an annuity of £250 to an Austrian national "until he shall die or voluntarily or involuntarily alienate or encumber . . . the same." Testator died on Aug. 22, 1914, during the war. The annuity was therefore accumulated in the hands of his legal personal representative, who made the proper returns to the custodian under Trading with the Enemy Amendment Act, 1914 (c. 12), s. 3, but no vesting order was made under sect. 4. By Treaty of Peace (Austria) Order, 1920, the annuity & its accumulations were, as from July 16, 1920, charged in favour of the administrator of Austrian Property, to secure (inter alia) payment of debts owing by Austrian to British nationals:—Held: (1) the accumulations up to July 16, 1920, passed to the administrator of Austrian property; (2) the charge created by Treaty of Peace Order was not an involuntary alienation or encumbrance within the meaning of the will, so that the current annuity since July 16, 1920, was not forfeited, but was payable to the administrator of Austrian property.—*Re BIEDERMANN, BEST v. 215l. ——— Belonging to foreign bank in liquidation.]—Pltfs. were the receivers of the Austro-Hungarian Bank appointed by the Reparations Commission under Treaty of Peace with Austria, art. 206, & entrusted with the duty of liquidating the bank for the purpose of distributing the liability on the currency notes of the bank among the several States among which the territory of the former Austro-Hungarian monarchy had been divided. Art. 249 of that Treaty provided that "subject to any contrary stipulation" in the Treaty, the British Govt. might retain & liquidate the property in this country of "nationals of the former Austrian Empire" which expression, as the ct. found, included the Austro-Hungarian Bank, & charge it with the payment of claims by British nationals in respect of (inter alia) debts due to them by Austrian nationals. By the same article Austria undertook to compensate her own nationals for the retention of & charge upon their property. Defts. were the custodian of enemy property in this country & the administrator appointed by Order in Council to liquidate the property of Austrian nationals in this country & administer the above-mentioned charge. Pltfs. claimed that art. 206 was a "contrary stipulation" within art. 249, that the property of the bank in this country was consequently not subject to the charge, & that they & not defts. were entitled to administer that property:—Held: there was no inconsistency between the two articles, which dealt with different subject matters, the only effect of art. 249 upon the liquidation under art. 206 being to replace the assets of Austrian nationals in this country by assets of equal value in Austria if the Austrian Govt. carried out its undertaking, & the action must be dismissed.—LUXARDO v. 215m. ——— Policy money—Payable in England.]—Pltf. co. was incorporated by special Act of the Legislature of New York, & had its central office & the bulk of its assets in New York. The co. had a branch in London, & in most of the capitals of Europe, the branch in Paris being its head office for Europe. The general manager of the London branch had no general authority to issue policies in this country. Certain life policies signed by the president & secretary of the co. & countersigned by the general manager for Europe were issued in London to German nationals before the outbreak of the war. The policies were not under seal. The policy moneys were expressed to be payable in London, but all premiums were payable either at the central office in New York or at the office where the insurance was payable & proofs of death were to be furnished at the New York office. An indorsement on the policy provided that it should be construed according to English law. In an action to determine whether the policy moneys payable under the policies in question, which had matured on or before Jan. 10, 1920, the date when the Treaty of Peace with Germany came into force, were "property, rights & interests within His Majesty's Dominions" belonging to German nationals, & as such were subject to the charge created by Treaty of Peace Order, 1919, s. 1 (xvi):—Held: (1) there was nothing in art. 206 of s. V of the Peace Treaty, or in par. 11 of the annex thereto, to indicate that the property, rights, & interests of the assured under such contracts were to be excluded from the general charge under par. 4 of the annex to s. IV.; (2) inasmuch as a corp'n. might have a dual residence, & there was evidence that pltfs. were resident both in New York & in London carrying on business in both places & in both places being subject to the jurisdiction of the ct's., it was permissible & necessary to look at the terms of the contracts & to determine from them at what place the debts would be recoverable. Applying that test in the present case, the debts were recoverable in London where they were expressed to be payable, & that being so, they were situate within His Majesty's Dominions & became subject to the charge. NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE CO. v. of a quantity of nitrate, delivery of which was to be made to debts.' agent alongside the vessel at Iquique, & payment for which was to be made in London after presentation of bills of lading. Several cargoes were shipped, but war broke out before the vessels arrived at their destination & before the bills of lading, which were made out to order, could be presented. In these circumstances debts. procured delivery to their sub-purchasers by giving an indemnity to the ships, & presumably received payment for the nitrate from their sub-purchasers. After an interval the German sellers duly notified their claim for the price of the nitrate & for interest to the German clearing office, which in turn passed it on to the British clearing office. Debts. were prepared to pay what the Germans claimed as the price of the goods, though they disputed the existence of any debt, either in the strict legal sense or in the sense in which the expression is used in Treaty of Peace, art. 296, & they disputed the claim for interest. As the Treaty only contemplated the admission of debts, & debts. were prepared to pay the amount claimed as the price of the goods, the British clearing office admitted the debt, & the principal money was cleared in 1923. At a later period the claim for interest was again put forward. This claim debts. still disputed, but the two clearing offices arrived at a joint decision that interest was payable upon the principal sum admitted by the British clearing office. Notice of the decision was conveyed to debts. in a letter dated Sept. 13, 1923. The decision took the form of an intimation that the British & German clearing offices had jointly agreed that interest in accordance with par. 22 of the annex to sect. III. of Part X. of the Treaty was payable upon the admitted debt at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum calculated from dates specified. The notice then continued as follows: "In default of a notice of appeal under r. 22 of the Rules of Procedure of the Anglo-German Mixed Arbitral Tribunal, the interest on the said sum of . . . at the rate of 5 per cent. from (the date named) to the date of crediting & advice to the German clearing office will be credited by the British clearing office to the German clearing office." No appeal was brought, & after the expiry of the time for appealing, pltf., the controller of the British clearing office, sought to enforce this joint decision by action on the ground that a joint decision unappealed from should, on a true construction of the Peace Treaty, be regarded in the same light as if it was a foreign judgment, or the award of an arbitrator, & should, therefore, be enforced by the cts. of this country on the same principle as either a foreign judgment or an award is enforced:—Held: under Treaty of Peace, art. 296, as carried out by Treaty of Peace Act, 1919, & Treaty of Peace Order, 1919, the joint decisions of the clearing offices were not in the nature of judgments or of awards under an arbn., so as themselves to be enforceable by action, & therefore the action failed. —CLEARING OFFICE CONTROLLER v. In 1918 the Board of Trade, under the above Act, ordered the business carried on by the Dresdner Bank in London to be wound up, & appointed a controller to wind up the business, with power to collect all moneys owing to the bank & to bring actions in the name of the bank:—Held: (1) the transaction was part of the "business" of the London branch of the Dresdner Bank; defts.' liability to put the Dresdner Bank in funds to meet the bills was an asset of the London branch within the above sect., even if the London branch accepted the bills on the instructions of the head office in Berlin & debited the current account of the head office with the amount paid on the bills, & defts. were liable to repay plffs. the money paid by them to the Bank of England in respect of the bills with simple interest at 5 per cent. on each instalment from the date of payment; (2) the action by the controller in the name of the Dresdner Bank (London Agency) was not an action in the name of a branch of that bank but an action in the name of the Dresdner Bank, & the addition of the words "London Agency," being merely descriptive, did not change plffs. from being the Dresdner Bank into something unknown to the law as a legal person.—*DRESDNER BANK v. 223d. ——J—At the outbreak of war in 1914, a British subject, resident in England, & three German subjects, resident in Germany, were carrying on business in partnership in London. The outbreak of war having dissolved the partnership, the British partner with the sanction of the Home Office proceeded to wind up the business. He got in a large sum of money, representing assets of the business, & discharged nearly all the liabilities, & had a balance in hand. The controller, appointed in 1918 under Trading with the Enemy Acts, 1916 (c. 105) & 1918 (c. 31), sued, in the name of the firm, the British partner for the balance of assets. Deft. contended that he had himself claims against the business, & that he was entitled to the taking of partnership accounts to ascertain those claims before paying over the assets:—Held: under the Acts, the controller had not the powers of a trustee in bkpry., his outside powers being those of a liquidator in a voluntary winding up, & he could not therefore override the ordinary law of partnership which entitled deft. to the taking of accounts between himself & the other partners.—*MEYER & Co. v. By an agreement, dated Mar. 28, 1913, H. was engaged as manager of the Newcastle branch of a German co. registered in Holland until June 30, 1918, at a salary of not less than £1,000 per annum. On Aug. 14, 1916, the Board of Trade made an order to wind up the business & appointed a controller under sect. 1 (1) of the above Act. On Aug. 31, 1916, the controller dispensed with the services of H. At that date H. had in his possession certain moneys of the business, which he claimed to retain, as against the controller, to satisfy his claim for damages for breach by the co. of the agreement:—Held: the claim was against the co., & not against the business, & H. was not entitled to retain the moneys as against the controller.—*Re VULCAAN COAL CO., HARRISON v. 225a. ——— To wind up partnership—Parties.—At the outbreak of war three German subjects were carrying on business in London in co-partnership with F., their English partner. Under the partnership articles F. was the managing partner in London, & on the dissolution by the declaration of war he carried on the business & collected the assets with the view of liquidation. No accounts had been taken between the partners since Dec. 31, 1913. F. died in 1920, & deft. was his legal personal representative. By an order of the Board of Trade it was ordered that all the property, rights, & interests of the three German partners in the assets of the firm in respect of any claim against the English partner, or his estate, should vest in pltf., who should take all necessary proceedings to collect what might be due to the German partners. In an action by pltf. as custodian of enemy property with the object of winding up the partnership he claimed an account against deft. of all dealings between the German partners & the English partner, including all dealings with the partnership assets since the dissolution, payment of what should be found due, & an inquiry of what the partnership property consisted. On Feb. 17, 1915, the Admiralty requisitioned the ship as she then stood at the price of £86,000, but it was not until July 30, 1917, that the Admiralty paid the builders that sum, & they refused to pay any interest from the date of

On Dec. 1, 1917, the Board of Trade pronounced an order vesting the sum of £79,732, with interest from the date of receipt of the installments, in the custodian for Scotland under the above Act:—Held: the custodian was entitled to decree for £79,732 with interest from the date of the interlocutor of the First Division.—*PENNEY v. 237b. ——— Right to dividends—On shares held by alien enemies.—An English co. had certain alien enemy shareholders & certain assets in Germany. From time to time after the outbreak of the war with Germany, resolutions were passed by the directors & by the co. in general meeting declaring interim & final dividends respectively, subject in each case to a condition that as regards members of the co. resident in Germany, Austria & Turkey, the dividend should be payable only out of assets in Germany, & as regards members resident elsewhere out of assets in England. By an order made on Aug. 24, 1916, under sect. 4 (1) of the above Act, it was ordered that the right to transfer the shares held by alien enemies & to receive any dividends "now due & to accrue due thereon" vested in the custodian, & the shares were transferred into his name in due course:—Held: the resolutions, so far as they provided for payment only out of assets in Germany, were void as against the custodian, & the co. was liable out of any assets in its hands to pay him the amounts of the dividends, whether declared before or after the vesting order.—*ARAMAYO FRANKKE MINES, LTD. v. 237c. ——— Part of trust income—Payable to enemy.—(1) Held: sect. 2 (1) of the above Act related only to moneys payable under contractual obligations arising out of loans, partnership or membership of a co., & not to trust income payable by trustees to an enemy even when the income was derived from dividends on shares.

(2) By his will a testator, who died in 1901, bequeathed his estate upon trusts whereby the residue & the proceeds of sale thereof were to go in equal shares to his children; & he directed his trustees to retain the share of each of his daughters upon trust during the life of the daughter to pay the annual income to her for her separate use without of anticipation & until she should do any act or thing whereby the same if payable to her absolutely or any part thereof, might have become payable or forfeited to or vested in any other person. In the event of a forfeiture under this provision the income was given upon a discretionary trust during the remainder of the life of the daughter, & subject thereto the daughter's share was to be held in trust for her children & issue as therein mentioned. One of the testator's daughters had intermarried with a German in 1908, & had since resided in Germany. Since the coming into force of the above Act, the trustees had accumulated the income of her share, which amounted on Jan. 10, 1920, the date of the ratification of the Treaty of Peace with Germany, to about £4,000:—Held: the daughter's life interest was not determined on the coming into force of the above Act, but ceased on Jan. 10, 1920, by reason of the Treaty of Peace charge, & the accumulations of income up to that date were subject to the charge.—*Re HALLENSTEIN, HALSTED v. 237d. ——— Liability of custodian for super tax.—Property belonging to an enemy which is paid to or vested in the custodian under the above Act is, pending its disposition by Order in Council after the termination of the war, removed from the control & beneficial ownership of the enemy. During the interval the beneficial ownership is in statutory suspense or abeyance, the custodian having meanwhile limited powers of dealing with the property.

When war broke out in 1914, M., an enemy within the Act, owned real estate in England & shares & securities in British cos. By orders under sect. 4 of the Act the real estate, shares & securities were vested in the custodian. The Special Comrs. for Income Tax assessed the custodian to super tax as agent or receiver for M. The custodian disputed the legality of the assessment:—Held: (1) M.'s beneficial ownership of the property having ceased on the making of the vesting orders, the profits & gains received by the custodian were received by him in respect of M., but did not in his hands belong to M.; he did not receive or hold them as agent or receiver or trustee for M. within 5 & 6 Vict. c. 35, s. 41, & therefore, he was not liable to be assessed to super tax; (2) as M. could not, after the war, ask to receive back the property except on the footing that a sum equal to the amount of super tax which, but for the war, he would have been liable to pay was paid, the custodian must, under the discretion given to the ct. by sect. 5 (1) of the Act of 1914, pay that sum to the Comrs. as analogous to payment of a debt under sect. 5 (2). Re MONSTER, [1920] 1 Ch. 268; 80 L. 250 vii. — — Plaintiff, compelled to sue to establish caveat.—An alien enemy, unless he be within the realm by the licence of the King, cannot sue in our cts. either by himself or by any person on his behalf until peace is restored.

Where a municipality, having sold land for taxes, serves notice on the owner to take proceedings on a caveat, thereby compelling him to proceed to establish it, the owner, if an alien enemy, should be treated, to some extent at least, as in the position of an alien enemy who is deft. to an action. Therefore the action should not be dismissed on the ground that plff. is an alien enemy, for therefrom a discharge of an order continuing the caveat & a discharge of the caveat would follow.—*REVENUE-TOW-CRIMINAL v. Defts. were a firm of merchants, British subjects, carrying on business in Bombay. On June 24, 1914, A, a German subject, drew a bill of exchange upon defts in favour of pltfs. The bill purported to be drawn upon defts against fifty bales of goods per a German steamer. The bill was accepted by defts. on July 20, 1914, payable at the office of pltfs. in Bombay. The steamer reached Bombay just before the outbreak of war, & in order to evade capture left Bombay & took shelter in a neutral port. The bill was presented for payment on the due date with the shipping documents attached but was dishonoured by non-payment. Pltfs. filed a suit on 405a. — — —.]—For many years there existed in Germany works for the manufacture of dyestuffs (Farbenfabriken), belonging to a German concern which carried on business in England through agents. In 1878 the agents were a partnership firm consisting of A. & two other persons. In 1895 A. was the sole partner. In that year a limited co. was formed & registered in England, & in 1898 its name was changed to B. Co. Its original capital was £5,000, divided into 500 shares of £10 each of which A. held five shares & the German concern 470. In 1905 the capital was increased to £25,000 by the issue of 2,000 new shares fully paid, & in 1909 it was increased to £100,000, by the issue of 7,500 like shares. At the times material the German concern held 9,912 shares & A. twenty shares. By an agreement dated in 1910 between the German concern & B. Co., the district of the German concern was defined as the whole world outside the United Kingdom with the Channel Islands & the Isle of Man, & the district of B. Co. as the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands & the Isle of Man. The German concern bound itself not to import goods into B. Co.'s district except for the purposes of B. Co., & B. Co. bound itself not to import into the German concern's district except for the purposes of the German concern.

By an agreement, dated in 1912, between the same parties & operative for seven years, the German concern bound itself to sell to B. Co. & to no one else in the United Kingdom for sale in the United Kingdom anilines & chemicals manufactured by the German concern, & B. Co. bound itself to buy from the German concern & from no other manufacturer such dyestuffs. By unwritten agreement B. Co. was bound from its inception to import only from the German concern. From the time of the registration of B. Co. A.'s firm ceased to act as agents for the German concern. B. Co. sold not in the name of the German concern, but in its own name, & as a principal; but it announced to the world on its office windows, & to its customers on notepaper & other documents & by books, catalogues & samples, that it was the sole importer in England of the manufactures of the German concern. It was thus brought home to the customers that they were buying the produce of the German concern as before. The new régime was in effect a continuation of the agency though legally the agency had ceased. The business of B. Co. was conducted by A. & another director, both resident in England. The German concern supplied them with lists of prices to be charged by the German concern to B. Co., B. Co. making a profit by selling to customers at a price higher than the list. If an English customer offered to buy at a price lower than the list, the German concern would reduce its price to B. Co. accordingly. The overwhelming shareholding of the German concern in B. Co. caused it to be vitally interested, as seller & buyer, in the contract between itself & B. Co. & as seller in the contract between B. Co. & its customer. Down to the outbreak of war between England & Germany on Aug. 4, 1914, the control of B. Co., its business, affairs & acts, were in the hands of the German concern. On Apr. 1, 1914, B. Co. entered into a contract with a British firm for a supply to the firm of dyestuffs, identified by letters & numbers as the manufacture of the German concern or of other German manufacturers, of which samples from Germany were in the possession of the British firm. It was provided that any duties imposed by the British Govt. on the goods should be paid by the British firm or the price should be advanced accordingly. It was further provided that deliveries or orders off the contract might be suspended by either party if any contingency should arise beyond the control of the parties, such as fire, accidents, war, strikes, or the like. The contract covered a period unexpired at the outbreak of war.

ment were varied.—Held: the agreement of Sept. 1914, was not rendered null & void by s. 3 (6) of the above Act, nor by Trading with the Enemy Act, 1914.—BROKEN HILL v. WALNOCK (1922), 30 C. L. R. 362.—AUS.

402 viii. — — —.]—On Feb. 2, 1914, deft. firm agreed to sell to pltf. steel bars under a c.i.f. contract free Hooghly. The goods were shipped on July 2, 1914, per a German steamer, which was subsequently captured with her cargo & condemned by the Prize Ct.—Held: the contract under which the goods would be delivered in the Hooghly became impossible by the outbreak of war within Indian Contract Act, s. 56, & was void.—

405 I. — — —.]—Effect of suspensory clause.—By a contract made after the outbreak of war with Germany to supply German dyes, deft. was not to be liable in case of non-arrival of the steamers at certain ports on account of the state of war. The ship & the dyes therein were seized & condemned by a Prize Ct.—Held: (1) the contract was unenforceable; (2) the Royal Proclamation of Sept. 8, 1914, put an end to the contract.—ABUL RAZACK v. KHANDI ROW (1918), 1 L. R. 41 Mad. 225.—IND.

sp. Debtor of alien enemy.—Payment of interest in respect of transaction entered into before outbreak of war.—Right to repayment.—Where a person indebted to an alien enemy had paid interest in respect of a transaction entered into before the outbreak of hostilities & sought a refund of the amount paid for the period between the outbreak of hostilities & the date of a licence to trade obtained by the enemy firm.—Held: he was not entitled to such refund, as there was no suspension of interest in respect of such transactions during that period.—VALLI, ETC. v. BRATHOLD REIF (1919), 1 L. R. 44 Bom. 1.—IND.

sq. Erection of machinery.—Replacement of defective parts.—In Mar. 1913, resp. contracted to supply & erect certain machinery for applt. In Mar.

At that date quantities of dyestuffs remained undelivered & were never afterwards delivered. An order was made by the Board of Trade, under Trading with the Enemy Amendment Act, 1916 (c. 105), s. 1, for the winding up of the business of B. Co., & a controller appointed. In the winding up the British firm claimed damages for breach of contract in the non-fulfilment of deliveries. The controller resisted the claim on the grounds: (a) that the contract was dissolved at the outbreak of war, because B. Co. was an enemy or of enemy character, because the parties contracted on the footing that the goods should come from Germany, & because continued existence or performance of the contract would involve intercourse with, or tend to assist the enemy; (b) that owing to the suspension clause no right to damages had yet arisen; (c) that the object of the contract had been frustrated, because the period of suspension was indefinite & beyond the contemplation of the parties, because performance of the contract was prevented by Govt. action or embargo, & because the basis of the contract was that the importation of the goods to be supplied should continue to be possible & by reason of war it was rendered impossible. On application to the Ct. by the controller for directions whether the claim should be admitted as a debt due from B. Co.:—Held: (1) at the date of the outbreak of war B. Co. assumed enemy character, & accordingly, the contract became dissolved by the outbreak of war as being a current contract entered into with a co. which eo instanti assumed enemy character; (2) the abrogation of the contract by outbreak of war being founded on public policy, the presence of a suspension clause in the event of war did not assist the claimant, "if 'war' in the clause included war between England & Germany the clause was void as against public policy, & the claim must be rejected; (3) assuming that B. Co. had not assumed enemy character at the outbreak of war, the claim must fail on the ground that, the contract being for the supply of goods to be obtained from Germany, further performance on the outbreak of war involved intercourse with the enemy & became illegal accordingly; that, the contracts having been made on the basis that the existing commercial conditions would continue & that the basis having ceased to exist by outbreak of war between England & Germany, the commercial object of the contract had been frustrated, & the contract was dissolved at the outbreak of war; (4) the suspension clause was not intended by the parties to apply to war between England & Germany; (5) the doctrine of frustration applied to contracts for the sale of unascertained goods.—Re BADISCHE CO., LTD., Re BAYER CO., LTD., Re GRIESHEIM ELEKTROK., LTD., Re KALLE

520a. ————]—A natural-born German subject left Germany in 1878 & went to Australia, where, in 1908, he took the oath of allegiance to His Majesty & was granted under the powers of the Naturalisation Act, 1903, a certificate of naturalisation by which he became entitled to all political & other rights, powers, & privileges to which a natural-born British subject is entitled in the Commonwealth. He subsequently became a resident in London & was charged & convicted for that, being an alien, he had failed to furnish to a registration officer the particulars required by Aliens Restriction (Consolidated) Order, 1916, & his conviction was afterwards upheld by a Div. Ct. In an action brought by pltf. against the A.-G. for a declaration that he was no alien in England, but a liege subject of His Majesty the King, & entitled to the protection of His Majesty the King in all parts of His Majesty's Kingdom & Dominions: Held: neither the taking of the oath of allegiance alone, nor the taking of the oath coupled with the grant of the certificate in Australia, made pltf. a British subject in the United Kingdom, & he was, therefore, an alien when in the United Kingdom, & the declaration must be refused. Pltf. was at least to this extent to be regarded as an alien, that he was a person so described in British Nationality & Status of Aliens Act, 1914 (c. 17), & for the purposes of that Act. He was a person entitled under that Act to apply as an alien for & to have granted to him in the United Kingdom a certificate of naturalisation.—MARKWALD v. A.-G., [1920] 1 Ch. 318; 89 L. J. sa. (camel).—Under the condition of affairs which has existed in Western Australia for many years, camels are to be regarded as belonging to the class of domestic animals.—NADA SHAH v. SLEEFMAN (1917), 19 W. A. L. R. 119.—AUS.

PART II. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 1.—A.

19 II. ———.—A fox born & reared in captivity escaped & was killed by deffs. upon a stranger's land a week later:—Held: the fox was an animal ferre natura. Plff.'s qualified property therein came to an end when the animal escaped & was reduced into actual possession by deffs.; there was no immediate pursuit, nor was there animus revertendi.—CAMPBELL v. HENRIETY (1917), 39 O. L. R. 528; 37 D. L. R. 289.—CAN.

PART II. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 2.

74 II. ———.—Animal killed by trespasser.—When a person kills a wild animal on the property of another the carcass does not belong to the killer but to the proprietor of the property, & the latter, either himself or by his duly authorised agent, is entitled to demand & if refused, seize the carcass, & such persons as help him to exercise his right are doing no wrong; but as against any other person, the killer has a right to retain possession of the carcass.—R. v. ARTU RANTRA (1924), 1 L. R. 3 Pat. 649.—IND.

PART II. SECT. 3.

sb. As between husband & wife—Wife's cattle on husband's farm.—Where cattle belonging to a wife are placed on her husband's farm, fed from the crops grown thereon & looked after by him in carrying on farming operations, as not as her agent or manager, but as his own business, & the offspring of the original stock are treated in the same way & sold from time to time & the proceeds invested in other stock, the increase of the original animals & the animals bought from the proceeds of the sale cannot be claimed by the wife.—MINAKER v. HADDEN, [1917] 3 W. W. R. 774.—CAN.

PART III. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 1.—B.

so. Straying bull tied up during night—Released & driven away next day—Subsequently found dying.—Deft. tied up over night a bull which had strayed on his premises, to prevent it damaging his cows, & released it next day & drove it away. In the evening it was found castrated near the boundary of deff.'s farm & died the next day. In an action for damages:—Held: deff.'s actions were justified, & in the absence of evidence as to when or how or by whom the animal was injured, plff. could not succeed.—FICOWICH v. MALESCHCHAK, [1924] 4 D. L. R. 585; 3 W. W. R. 308.—CAN.

PART III. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 1.—E.

sd. Claim against custodian of animal—Onus of proof as to absence of negligence.—The onus is upon the custodian to show that the injury did not occur through his act or negligence only where it is shown that the injury occurred when the animal was or should have been in his custody or control, or that he was under an obligation to account for it to the owner.—FICOWICH v. MALESCHCHAK, [1924] 4 D. L. R. 585; 3 W. W. R. 308.—CAN.

132 II. a. ———.—Animal falling in well—Animal lawfully at large.—Plff.'s horse while lawfully running at large was killed by falling into an open well on deff.'s land. Deft., who knew of the open well, was residing outside the province, the land being occupied by a tenant.—Held: deff.'s breach of Open Wells Act gave plff. a right of action "on a tort committed within the jurisdiction," justifying allowance of the issue of a writ for service on deff. ex furis.—BROTHERTON v. KENNEDY, [1919] 2 W. W. R. 803; 47 D. L. R. 131; 12 Sask. L. R. 304.—CAN.

132 II. b. ———.—What is an "open well."—Whether a well is an "open well" or not is a question of fact to be proved at the trial. While it might be an "open well" if insecurely covered, the fact that an animal falls into it without any evidence of how it occurred does not prove it such, nor does the fact that the material of the covering was seven years old.—DRYSDALE v. REID, [1920] 3 W. W. R. 832.—CAN.

- 145a. Animal killed.—Meaning of "external & visible injury."—A policy of insurance provided that an insurance co. should indemnify the insured against death solely attributable to accidental external & visible injury to any horse the property of the insured, duly certified by a veterinary surgeon, & further provided that the due observance & fulfilment of the conditions of the policy should be a condition precedent to any liability of the co. under the policy. The insured's horse, drawing a loaded van, got out of the driver's control, bolted, & fell into a ditch with the van on top of it, & died in consequence of the pressure of a shaft upon its windpipe. There was no mark visible on the skin of the horse, & no certificate of a veterinary surgeon was obtained.—Held: (1) it was not necessary that there should have been any mark visible on the skin of the horse, & the injury was external & visible; & (2) it was a condition precedent to the insured's right to recover that the death of the horse should be duly certified by a veterinary surgeon, but, on the facts of the case, the co. had waived compliance with such condition.—*BURRIDGE & SON v. He is entitled to strengthen it & repair it by adding strands of wire to prevent his cattle getting upon the land of his neighbour, & the latter has no right to remove the strands. If he does so, & the cattle get upon his land by his act, he cannot claim against the adjoining owner for resulting damages.—ARMSTRONG v. THOMPSON, [1923] 3 D. L. R. 74; 2 W. W. R. 609.—CAN.

194 II. —[J.—]—Where a heifer was thoroughbred & registered & its owner intended to breed it to a certain thoroughbred registered bull, the owner of the heifer was given damages for the difference in value between the calf anticipated as the result of such breeding & the calf that was born as the result of a bull's trespass. Damage by reason of the possible influence upon the strain of subsequent offspring was held too remote & uncertain to be considered.—MCLEAN v. BRETT, [1919] 3 W. W. R. 521; 49 D. L. R. 162.—CAN.

194 III. —[J.—]—Deft.'s trespassing "scrub" bull served pltf.'s young purebred heifer.—Held: pltf. was entitled to damages for the decreased value of the heifer caused by her growth being stunted & shape being affected by being bred at an early age, but not to damages based on a consideration of the effects on the minds of others of an erroneous theory that the heifer was liable to "throw back" to the first bull in future breeding.—COTTEINS v. GREAVES, [1920] 3 W. W. R. 702; 54 D. L. R. 650.—CAN.

194 IV. —[J.—]—Deft. negligently allowed his mare to escape & trespass in another's field where she kicked & injured a farm boy while she was being ejected.—Held: the injury was not too remote.—HARRISON v. ARMSTRONG (1917), 51 L. T. 38.—IR.

195 III. —[J.—]—The owner of a bull at large contrary to law must be held to have known that he would naturally seek to cover any heifer or trespassed on plaintiff's land which was not enclosed by a lawful fence. Plaintiff's son, on horseback, was chasing the cattle out when plaintiff proceeded on foot to drive a steer through a gateway and was charged by the steer and injured. Deft. had no knowledge that the steer was of a vicious nature or liable to attack persons:—Held, plaintiff could not recover damages, as the injury was not an ordinary consequence of the trespass; the damages claimed were too remote, & the proximate cause of the injury was plaintiff's action in approaching the animal on foot which he should not have done. —HUTTON v. 258a. Mare attacking horse—Strange mare turned into field with horse.—Trespass to person or goods by an animal in which there is at common law a valuable property, such as horses & cattle, does not generally render its owner liable.

Deft. put a mare into a field in which there was a horse belonging to pltf. without notifying pltf. The mare kicked the horse, which had to be destroyed. No scienter was proved in deft., but it was found by the deputy county ct. judge that the propensity of horses running loose to injure one another in sport or quarrel was common knowledge:—Held: (1) the mare was not within the class of dangerous animals which the owner must keep at his peril according to the rule in Fletcher v. Rylands (see No. 195); (2) deft. was entitled to assume that the mare, being mansuetæ naturæ, was an innocent animal, & having no notice of any fact indicating the contrary, was not under any duty towards pltf. to give notice of his intention to place the mare in the field, or to have a person on the watch or in charge of her, & on the whole deft. was not liable either for breach of an absolute duty or for negligence.—*MANTON v. 344 xii. — Loss of animals.—

Pltf. was the owner of a mare which he delivered to def't. for agistment in his paddock of 6,000 acres, which paddock was heavily timbered & covered with blackboys. After the mare had remained in the paddock for some time, pltf. requested the delivery of the mare in two months' time. Def't. made endeavours to find the mare, but only saw it on one occasion, & thereafter made many attempts to locate the mare, but without success:—Held: def't. was not liable to pltf. for the value of the mare, there being no evidence of negligence.—ROBINSON v. WATERS (1920), 22 W. A. L. R. 66.—AUS.

344 xiii. — Failure to detect loss within reasonable time.—A large number of sheep were lost, & there was evidence rendering it probable that these had been driven off the run:—Held: an agister of sheep must show that he took reasonable care to see the sheep were on the agistment area, & failure to detect this loss within reasonable time was clear evidence of negligence.—SPRING v. YOUNG, S. A. S. R. 116.—AUS.

344 xiv. — Onus of agister.—An agister is bound to take reasonable care of the animal entrusted to him, & when the owner comes for it, if he cannot produce it he must show that he took all reasonable precautions against its disappearance.—COMSTOCK v. ANCHROFT ESTATES, LTD., [1917] 1 W. W. R. 1419; 23 B. C. R. 4761.—CAN.

344 xv. — Onus of negativing negligence.—In case of loss of animals while in the care of an agister, the onus is on him to show circumstances negativing negligence on his part.—MCCAULEY v. HUBER, [1920] 3 W. W. R. 123; 54 D. L. R. 150.—CAN.

sq. — Failure to provide food & water.—Where horses have been delivered into the custody of an owner of pasture lands to be kept & pastured by him in return for a money payment, it is his duty to see that the horses are provided with sufficient food & water, & if he neglects these duties & a loss by using reasonable diligence he could have recovered them.

If, having failed to use such diligence, he is sued for loss of the cattle, he must prove, in order to discharge himself, that such diligence would have been unavailing; it is not for the bailor to prove that it would have retrieved the loss.

A farmer accepted certain cattle for agistment. Some of them were stolen without his default. After learning that they were missing he made no effort, whether by informing the owner or the police, or otherwise to recover them. It was doubtful whether any reasonable attempt on his part would have led to their recovery:—Held: he was liable for their loss.—COLDMAN v. HILL [1919] 1 K. B. 443; 88 L. J. K. B. 491; 111 L. T. 412; 35 T. L. R. 146; 63 Sol. J. 166, C. A.

390a. ——— Resale of horse at loss—Form of action.—A vendor gave a warranty of sound workable condition on the sale of a horse. The warranty was fulfilled, but the purchaser wrongfully refused delivery, & returned the horse. The vendor then put it up at auction as "in dispute," & without a warranty, when through death or a loss through depreciation is thereby incurred he is liable in damages.—METX v. MARSHALL (1922), 70 D. L. R. 14; [1922] 3 W. W. R. 660.—CAN.

356 iv. ——— —Or statute—An agister has a lien on the pastured animals under Possessory Liens Act, R.S.A., 1922 (c. 104), but not under Livery Stable-keepers Act, R.S.A., 1922 (c. 107).—SPARKMAN v. WARD, [1925] 2 D. L. R. 922; [1925] 2 W. W. R. 181.—CAN.

362 i. ——— —I or malicious injury.—Appet. had cattle on his land under grazing contracts with the owners. These cattle were maliciously driven off the lands & injured:—Held: appet. as bailee in possession could claim compensation for the cattle entrusted to his care.—WORTHINGTON v. TIPPERARY COUNTY COUNCIL, [1920] 2 I. R. 233; 54 I. L. R. 77.—IR.

PART V.

369 xv. ——— —If a hired horse is in a sound condition when taken out, & it is brought back injured, the onus of proof in a claim for damages for negligence is on deft. The hirer is bound to treat the horse with the degree of care which a person of ordinary discretion would use towards his own, but if the horse is so treated & nevertheless receives an injury the hirer is not liable in damages for such injury.—REINSETH v. CAMPBELL (1920), 52 D. L. R. 357.—CAN.

369 xvi. ——— —Where a person hires an animal & it dies while in his custody, the onus is upon him to establish that he took care of it. That care is the care which a prudent man would take of his own animal under the circumstances.—MURRAY v. COLLINS, [1920] 2 W. W. R. 815; 53 D. L. R. 120.—CAN.

369 xvii. ——— —Deft. hired a horse from pltf. to drive from T. to L. & return. At a distance of between six & eight miles from S., the horse fell lame in the right hind leg. Deft. drove it to S., put it in a livery stable & gave instructions to have the hoof of the right hind leg re-shod. Deft. hired another horse & continued his journey to L., a distance of over eight miles. He returned next day, took the horse out, & finding that it was not then lame, started with it on the return journey. After travelling about three miles, the horse again fell lame & kept getting a little lamor all the way to T. The journey from S. to T., a distance of twenty-two miles, took seven & one-half hours. There was no evidence as to what caused the horse's lameness. There was no evidence that there was, between the place where the horse fell lame & T., any suitable place in which the horse could have been placed & cared for, or where deft. could have hired another horse to continue the return journey:—Held: as the lameness when it first developed on the return journey was not shown to have been of a more serious nature than often happens to a horse which may nevertheless walk, or even trot slowly, fifteen to twenty miles without serious distress, deft. could not be held guilty of negligence until he had travelled a sufficient distance to satisfy himself that the lameness was increasing so as to make it dangerous to the welfare of the horse to continue the journey.—GAGNON v. LANGIS (1920), 48 N. B. R. 76.—CAN.

374 ii. ——— Bill of sale granted by bailee—Rights of grantee.—A., the owner of twenty-seven cows depasturing on his farm, agreed to lease his farm & cows to G. for a term of years, & it was agreed that G. should have the right to purchase the farm & stock at any time during the term. G. was given possession of the stock & farm. G. gave to applt. a bill of sale over the cows. A. recovered possession of his farm & cows from G., & shortly thereafter applt. seized & sold the cows under his bill of sale. Thirty-four cows were seized & sold, only nine of which were of the original herd, the balance having been bought by G. during the time he had possession of the farm. A. claimed damages for the seizure:—Held: it had not been shown that the cattle substituted by G. for those originally bailed to him had become the property of A., who was entitled to damages only in respect of the cows originally bailed.—NORFOLK CO-OPERATIVE DAIRY CO., LTD. v. ALLEN, [1924] N. Z. L. R. 136.—N.Z.

374 iii. ——— Loss by bailee—Negligence.—In an action for the value of a horse which was lost after it had been hired to deft. under an agreement whereby the latter undertook to take "good care in every way" thereof, it appeared that the horse, which was unbroken, was received by deft. & put into a pasture belonging to a neighbour of deft., & deft. went to see it every other day. The pasture was surrounded by a fence of two strands of wire, & the horse got out twice during the winter but was put back. It disappeared about the end of the following April. The fence was down in one place, & the evidence showed a custom among the farmers in the neighbourhood to allow horses not in use to run at large during the winter. While deft. was given the right to work the horse, it was shown that it was not customary in that locality to break horses until the spring:—Held: deft. had taken sufficiently good care of the horse & was not liable for its loss.—ZIMMERMAN v. ARCHER (1922), 63 D. L. R. 399; [1922] 2 W. W. R. 524.—CAN.

380 i. Contract—Covering mare—Damages for breach.—Breach of a contract to breed mares to a stallion is not a ground for damages, in the absence of evidence upon which such damages may be estimated with reasonable certainty.—SINCLAIR v. WALKER, [1917] 2 W. W. R. 321.—CAN.

PART VI. SECT. 1.

ti. ——— Sale of bull—Bull sterile.—At an auction sale advertised "as pedigree stock sale" resp. purchased from applt. a bull described in the sale catalogue under the heading "Jersey Bulls" as "Lot 78, Bull Harbour it was sold for about £40 less than the contract price. In an action for the difference between the price realised at the auction & the contract price:—Held: (1) this was not the proper form of action; (2) the action must be for damages; (3) the conditions of the auction sale were not a test of the value of the horse, the auction being of a horse "in dispute," & without warranty, & quite different from the original contract conditions; (4) pltf. was not entitled to more than nominal damages, as he had failed to prove his damages to be the difference between the contract price & the price realised at the auction.—MACKLIN v. NEWBURY SANITARY LAUNDRY (1919), 63 Sol. Jo. 337, D. C.

530. For "Expenses reasonably—Incurred in dis-

Light." The conditions of sale expressly negatived the existence of any warranties on the vendor's part. At the time of the sale the bull had not been used, but subsequently was found to be sterile. This condition was shown to be a latent defect not discoverable upon examination. In an action by resp. claiming damages:—Held: as the capacity for procreation was not, by implication, a part of the description, & as the bull complied in all other respects with the description, resp. was without remedy.—DELL v. QUILTY, [1921] N. Z. L. R. 1270.—N. Z.

A note given for the balance of the price had indorsed thereon: "Given for one bay mare nine years old." The purchaser believed the horse was of that age:—Held: the statement amounted to a warranty, & the vendor was bound thereby.—ALLEN v. SMITH, [1920] 3 W. W. R. 645.—CAN.

410 iv. — — — ———.—Pltf. purchased a horse from deflt. which deflt. warranted to be suitable for the general purposes of a farmer & sound in every respect. The trial judge found that there was a defect in the horse which could not be discovered by an ordinary examination at the time of the sale & that the horse was not suitable for the purpose for which it was required:—Held: the findings of the trial judge must be accepted.—MARTELL v. PRINGLE (1920), 53 N. S. R. 502.—CAN.

438 i. Sound—Meaning of term—Seeds of disease at date of sale.—At an auction sale the auctioneer said "Would you let this good sound mare go for that money?" The mare was diseased at the time. No fraud was proved:—Held: one who was induced by the statement to bid for & purchase the mare was entitled to rescission on the ground of misrepresentation.—ANDERSON v. KENNEDY, [1920] 1 W. W. 459 i. Warranty relating to future—Dairy cattle warranted "to calve at proper time & correct in teats only".—A dairy cow, due to calve within a fortnight, was bought at a cattle market under the following warranty: "Dairy cattle are warranted to calve at their proper time & correct in their teats only." The cow calved at her proper time, but, owing to disease which appeared in her teats, her milk supply was defective:—Held: (1) the warranty applied to the period of calving, & guaranteed, against the ordinary risks of that period, that the cow's teats would then be capable of performing their function of giving milk; (2) as the disease from which the cow suffered had not been proved to be due either to negligence on pursuer's part or to external accident, the guarantee applied.—KYLE v. SIM, [1925] S. C. 425.—SCOT.

PART VI. SECT. 2, SUB-SECT. 4.—A.

ii. Rescission—Affirmance of contract after notice of misrepresentation.—A purchaser of a mare was not allowed rescission on the ground of what the ct. found was an innocent misrepresentation as to her being in foal to a celebrated stallion, because after discovery that the mare was not in foal he repeatedly attempted to get her in foal by breeding her to another stallion, this being held to amount to an affirmance of the contract.—*MONTICELLO STATE BANK v. PART VII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 1.—A.

528 i. — — — Animals poisoned—No affirmative evidence.—Pltf. shipped horses by deflt. railway. On arrival at destination, some of the horses had died & others were sick & died soon after. It was subsequently established that they died of arsenic poison. An action against deflt. railway co. for negligence was dismissed, as there was no evidence connecting the cause of injury with any alleged negligence. The cause of the damage was purely a matter of speculation, & certain provisions of the contract were a complete answer to pltf.'s claim that the damages arose from deflt.'s negligence.—*TURNER v. Part VIII.—Wild Birds.

563a. ——— Birds lawfully taken elsewhere.—Applt. was charged under Wild Birds Protection Act, 1880 (c. 35), s. 3, as extended under s. 8 in the county of London by the Wild Birds Protection (Administrative County of London) Order, 1909, par. 4, with having in his possession some goldfinches recently taken. The magistrate found that the charge was proved & dismissed it under the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907 (c. 17), ordering applt. to pay the costs. The birds were lawfully caught in Ireland on or immediately before Dec. 3, 1918, & after being kept there for upwards of a month to enable them to recover their condition, & travel safely, were sent to applt. in London by post.

They were found in applt.'s possession in a wild & terrified state on Jan. 15, 1919:—Held: the magistrate was justified in taking into consideration all the circumstances of the case, including the condition of the birds when exposed for sale & the fact that they had to be kept in Ireland for some time in order to endure the journey & arrive alive, & also the length of the journey, in order to arrive at the conclusion that the birds were recently taken.—*HARRIS v. The dog was not doing damage & deft. made no effort to drive it away before he shot it, & the justices found that shooting was not necessary:—Held: he was guilty of "cruelly ill-treating" the dog within Protection of Animals Act, 1911 (c. 27), s. 1.—*BARNARD v. 541 1. Carrier exempted from liability "in any case" above declared value.—A railway co. made conditions limiting their liability for loss of or damage to any live stock delivered to them for transit beyond the value, in the case of horses, of £50, unless a higher value was declared in writing at the time of delivery, & a percentage of 1½ per cent. paid on the value, so declared, in excess of the above-named sum. A race horse, exceeding £50 in value, was delivered to the co. for transit by the sender's groom, who informed the booking clerk that he had got "a very valuable 'chaser, worth about £1,000," a figure arrived at by the groom himself from casual gossip. The clerk gave the groom the co.'s form of "consignment note & waybill" for live stock, & the groom filled it in for carriage at the ordinary rate, & signed it, with full knowledge of its contents. The horse having been injured in transit:—Held: (1) the above conditions were not unreasonable; (2) the contract of carriage, which was signed by the groom under a direction by his employer that the horse was to be carried at the ordinary rate, exempted the co. from liability for any greater amount than £50; (3) in order to make the co. liable for the full value of the horse, the declaration of value must have been made with the intention of paying the higher rate, & the statement of value made by the groom to the booking clerk was insufficient.—*FOX v. 26a. ——— Verbal agreement to grant royalties—Amount to be settled by arbitration—Refusal of grantee to arbitrate.—In 1913 a patent was granted for "Improvements in winches for operating the rope of a duplex derrick." Between the times of the filing of the provisional & complete specifications, the patentee, under a verbal agreement, entered the service of a co. engaged in making windlasses as technical adviser & engineer draughtsman; & the co., while the patentee was in their employment, made & sold the patented windlasses. In 1919 the patentee commenced an action against the co., alleging that it was a term of the verbal agreement that, during pltf.'s service, the co. should have pltf.'s licence to make & sell windlasses under the patent, at a reasonable royalty, & failing agreement between the parties, at such royalty as might be settled by arbn. He contended that he would have received at least 5 per cent. on the selling price of the windlasses. Defts. denied that they had agreed to accept a licence from pltf.:—Held: pltf. had proved that the agreement for a licence had been made; he was entitled to a reasonable royalty; & as the agreement was verbal, & defts. refused to refer the matter to arbn., the matter could not go to arbn. It was directed that the matter should be referred to an official referee for inquiry & report under sect. 13 of the above Act.—FLEMING v. DOIG (J. S.) (GRIMSBY, LTD. (1921), 38 R. P. C. 57.

36a. Reference under National Health Insurance Regulations of Insurance Commissioners.—

By an agreement between a medical practitioner on the panel & the insurance committee of a county, the practitioner agreed to give medical treatment to insured persons, & by clause 1 the National Health Insurance (Medical Benefit) Regulations (England), 1913, were incorporated. By clause 14, "any dispute or question arising between the committee & the practitioner . . . relating to the construction of this agreement or the rights & liabilities of the committee or the practitioner . . . hereunder shall be referred to the Comrs." By reg. 51 of the regulations, "Where under the provision of these regulations or of any agreement made between the committee & a practitioner . . . is referred, or any appeal from a decision of the committee is made to the Comrs. the Comrs. shall determine such questions or appeal in such manner as they think fit, & if in the opinion of the Comrs. a hearing is required they may authorise any two or more of the Comrs. to hear & determine such question or appeal, & any decision of the Comrs. or any of them made under this article shall be final & conclusive." A dispute having arisen under the agreement, the practitioner brought an action against the committee in respect thereof, & the committee applied under the Act of 1889, s. 4, to stay the action:—Held: the action must be stayed (PICKFORD, L.J. & SARGANT, J.) upon the ground that there was a "submission" to arbn. within the Act of 1889, s. 27 (BANKES, L.J.), upon the ground that under reg. 51 a special tribunal was constituted with special powers for determining disputes between practitioners & the committee.—(*CLEMENTS v. The arbitrators proceeded after the expiry of the time, both parties appearing before them & taking part in the proceedings, & the award was made & not appealed from or moved against, & had ever since been acted upon:—Held: a parol submission must be taken to have been made & to include the terms contained in the written one, & the award to have been made pursuant to the parol submission.—*HARRISON v. A dispute having arisen between the parties, defts. appointed M. as their arbitrator. Pltf. having failed to appoint an arbitrator in due notice given, M. made an award in favour of defts., & defts. thereupon counter-claimed to enforce the award:—Held: (1) the words "to be settled by arbn. in London in the usual way" meant the way in which disputes arising as to the particular commodity were settled in London, & there was ample evidence that the dispute had been settled "in the usual way"; (2) any objection to the award upon the ground of irregularity or misconduct on the part of the arbitrator could only be taken by motion to set aside or remit the award, & pltf. having failed to move within the limited time, his remedy in that respect had lapsed.—*SCRIMAGLIO v. The contracts contained provisions exempting the sellers from liability for late & short shipment attributable (inter alia) to Govt. commandeering of ships, war, or any other unforeseen circumstances, & included provisions for the shipment of delayed cargoes as soon as possible, subject to a right of refusal on the part of the purchasers. Each contract contained an arbn. clause in these terms: "Any dispute that may arise under this contract to be settled by arbn." Before all the bales had been shipped, the further export of jute from India to the Argentine was prohibited. The policy recited the proposal & declaration "which proposal & declaration warranted to be true it is agreed shall be the basis of this contract . . . & be considered as incorporated herein, & any suppression, misrepresentation, or misstatement of fact in such written proposal & declaration shall ipso facto render this policy null & void"; & it provided that it was a condition precedent to the recovery of any sum under the policy that the conditions indorsed thereon should be strictly observed. During the currency of the policy the assured was killed by an accident. The contracts provided that in case of any dispute as to the quality or condition of the goods, the question should be referred to arbn., provided that, "such reference shall be claimed in writing within three days after the goods have been landed." It was also provided that the award in writing of any two arbitrators should be conclusive & binding on all parties, subject to the right of appeal. The goods arrived in England, & were not examined at the port of landing, but were sold by applt. to sub-purchasers. More than three days after the goods had been landed applt. wrote to resps. complaining that the goods were of inferior quality, & some time later he wrote a letter claiming a reference to arbn. Resps. did not then take the objection that the claim was out of time, but signed a submission to arbn. in respect of each contract. The arbitrators awarded "that the buyer was out of time in examining & making claim on the goods, & also in claiming arbn., & that therefore his case fails." 165a. Arbitrator to be appointed within limited time.—A ship was chartered for a voyage from R. to H. with a full cargo of linseed. The charterparty provided for the reference of all disputes to the final arbitrament of two arbitrators, one to be appointed by each of the parties, with power to appoint an umpire, & the clause continued: "Any claim must be made in writing & claimants' arbitrator appointed within three months of final discharge, & where this provision is not complied with the claim shall be deemed to be waived & absolutely barred." After the arrival of the ship at H. the charterers brought an action against the shipowners in respect of damage alleged to have been occasioned to a part of the linseed during the voyage by reason of the unseaworthiness of the ship at the commencement of the voyage. The shipowners pleaded that the charterers failed to appoint their arbitrator within three months of the discharge of the ship & that by reason thereof the action was not maintainable, & by order of the ct., the question whether the claim in the action was barred by the arbn. clause was tried as a preliminary question of law:—Held: (1) the arbn. clause was not open to objection on the ground that it ousted the jurisdiction of the ct.; (2) inasmuch as the claim in the action was founded upon a breach of the implied condition of seaworthiness, there being in the charterparty no express provision relating to unseaworthiness, the shipowners were not entitled to the benefit of the term in the clause restricting the time within which the action could be brought, & consequently the claim was not barred by the arbn. clause.—*ATLANTIC SHIPPING & TRADING Co. v. 165b.—A charterparty contained a clause providing that all disputes arising out of the contract should be referred to arbn., the claimants' arbitrator to be appointed within a time therein limited, & if he was not so appointed the claim was to be deemed to be waived & absolutely barred. Loss to cargo was suffered owing to the ship's unseaworthiness. The cargo owners claimed damages & went to arbn., but did not appoint their arbitrator within the time limited. An award was made in their favour, the shipowners not appearing:—Held: although the loss was caused by unseaworthiness, & consequently, the above clause could not have been set up by the shipowners, the cargo owners were entitled in virtue of the clause to go to arbn., but only in accordance with its terms, & as they had not complied with those terms the arbitrator had no jurisdiction to make the award.—*FORD (H.) & Co. v. 165c.—Pltfs. bought from defts. a quantity of East African copra cake to be of fair average quality, sound delivered. The contract provided that "the goods are not warranted free from defect rendering same unmerchantable, which would not be apparent on reasonable examination"; that any disputes arising out of the contract should be settled by arbn.; & that notice of arbn. should be given & the arbitrator nominated in writing not later than fourteen days after the final discharge of the vessel. Pltfs. resold the copra cake to B. & Co., who resold it to dealers, & they in turn resold it to farmers, who used it for feeding cattle. The cattle fed on the cake became ill, & it was then found on analysis that the cake contained an admixture of castor beans in so large a proportion as to make it poisonous. Claims were then made by the various buyers against their sellers & by pltfs. against defts. as soon as the mischief was discovered, but this was after the expiration of fourteen days from the final discharge of the vessel. Pltfs. claimed arbn., but the arbitrator before whom the matter came held that he had no jurisdiction, as notice of arbn. was not given nor the arbitrator nominated in time. In an action by pltfs. claiming damages, it was found that it was within the contemplation of the parties that the copra cake would be used for cattle food & nothing else:—Held: the presence of the arbn. clause was not in itself a bar to the action, nor was the award, which dealt merely with the arbitrator's jurisdiction & not with the claim.—PINNOCK BROTHERS v. LEWIS & PEAT, LTD., [1923] 1 K. B. 690; 92 L. J. K. B. 695; 129 L. T. 320; 39 T. L. R. 212; 67 Sol. Jo. 501; 28 Com. Cas. 210.

165d.—Pltfs. chartered their ship to defts. to carry grain, the charterparty providing that all disputes should be referred to arbn. & that claimant's arbitrator must be "appointed within three months of final discharge, & where this provision is not complied with the claim shall be deemed to be waived & absolutely barred." Before completion of discharge defts. made various payments to pltfs. on account of freight, & on final discharge pltfs. claimed that £568 was still owing for freight. Defts. admitted that £416 was still owing for freight, but they set up a counterclaim for £581 for short delivery & refused to pay the £416 until their counterclaim was met. Neither party referred the matter to arbn., & more than three months after final discharge pltfs. brought an action for £568 balance of freight & defts. counterclaimed £581 for short delivery:—Held: though pltfs. could not recover the £568, as the claim for it ought to have been taken to arbn., yet they could recover the £116 about which there had never been any dispute, but the counterclaim, as it was always in dispute, was barred by the arbn. clause.—*BEDE STEAM SHIPPING CO., LTD. v. "If any dispute as to the agreement or any matter or thing therein or intention or construction thereof."—Where a dispute arose on a contract as to the meaning of a clause therein which dealt with tests that the purchaser was making, the purchaser contending that the tests were unsatisfactory, & the vendor that they signed the contract on the faith of an assurance by the purchaser that the tests were proving satisfactory, & the contract contained a clause that if any dispute should arise between the parties as to the agreement or any clause, matter or thing therein contained, or the intention or construction thereof, or in anywise relating thereto, the same should be referred to arbn.:—Held: such dispute came within the clause, & was not a dispute dehors the contract.—DE LA GARDE v. WORSNOP & Co. (1927), 96 L. J. Ch. 446; 137 L. T. 475; 71 Sol. Jo. 604.

238a. "All loss."—In an action in Manitoba against building contractors to recover sums improperly paid to them under a contract, & for damages, a judgment by consent was entered whereby it was provided (inter alia) that pltf. should recover, among other sums, "all loss to pltf. by reason of defective workmanship & materials," & that there should be set off against the sums recovered by pltf. the fair value of the work done & materials provided at fair contractor's prices. The judgment provided further that the sums to be debited & credited were to be determined by two appraisers, & that any matter upon which they differed was to be referred to a named umpire whose decision thereon was to be final; & that the Manitoba Arbn. Act should not apply. Defts moved to set aside or vary an award made:—Held: (1) under the words "all loss" there was jurisdiction to award to pltf. not only sums actually expended at the date of the award, but also a sum estimated as being necessary to make good the defects; (2) the award being within the jurisdiction conferred by the submission, & there being no error apparent on its face, it could not be questioned either on the facts or on the law.—*A.-G. 949a. —[An arbitrator appointed under Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908 (c. 28), for the purpose of determining claims & compensation payable in respect of (inter alia) certain fixtures, hay & straw left by the tenant on his farms, & hay & straw removed by him after the determination of the tenancy, held two sittings & then gave notice that he had been waiting to be supplied with information as to the hay & straw sold off & warned the parties that if it was not supplied promptly he would have to hold another sitting. After an interval of less than a fortnight he gave further notice that he would go to the farms on a specified date "to value the hay & straw & to receive an account of the hay & straw removed." The tenant not having such an account ready & thinking that the only question to be dealt with was a valuation of the stacks of hay & straw remaining on the farm did not attend by himself or his representative, but his foreman was present to point out & give information about the stacks on the farms. While there the arbitrator, besides valuing the stacks, questioned the foreman as to the hay & straw removed. Immediately afterwards he closed the hearing & made an award in which he dealt with the claim for hay & straw removed on the basis of the foreman's evidence, which had not been tendered by either party, & was taken in the presence only of the landlord's representative. He did not deal with the question of the fixtures, but purported to reserve power to deal with them, if required:

Held: the award must be set aside as the arbitrator had been guilty of legal misconduct in taking evidence in the absence of, & without previous notice to, the tenant.—Re O'CONNOR & WHITLAW'S ARBITRATION (1919), 88 L. J. K. B. 1242, C. A.

949b. —[In an arbn. between sellers & buyer arising out of the rejection by the latter of certain goods which he alleged did not correspond to the contract description, the arbitrators heard the evidence of each of the parties in the absence of the other. No objection was made at the time to this procedure. An award having been made in favour of the sellers, the buyer moved to set it aside:—Held: the award must be set aside, as the arbitrators had acted improperly in hearing the evidence on behalf of one party in the absence of the other.—RAMSDEN (W.) & CO. v. JACOBS, [1922] 1 K. B. 640; 91 L. J. K. B. 432; 126 L. T. 409; 26 Com. Cas. 287, D. C.

949c. *— Evidence immaterial.]—It is misconduct which may justify the setting aside of an award if the arbitrators hear evidence in the absence of the parties, even though the evidence so received is immaterial. It makes no difference that the arbitrators could not properly have made any other award than that which they did make, & it is quite immaterial whether the evidence wrongly admitted helped the arbitrators to a right conclusion or a wrong conclusion, & the ct. cannot inquire to what extent their minds were affected by such evidence.—ROYAL COMMISSION ON SUGAR SUPPLY v. 1022a. ————.]—In commercial arbn. the practice is that, unless the parties give notice that they desire to attend personally or by their solr. or counsel, the arbitrators present the evidence & arguments to the umpire & have full power to act as advocates. In an arbn. on a charterparty the umpire without hearing the parties made his award on the case as presented by the arbitrators. On a motion to set aside the award on the ground of misconduct by the umpire:—Held: there was no evidence of misconduct by the umpire, & the motion failed.

In arbn. proceedings prima facie the common law rule applies that the parties should have notice of the proceedings so that they could attend them, if desirous of so doing, & the only way in which the rule can be departed from is by agreement, & the ct. would give effect to their agreement (ATKIN, L.J.).—*FRENCH GOVERNMENT v. The dispute having been referred to arbn., the buyer appointed K. as his arbitrator. The arbitrators having failed to agree upon their award the matter was referred to an umpire, & the buyer then proposed to call K. as a witness before the umpire to prove the state of the meat. The sellers objected to the competency of K. as a witness on the general principle that an arbitrator was disqualified from giving evidence in the arbn. proceedings:—Held: as it was a commercial arbn. 1036a. ————.]—A contract for the sale of sugar provided that the contract was subject to the rules of the Refined Sugar Assocn. The rules required that all members of the assocn. making contracts subject to those rules should refer any disputes arising out of such contracts, including any questions of law, to the arbn. of the council of the assocn.; & by r. 19: "Neither buyer, seller, trustee in bkpcy., nor any other person as aforesaid shall require, nor shall they apply to the ct. to require, any arbitrators to state in the form of a special case for the opinion of the ct. any question of law arising in the reference, but such question of law shall be determined in the arbn. in manner herein directed." A dispute between the buyers & sellers was referred to the arbn. of the council. The buyers requested the arbitrators either to state their award in the form of a special case under the Act of 1889, s. 7, or alternatively to state a case for the opinion of the ct. under sect. 19 upon certain points of law arising in the reference, or to give them an opportunity of applying to the ct. for an order directing them to state a case. The arbitrators, thinking themselves precluded by r. 19, refused to comply with that request, & made their award without giving the buyers an opportunity of applying to the ct. for an order. The buyers move to set aside the award on the ground of misconduct of the arbitrators in so refusing:—Held: r. 19 & the agreement embodying it were contrary to public policy & invalid, as involving an ouster of the statutory jurisdiction of the cts. under the Arbn. Act, & the award must be set aside.—CZARNIKOW v. ROTH, SCHMIDT & Co., [1922] 2 K. B. 478; 92 L. J. K. B. 81; 127 L. T. 824; 38 T. L. R. 797; 28 Com. Cas. 20, O. A. -

An arbn. took place & was divided into two parts, the first being as to whether the Govt. had committed a breach of contract. The result of this part of the arbn. was that an award was given in favour of the co. & the Govt. was ordered to pay costs. The second part of the arbn. as to the amount of damage then began, & when the evidence had been closed the Govt. asked the arbitrator to state an advisory case for the opinion of the ct., but the arbitrator refused to do so. The Govt. then issued a summons asking that the arbitrator might be ordered to state a case, & thereupon the co., applied that all further proceedings might be stayed until the Govt. (1) had paid the costs which it had been ordered to pay, & (2) had given security to answer the costs of the matter & of the arbn.:—Held: so far as concerned the summons for a case to be stated the Govt. was in the position of a pltf., & it could not rely on its foreign sovereignty, & being out of the jurisdiction must give security for the costs of the summons, but the rest of the co.'s application must stand over to be dealt with on the hearing of the summons.—DUFF DEVELOPMENT CO., LTD. v. - 1058a. — — — — —.]—A special case stated by an arbitrator for the opinion of the ct. is stated under the Act of 1889, s. 19, or s. 7, according as the arbitrator does or does not retain jurisdiction in the reference. If he retains jurisdiction the case is stated under sect. 19, & no appeal lies to the Ct. of Appeal from the decision of the High Ct. upon the special case; but if he makes his award finally, & retains no further jurisdiction in the reference, the case is stated under sect. 7 & an appeal lies from the decision of the ct.
- By a submission contained in a charterparty disputes were referred to two arbitrators &, if they could not agree, to an umpire. The umpire stated for the opinion of the High Ct. a special case in which he set out the facts, decided that there had been a breach of the charterparty, & assessed damages for the breach. The award concluded with these words: "The question for the opinion of the ct. is whether upon the true construction of the charterparty & the facts stated by me the decisions at which I have arrived are correct in law. If they be correct my award is to stand, but if incorrect in any particulars I desire that the award may be referred back to me for reassessment of the damages due in accordance with the decision of the ct.":—Held: this was not a final award; the case was, therefore, stated under sect. 19 & no appeal lay to the Ct. of Appeal.—COGSTAD (U. The case proceeded as follows: "The question for the

An award was then made & was signed by these three persons, who added to their signatures the word "arbitrators":—Held: the third person who signed the award was properly appointed as umpire, he acted as umpire, & he really intended to sign as umpire, & the fact that he signed as arbitrator was only a matter to require a purely formal amendment.—*BENABU & Co. v. 1598a. ———.]—Certain trawlers were insured as to three-quarters of their value in the B. Insurance Co. To save their vessels from destruction by enemy submarine, the owners cut away the trawls, which were not insured, & claimed a general average contribution against the co., of which the owners were members. The rules provided that all disputes should be settled in the first instance by a general meeting of the co., or, on appeal, by two arbitrators & an umpire, none of whom should be lawyers. The general meeting having refused the claim, the owners proceeded to arbn. under a submission which provided that "all matters in difference in reference to the said claim for a general average contribution are referred," etc. The umpire by his award ignored the claim for general average. On a motion to set aside the award :—Held : it was bad as disclosing an error in law on the face of it ; & , having regard to the general terms of the submission, it was not open to resps. to say that a definite point of law had been submitted to arbn., as to which the decision of the arbitrator was final, & the award must be set aside.—*PARSONS v. 1644a. ———.]—Though an award may be set aside for an error of law appearing on the face of it, & though a question of construction is, generally speaking, a question of law, yet, where a question of construction is the very thing referred for arbn., then the decision of the arbitrator upon that point cannot be set aside by the ct. only because the ct. would itself have come to a different conclusion. If it appears by the award that the arbitrator has proceeded illegally, for instance, that he decided on evidence which in law is not admissible or on principles of construction which the law does not countenance, then there is error in law which may be ground for setting aside the award ; but the mere dissent of the ct. from the arbitrator's conclusion on construction is not enough for that purpose.—*KELANTAN GOVERNMENT v. 1701a. — Liability to cross-examination.—In June, 1913, claimants, R. & Co., effected an insurance with respss., an insurance co., whereby the insurance co. agreed that, if at any time during the period covered by the policy the premises of claimants should be destroyed by fire, & their business should be thereby interfered with or interrupted, they would pay to claimants monthly until such time as the reduction in turnover in consequence of the fire should have ceased, but not exceeding in all nine months, on account of annual net profit & charges as therein set forth, the same percentage on the amount by which the turnover in each month should in consequence of the fire be less than the turnover for the corresponding month of the year preceding the fire as the sum or sums thereby insured should bear to the total of the turnover for the last financial year. It was provided that the amount of the losses under the policy should be assessed by claimants' auditors, L. & G. A condition on the back of the policy provided for reference to arbn. of all differences arising out of the policy. The premises of claimants were destroyed by fire on July 22, 1913, a date within the period covered by the policy. G., a member of the firm of L. & G., duly assessed the amount of the loss suffered by claimants in respect of profits for the period of nine months succeeding the fire. Differences having arisen in regard to the payments under the policy, the parties went to arbn. G. was called as a witness by claimants at the arbn. proceedings, & stated that although it did not so appear on the face of the assessments he was at the time of signing the same satisfied that the losses of the turnover respectively therein stated were in fact sustained in consequence of the fire. There was no suggestion of any fraud on the part of the assessor:—Held: as G., whether regarded as an arbitrator or an assessor, had been called to give oral testimony he could be cross-examined on all relevant issues & consequently could be cross-examined to show that he had failed to take into account certain considerations necessary for arriving at the reduction in the turnover of claimants due solely to the fire.—*RECHER & CO. v. (2) An award is not vitiated by an error in law on the face of it, if the error is not material to the decision.—BUERGER & Co. v. BARNETT (1919), 89 L. J. K. B. 161; 120 L. T. 570; 35 T. L. R. 260; 63 Sol. Jo. 391, D. C.

1822b. — .]—When questions of law arise in an arbn. it is of the greatest importance that the right of the parties to obtain the assistance of the ct. at any period of the proceedings should be fully enforced, though the arbn. tribunal has not passed through all the stages of its own procedure providing for an appeal from the award. If the umpire by refusing to make his award in the form of a special case deprives the parties of the right to have questions of law, which are neither frivolous nor vexatious but are substantial, decided by the ct., he is guilty of misconduct & his award will be set aside.—Re FISCHEL & Co. & MANN & COOK, [1919] 2 K. 1825a. Disregarding statute passed after hearing but before issue of award.]—(1) Resps. to an arbn. had hired of claimant, for a certain period, a number of horses which, on the outbreak of war & before the expiry of the period, were commandeered by the War Office. He then refused to pay the hire for the full period on the ground of frustration of the adventure. At the hearing of the arbn. on June 19, 1917, claimant did not press for hire after the seizure of the horses, & on July 31, 1917, the arbitrator issued his award, giving claimant the amount due up to the date of the seizure, but not afterwards. On July 10, 1917, Courts Emergency Powers Act, 1917 (c. 25), had come into operation, but there was nothing to show whether the arbitrator was or was not aware of the Act. On a motion to set aside the award on the ground of the technical misconduct of the arbitrator in not taking the statute into consideration:—Held: whether or not the arbitrator was aware of the Act, he had applied its principles, & consequently, there was no misconduct; & the parties were not taken by surprise, & the award was good.

(2) It has been contended that the fact that the arbitrator did not know or take cognisance of the Act, which was passed after the hearing of the arbn. & before the issue of the award, constituted misconduct. I doubt very much whether that would amount to misconduct, although possibly it might amount to surprise (A. T. LAWRENCE, J.)—OSMOND v. WOOLLEY (1917), 87 L. J. K. B. 822; 118 L. T. 29; 34 T. L. The greater part of the timber having been destroyed by fire, he sued the insurance cos. to recover the loss, but the actions were stayed & the matter was referred to arbn. in pursuance of the conditions contained in the policies. Claimant was the sole shareholder in the co. & was also a creditor of the co. to a large extent. The arbitrator held that claimant had no insurable interest in the goods insured & disallowed the claim:—Held: claimant having allowed the point of want of insurable interest to be raised before the arbitrator without objection, it was not open to him to call in question the authority of the arbitrator to entertain it.—*MACAURA v. - 2580b. Power to set aside his own order.—In an action tried by an official referee judgment was given against defendants, by default. Defects applied to the judge in chambers to set aside the judgment of the official referee & to order a new trial. The application was not made within six days after the trial before the official referee, but no objection in regard to time was taken by plaintiffs, before the judge in chambers. The judge referred to the official referee the application to set aside his own judgment. At the hearing of the application the official referee himself took the point that the application to set aside his judgment had not been made within six days after the trial; & he further held that, having regard to the concluding words of R. S. C., Ord. 59a, r. 3 (b), he had no jurisdiction to set aside his own judgment:—Held: (1) the objection in regard to time, not having been taken at the earliest opportunity, could not be relied upon by plaintiffs on the appeal; (2) as under R. S. C., Ord. 36, r. 50, the official referee had "the same authority in the conduct of any reference or trial as a judge of the High Ct.," he had jurisdiction to set aside his own judgment, & the words "save as herein provided, no application for a new trial before a referee shall be made" at the conclusion of Ord. 59a, r. 3 (b), referred only to the procedure to be followed in appeals from referees to the Divisional Ct.—*LONDON STEAMSHIP & TRADING CORPN., LTD. v. - 2611a. — Costs.—In an action upon a contract in the High Ct. judgment was given for pltf. for an amount to be ascertained on taking an account between the parties, with costs of the action. This judgment was dated & entered on Apr. 8. The referee took the account & ascertained the amount to be £83 10s. & on Nov. 29 indorsed the order accordingly. On the next day & before final entry of the completed order, the judge, upon pltf.'s application, ordered the costs to be taxed on the High Ct. scale :—Held : in the circumstances the judge had jurisdiction under County Cts. Act, 1919 (c. 73), s. 11, to award costs on the High Ct. scale, for until the result of the account was ascertained the question of costs could not be finally determined.—LAIGHT v. endeavoured to persuade the auctioneers to put up the lot for sale again, but they declined. Upon his refusing to pay, an action for the purchase price was brought by the auctioneers, & the purchaser contended that under the conditions of sale it was obligatory upon the auctioneers to resell the lot in question, & that he could be charged only with any deficiency upon resale :—Held : the words "all lots unclesared shall be resold" did not impose any obligation upon the auctioneers, but merely conferred upon them an option of reselling at their discretion, & the auctioneers were entitled to recover the full price at which the lot was knocked down to the purchaser.—*ROBINSON, FISHER & HARDING v. - 50a. ———.]—Pltf., who was a member of a residential club, of which defts. were the proprietors, gave the manager certain jewellery to lock up in a safe in the manager's office. The rules provided that "No claim in respect of any property alleged to have been left or lost in the club-house will be entertained, & neither the club nor the proprietors shall be responsible for any article of value so left or lost in the club, but small articles of value may, on application to the secretary, be deposited in the safe, but neither the club nor the proprietors shall be under any liability in respect of such deposits." The jewellery was stolen from the safe by the night porter employed by defts., who before engaging him had obtained references from two persons by whom he had been employed, but apparently had made no inquiry as to his previous career. After the theft it was discovered that he was an old & dangerous criminal:—Held: defts. had not used due care in engaging the night porter, & as the above rule did not negative defts.' liability for damage due to their neglect to take such care, they were liable for the loss.—*WILLIAMS v. 192a. — Loss of luggage left outside cloak-room.]—A condition in a railway cloak-room ticket purporting to exempt the railway co. from responsibility for articles above a specified value deposited in the cloak-room except on certain terms, & assented to by the person taking the ticket, is not prevented from being part of the contract & from protecting the co. merely because it is unreasonable, provided that it be not so extravagant as to imply, & there is no other evidence to show, that that person's assent to it has been obtained by fraud, or so irrelevant as to be foreign to the contract.

Pltf. took his bicycle to the cloak-room at a station of deft. co. for the purpose of depositing it there, paid to the official the charge demanded, & received a ticket purporting to be a cloak-room ticket upon the face of which was legibly printed the following condition: "The co. will not be in any way responsible in respect of any article deposited the value whereof exceeds £5, unless at the time of deposit the true value & nature of the article shall have been declared, & 1d. per £1 sterling of the declared value be paid for each day or part of a day in addition to the ordinary cloak-room charges." The value of the bicycle exceeded £5, but pltf. made no declaration of value or additional payment. The bicycle was standing at the open door of the cloak-room, but the official told pltf. to leave it there as he would put it away. When pltf. returned to claim the bicycle it could not be found. In an action by pltf. against defts. for the value of the bicycle defts. relied upon the above condition. It was found in effect that pltf. knew that there was printing on the ticket, that he believed it contained a condition, & that defts. had done sufficient to give pltf. notice of the condition; & it was not found & there was no evidence to show that pltf.'s assent to the condition had been obtained by fraud. It was further found that owing to the negligence of the official in leaving the bicycle at the door of the cloak-room it had been stolen:—Held: (1) assuming that the condition was unreasonable which, semble, it was not, defts. were not, merely on that ground, prevented from relying upon it, inasmuch as it was not so extravagant as to imply that pltf.'s assent to it had been obtained by fraud, or so irrelevant as to be foreign to the contract; (2) defts. were protected by the condition, although the bicycle had not been deposited within the cloak-room; (3) on the above facts & findings judgment should be entered for defts.—*GIBAUD v. 172 ii. —.]—Pltf. delivered goods to defts., a warehouse co., for storage. The warehouse contract provided that the responsibility of the co. "for the contents of any place or package is limited to the sum of $50, unless the value thereof is made known at the time of storage & receipted for in the schedule; an additional charge will be made for higher valuation." The goods, which were in several packages, were stored without a declaration of value & without any additional charge for a higher valuation. Through the negligence of defts.' servants, the goods were included in a shipment of other goods & sent to England. Some of pltf.'s goods were lost, & others damaged:—Held: the amount which pltf. was entitled to recover was limited by the clause of the warehouse contract.—MUNSELL v. CAMPBELL SECURITY FIREPROOF STORAGE & MOVING CO., LTD., [1921] 2 W. W. R. 348; [1921] 2 W. W. R. 579.—C. N.

172 iii. —.]—A cold storage co. gave a receipt for hops stored with them which bore, "The co. will use every endeavour in taking care of all goods consigned to its charge, but will not be held responsible for any damage whatsoever." All goods are involved subject to the conditions on the back of this receipt "The first condition on the back was, "The co. will use every endeavour in taking care of all goods consigned to its charge, but will not be held responsible for loss or damage to goods stored through maintaining too high or too low a temperature in the store, failure of machinery, buildings or plant fire, or any other cause whatsoever other than theft."—Held: the contract meant that defenders promised to do their utmost to take care of the hops, but that, if their efforts were unsuccessful for any cause other than theft, they were not to be liable in damages.—*BALLINGALL & SON v. At a date when the hirer had paid all the instalments then due, but before he had paid the total price, he sold the piano to deft., who bona fide believed that the hirer was the absolute owner. The hirer having subsequently got the piano back into his own possession & having again disposed of it, but having, in the meantime, kept up the payment of the instalments, pltfs., on ascertaining the facts, claimed damages from deft. for conversion:—Held: the sale by the hirer to deft. was not ipso facto a repudiation of the hire-purchase agreement, as pltfs. had never accepted the repudiation, but it transferred whatever interest the hirer had at the time of the sale, & as pltfs. were not entitled to the possession of the piano until they elected to put an end to the agreement there was no conversion by deft.—*NELSON MURDOCH & Co. v. C., without getting the cheque, gave up the keys to the landlord of the premises, who handed them to W. :—Held : (1) C. had failed to carry out the terms of his instructions; (2) the keys were sent to C. in his capacity as manager, & the transaction was within the scope of his authority as such; (3) the onus of proving damage was on pltf., & he had not satisfied it. — *GARBER v. 282a. Account opened in assumed name—Payment in of cheque obtained by duress—Payment out on forged cheques—Action by party whose name assumed.—Pltf. brought an action against deft. bank for £125,000, money had & received by defts. to his use. Pltf.'s case was that an account was opened in his name at a branch of deft. bank by some one other than himself, that a cheque for £150,000 payable to his order was paid into the account, & that on the following day a forged cheque, purporting to be drawn by pltf., for £130,000 was cashed by one H., the balance being afterwards withdrawn by H., by means of other forged cheques. Defts. alleged that the cheque for £150,000 was obtained by a blackmailing conspiracy from one A., who was discovered by one N. with pltf.'s wife in compromising circumstances, & that the proceeds were shared between the conspirators, whom defts. alleged to include, among others, pltf., pltf.'s wife, & H. & N. Pltf. & his wife denied that they took part in any conspiracy, & pltf. said that, when he heard of the relations between his wife & A., he instructed H., who represented himself to be a solr., to take divorce proceedings, & that, when the sum of £25,000 was handed to him by H., he, pltf., passed the amount on to his wife & said that he would have nothing more to do with her, & that he learned later that A. had paid £150,000. It was to recover the difference between these two amounts that the action was brought. The jury found that there was a conspiracy to get money from A. by catching him with pltf.'s wife, but that pltf. & his wife were not parties to the conspiracy, that A. was induced to part with the money through fear,

& that his parting with it was not free & voluntary:—Held: pltf. never got the property in the cheque for £150,000 & could not sue in conversion, & he had no right to sue in contract because the dealings with deft. bank were not on his behalf, & therefore he had no title to the cheque, & the action failed.—ROBINSON v. MIDLAND BANK, LTD. (1925), 41 T. L. R. 402; 69 Sol. Jo. 428, 792, C. A.

284a. — Effect of mere book entries.—In dealings between banker & customer, where it is sought to treat a mere book entry as a payment, some other circumstances must be present & relied upon to enable the customer in whose favour it is made to succeed, either some express previous authority to pay, or a communication of the making of the entry to the customer & an acting upon it by him; there must be, in effect, both a payment by one party & a receipt by the other, or an alteration in the position of the customer in whose favour the book entry was made.—BRITISH & NORTH EUROPEAN BANK, LTD. v. ZALZSTEIN, [1927] 2 K. B. 92; 96 L. J. K. B. 539; 137 L. T. 127; 43 T. L. R. 299.

(2) The negligence referred to in the subsect. is negligence in collecting the cheque, not in opening the account. The test is whether the paying in of any given cheque, coupled with the circumstances antecedent & present, was so out of the ordinary course that it ought to have aroused doubt in the banker's mind, & caused him to make inquiries. office as to the safety of the documents until after the lapse of six weeks it is guilty of negligence. The bank is still more guilty of negligence, when, having made the belated inquiry & learned that the documents have not been received at the other office, it fails to take immediate steps in the quickest manner available to warn the debtor liable under the documents of the loss thereof, & thus stop payment to any unauthorised person.—*NELSON v. 387a. — — — — —]—For some years before 1919 one U., a merchant, had a banking account at defts.' bank. In that year he converted himself into a limited co., all the shares being allotted to himself except one, which was held by his wife. A debenture in the form of a floating charge over the assets of the co. was issued to a creditor of U. as a security for his debt. The arts. of assoc. of the co. incorporated Table A. by par. 71 of which the business of the co. is to be managed by the directors. By the arts. U. was appointed sole director. After the formation of the co. U. kept on his private banking account with defts. as before, they having notice that his business had been transferred to the co. The co. had a separate account, which was kept at another bank, but defts. had no knowledge of that fact. U., as sole director, became possessed of a number of cheques, some crossed & others uncrossed, drawn in favour of the co. He indorsed them "A.L.U., Ltd.—A.L.U. sole director," & paid them into his own account with defts. instead of paying them in to the co.'s account with the other bank. Defts., without inquiring whether the co. had a separate banking account, collected the cheques & credited U. with the proceeds, which he misappropriated. When doing so they treated him as being identical with the co., as he owned all the shares, & overlooked the materiality of the cheques being drawn in the co.'s favour & not in his. In an action brought by the co. on behalf of the debentureholder for conversion of the cheques:—Held: (1) defts. were precluded from setting up that U., when paying the cheques in to his own account, was acting within the scope of his apparent authority as agent of the co., upon two grounds: first, that the act of an agent paying his principal's cheques into his own account was so unusual as to put them on inquiry, that they ought to have inquired whether the co. had a separate banking account, & if it had, why the cheques were not paid in to that account, & that their failure to make that inquiry amounted to negligence; & secondly, that U. when paying in the cheques did not purport to act as the co.'s agent, but as being himself the co., & that defts. so treated him; (2) with respect to the cheques which were crossed the omission to inquire about the co.'s banking account disentitled defts. as collecting bankers to the protection afforded by Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (c. 61), s. 82.

A customer of a bank paid into his account some cheques to which he had no title. Immediately on his so paying them in the bank credited him with the amounts of the cheques in their ledger, but there was no agreement between the bank & the customer that he should be allowed to draw against the cheques before they were cleared, nor did he in fact draw against them until after the bank had received the proceeds:—

Held: (3) apart from any question whether the bank had notice of any defect in the customer's title, they were not holders in due course, there being no evidence that they took the cheques for value. The mere fact that bankers credit a customer with the amounts of cheques before they are cleared does not make them holders for value; in order to entitle them to that character there must have been an agreement, express or implied, that the customer should be allowed sd. Right of bank to refuse to pay].—In order to hold a banker justified in refusing to pay a demand of his customer the customer being an exor., & drawing a cheque as exor., there must in the first place be some misapplication, some breach of trust intended by the exor., & there must in the second place be proof that the bankers are privy to the intent to make their misapplication of the trust funds. If it be shown that any personal benefit to the bankers themselves is designed or stipulated for, that circumstance above all others will most readily establish the fact that the bankers are in privy with the breach of trust that is about to be committed.—STANDARD BANK v. ESTATE VAN RUYN, [1925] App. D. 286.—S. AF.

391a. — Cheques drawn by wife on bank manager's advice—Title of wife to balance.]—A husband, in 1908, transferred the money standing to a current account at his bank in his own name into the joint names of himself & his wife. He did not inform his wife of the joint account, & always drew cheques on the account himself. He died in Nov. 1919. The wife never drew any cheque on the account until shortly before his death, when he was in failing health & unable to attend to business. The bank manager then informed her of the joint account, & advised her to draw a cheque, which she did. The husband had also from time to time made deposits in the joint names of himself & his wife, & in Aug. 1919, consolidated them into one deposit in the joint names. The wife never knew of this deposit until after her husband's death. There was then found among his papers an envelope indorsed with the wife's initials & containing the deposit receipt & a document in which he said: "I would like this paying away at once if possible as under," with a list of names with amounts against them:—Held: the money standing to the credit of both the current account & the deposit account belonged to the wife as survivor, & the document did not raise any presumption that the husband regarded the deposit as his own property.—*Re HARRISON, DAY v. She was about to open it, when he took it from her hand & said he would keep it for her & locked it up in his despatch box. After testator's death there was found in his despatch box an envelope containing: (1) A deposit receipt for £500 deposited with his bank in 1914; (2) an order in writing signed by testator directing the bank to pay to G. the sum of £500 then on deposit; & (3) a letter addressed to G.: "You have been very kind to me & I desire to make some return by giving you the amount £500 now on deposit at the . . . bank as per receipt enclosed." The deposit receipt was not indorsed by testator & no notice was given to the bank of any assignment till after his death, the interest on the sum on deposit having been carried by the bank to his current account:—Held: there was a valid & complete gift to G. of the sum on deposit by way of assignment under Jud. 463 i. — Stopping of bank-cheque for debt—Debt not paid.—UNION BANK OF CANADA v. NETTLETON (1924), 55 O. L. R. 643.—CAN.

is a pure question of fact. The fact that the cheque is immediately credited in the ledger does not necessarily make the bank holders for value. That inference may be rebutted by notices in the pass-book & paying-in slip or other evidence showing that the customer could not draw before clearance.

(2) If the bank receive the cheque as agents for collection & stop payment before it is finally cleared at the clearing house, they can only receive & hold the proceeds as collecting agents for their customer, & not on the ordinary bank relationship of debtor & creditor. Consequently, in a winding up following on the stoppage the liquidator must pay the full proceeds of a cheque cleared after the stoppage to the customer, although it was cleared shortly before the actual winding up.—Re FARROW'S BANK, LTD., [1923] 1 Ch. 41; 92 L. 544a. ———.—A bye-law of applt. co. authorised its secretary-treasurer jointly with any director to sign cheques drawn upon its bank account. A series of cheques payable to one of the directors were fraudulently signed by the director jointly with the secretary-treasurer, & after indorsement were placed by resp. bank to the credit of an account which the director had with them. Resps. collected the cheques from applts.' bank in the usual course of business. In order that there should be to the credit of applts.' account sufficient to meet each of the cheques, the director in each case fraudulently drew a cheque upon one of various other accounts upon which he had authority to draw, & paid it into applts.' account. Applts. sued resps. to recover the aggregate amount of the cheques collected by them :—Held : the action failed, because (1) resps. had not knowledge, either by the form of the cheques collected or otherwise, that they were improperly drawn on applts.' account, & could not recover the money as having been held by their bankers in trust for them, & (2) applts. had suffered no loss, & the ct. could not investigate applts.' liability to persons not parties to the action in respect of the cheques placed to applts.' credit. —

cf. ———.—A co. drew bills of exchange upon customers to whom they had supplied goods & who accepted the bills. The co. indorsed the bills in blank, & delivered them to a bank for collection. The co. went into liquidation. Its current account with the bank was overdrawn to a large amount. In the liquidation the bank claimed that they were owners of the bills, & that they were not bound to value & deduct the obligations in the bills for the purpose of a ranking. The bank's lien over the proceeds of the bills was admitted :—Held : the bills, having been indorsed & delivered to the bank for the limited purpose of collection, remained assets of the co., over which the bank held a mere right in security in virtue of their lien, & the obligations under the bills must be valued & deducted for the purposes of a ranking.

545 I. To clerk—Notice of limitation of authority.—A clerk's express duties were to collect amounts due from grain dealers for freight charges, etc., & on presentation of bills of lading & payment of charges to hand out warehouse receipts, & deposit all moneys collected to the credit of the Receiver-General in a designated bank & at certain intervals to remit by draft to the head office of the business.

Such charges were almost always paid to him by accepted cheque & deft. bank cashed such a cheque on it, paying the clerk the proceeds :—Held : the bank was negligent as inquiry should have been made as to the clerk's authority & the unusual act of a business firm cashing such a cheque, especially of a large amount, & a certain discrepancy between the name of the payee in the cheque & the name in the indorsement should have aroused suspicion.—*It. v. 548a. — Cheques paid to customer's creditors.]—Def't. bank negligently, & in breach of the instructions given by their customer, pl'tf. co., paid cheques drawn on the co.'s account signed by one director only. All the cheques were paid to the co.'s trade creditors:—Held: (1) the bank being put on inquiry & being negligent, as the jury found, were not entitled to assume that a signature purporting to be that of a new director was that of a person duly appointed; (2) whether pl'tf. co.'s account was in credit or in debit at the time of the payments to trade creditors, the bank were, on the equitable doctrine under which a person who has in fact paid the debts of another without authority is allowed to take advantage of his payment, entitled to credit for the cheques paid in discharge of the debts of pl'tf. co.; (3) an inquiry should be ordered into the circumstances of payment of each cheque.—*LIGGETT (B.) On Aug. 1 he telegraphed to def'ts. to stop payment of cheque No. 117,285, mentioning the date, the payee, & the amount. These particulars were correct as to cheque No. 117,285, but the number of the cheque was wrong. Cheque No. 117,285 was presented on Aug. 6, & the bank officials paid it, supposing that it had been drawn in place of the one that had been stopped. If they had searched, they would have seen that a cheque numbered 117,283 had already been presented & honoured. In an action for negligence:—Held: the view of the bank officials, that the cheque presented, being subsequent to the date of the stop instructions, might be a duplicate cheque which they were bound to cash, was correct, & pl'tf. was not entitled to recover.—*WESTMINSTER BANK, LTD. v. M., instead of doing so, paid the cheques with forged indorsements into his own account with deft. bank which credited him with the amounts & obtained payment from the South African bank. The cheques were signed by two directors, including M., of pltf. co. M. applied the money received from the cheques with the exception of about £272 for W., paying out of the proceeds of five cheques "to order" for £62 10s. each four sums of £80 from his private account to W. One cheque, dated May 27, 1918, for £97 10s., which was payable to "self or order" & signed by M. & a co-director, was refused by the bank, & came back to them after such refusal with M.'s name written in after the word "self," but the alteration was not initialed by both directors, & the addition was in M.'s writing. Pltf. co. repudiated the transactions & sued the bank for damages for conversion of the cheques, or alternatively for money had & received. Deft. bank claimed protection under Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (c. 61), s. 82, & also as holders for value:—Held: (1) the onus of proving that there was no negligence had been discharged by the bank, except as to the five cheques for £62 10s. each; (2) the bank's duty with regard to these five cheques was to have made inquiries, & they were negligent in paying them into M.'s account; (3) the bank was negligent in cashing the cheque of May 27, 1918, as it should have seen that the alteration in it was made without the concurrence of both directors; (4) the evidence was not sufficient to show that M. paid anything out of his private account to W. in respect of the fifth cheque for £62 10s.; (5) there must be judgment for pltf. co. for £2 10s. on four of the cheques "to order" for £62 10s., £62 10s. on the fifth cheque for the same amount, & £97 10s. on the cheque of May 27, 1918, making an aggregate amount of £170.—SOUCIETTE, LTD. v. 691a. — Cheque payable to & indorsed by public official.]—A banker to whom a private customer hands, for collection on his account, a cheque payable to & indorsed by a public official is put upon inquiry whether the customer is entitled to the cheque, & acts negligently if he credits the customer with the proceeds of the cheque without having made any such inquiry.

The Overseas Military Forces of Canada engaged in the European war had an estates office in England authorised by the Secretary of State for the Colonies to perform in accordance with statutory conditions the duties of collecting & distributing the estates of members of these forces dying in Europe. A sergeant employed at the office misappropriated during a period of ten months thirty-two cheques of the aggregate value of about £3,900, representing money belonging to the estates of deceased soldiers. Each of the cheques was drawn payable to "The Officer in Charge, Estates Office, Canadian Overseas Military Forces," & was indorsed generally by that officer under the same description with a view to its being sent to the Paymaster-General of these forces for payment of the amount to the beneficiaries, or in some cases directly to the beneficiary, & each cheque was crossed generally. The sergeant paid the first two cheques into a branch of defts.' bank at which he had a small private account of his own & the rest of them into another branch of the bank which passed them on to the former branch. No inquiry was made at either branch whether he was entitled to the cheques, & at the former branch they were credited to his account & payment of them was received for him. In an action by the Paymaster-General against defts. for damages for conversion of the cheques:—Held: the fact that the cheques were drawn payable to & indorsed by a public official should have put the cashiers of defts. upon inquiry whether their private customer was entitled to the cheques; in crediting the cheques to him without any inquiry the cashiers of both the branches had been guilty of negligence; & therefore defts. were not protected by Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (c. 61), s. 82, from liability to pltf.—*ROSS v. That cheque was duly received at pltf.' office & B., a director, signed a receipt form on the back of the cheque as follows: "L. & M. Shipbuilding Co. T. B. director." Another director of pltf., J., then indorsed the cheque to the order of another co. of which B. was a director, B. & Co. Ltd. The cheque was then indorsed by B. "for & on behalf of B. & Co. T. 6911. What is negligence—Defective title of customer—Collection for stranger.]—A man unknown to a banker was permitted to open an account with the bank by paying in a deposit of £5 in notes & four crossed cheques for collection, such cheques being made payable to a number or bearer & marked "bank," or "not negotiable," or "bank not negotiable." Without making any inquiry as to the man's title to the cheques the bank collected them. On the following day the man, by an open cheque, drew out almost the whole of the amount to the credit of his account, & paid in for collection four other crossed cheques, including one drawn by pltf. payable to a number or bearer to which the man who paid it in had no title. These four cheques were collected by the bank almost without inquiry:—Held: the circumstances in which the account was opened was such as to put the bank upon inquiry: the duty of inquiry extended to the transactions of the next day & in the absence of reasonable inquiry the bank was guilty of negligence.—LONDON BANK OF AGENCY, LTD. v. KENDALL (1920), 28 C. L. R. 401.—AUS.

J. had no right to indorse the cheque to the order of B. & Co., & B. & Co. had no right to the proceeds of the cheque. In 1923 pltf. went into liquidation, & the liquidator on examining the accounts found that the cheque for £8,000 had been misapplied, & also that other sums were owing by B. to pltf. The liquidator thereupon proceeded by a misfeasance summons against J. & B., & upon that summons an order was made for £450 against J. & £10,450 against B. The money was not paid, & pltf. brought an action against defts. for conversion of the £8,000 cheque:—Held: there was clear evidence of negligence on the part of defts., & Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (c. 61), s. 81, gave no defence to the claim.—*LONDON & MONTROSE SHIPBUILDING & REPAIRING CO., LTD. v. 692b. — Question of fact.—The question whether a banker in receiving payment of a cheque for a customer has acted without negligence, so as to be protected by Bills of Exchange Act, 1882 (c. 61), s. 82, if the customer has no title thereto, is a question of fact. Where there was a missing link in the chain of identification of the customer:—Held: that fact ought to have put the bank upon inquiry, & the bank was not protected by the sect.—*HAMPSTEAD GUARDIANS v. 756a. Credit conditional on tender of approved insurance policy—What is approved insurance policy?—Bankers issued a letter of credit to English sellers of 100 tons of steel plates to Dutch buyers. By the terms of the letter of credit the bankers agreed to honour the sellers' draft for the amount of the purchase-to R., provided the draft were accompanied by an approved insurance policy covering the shipment of the goods. The sellers presented their draft accompanied by a certificate of insurance which did not contain & did not offer any means of ascertaining the full terms of the insurance. In an action by the sellers against the bankers for not honouring the draft:—Held: the certificate was not an "approved insurance policy" within the meaning of the letter of credit, & the bankers were justified in refusing to honour the draft.

a.i. —[.]—A document in the form of a letter written by a bank was as follows:—"We beg to inform you that we are in receipt of advice by wire from our London office that a confirmed irrevocable credit has been opened under which we are authorised to negotiate your bills, as offered on G. & Co., of London, to the extent of £16,875 on the following conditions: bills to be drawn payable three months after sight & to be accompanied by proper shipping documents representing shipment of two thousand bales of jute of a particular mark from Calcutta to Antwerp, during Nov., Dec. 1920." Among the conditions, the two following were the most important:—(a) "Please note that this advice does not release you from the liability attaching to the drawer of a bill of exchange"; (b) "Under present conditions we can give no undertaking to negotiate bills drawn under this credit".—Held: the document was not an ordinary banker's letter of credit.—*CHANDANMULL BENGALRY v. 756b. Irrevocable letter of credit—Payment for goods—Refusal of bank to pay invoices—Liability of bank to seller.—Pltfs. entered into a contract with buyers in C. to manufacture & ship machinery by instalments over several months at agreed prices, but subject to a stipulation that should the cost of labour or wages increase, there should be a corresponding increase in the purchase price. The buyers were also to open a "confirmed irrevocable credit" in favour of pltfs. with a bank in this country, & to pay for each shipment as it took place. In pursuance of this arrangement defts., who were the buyers' bankers in I., wrote to pltfs. stating that they would pay bills drawn on the buyers to the extent of $70,000, the bills to be accompanied by documents & to be received before Apr. 14, 1921, "this to be considered a confirmed irrevocable credit." Pltfs. shipped two instalments under the contract & received payment under the letter of credit. The buyers then found that the invoices included an increase in the purchase price on account of wages & material, & instructed defts. only to pay so much of the next invoices as represented the original prices. Defts. accordingly refused to pay the bill presented on the next shipment & pltfs. then cancelled the contract, claiming damages from defts. as on a repudiation by the buyers.—Held: the credit being irrevocable, the refusal of defts. to take & pay for the particular bills on presentation of the proper documents constituted a repudiation of the contract as a whole, & pltfs. were entitled to damages so reckoned. The basis of this form of banking facility is that the buyer is taken, as between himself & the banker, to accept the seller's invoices as correct. Any adjustment must be made by way of refund by the seller & not by way of retention by the buyer.—URQUHART LINDSAY & CO. v. EASTERN BANK, LTD., [1922] 1 K. B. 318; 91 L. J. K. B. 274; 126 L. ss. Unauthorized application of proceeds—In payment of borrower's debts to other customers—Right to damages.—After crediting pltf. with the proceeds of a note which it discounted for him, deft. bank, without authority from him, applied nearly all of such

proceeds to pay off debts which he owed to other customers of the same bank, & paid itself the amount of the note out of the proceeds & promissory notes which it held as collateral securities for advances made by it to him.—Held: pltf. was entitled to nominal damages & costs for the 921a. ————]—Defts. acted as bankers for a firm up to Feb. 3, 1914, when the firm being insolvent by deed assigned all their property to pltf. as trustee for their creditors. The deed provided that payments to the creditors should be made upon the basis of a bkpey. distribution of the property & that secured creditors should have the same rights as under a bkpey. At the date of the deed the firm had £2,934 to the credit of their current account in deft. bank, & the bank held certain shares as security for an advance to the firm. These shares were subsequently sold by the bank & realised £812 in excess of the amount of the advance to the firm. Before Feb. 3, 1914, the firm had discounted with the bank a number of bills of exchange, which matured after that date, & in respect thereof the firm became the debtors of the bank to the amount of £19,911. In an action by pltf. as trustee under the deed to recover from the bank the two sums of £2,934 & £812, the bank

932a. ———— Joint & several guarantee—Termination.]—By an agreement the six signatories thereto jointly & severally agreed with a Canadian bank to guarantee repayment up to a fixed sum of all liabilities, including interest, which a customer had or should incur to the bank: it was provided that the agreement should be a continuing guarantee "until the undersigned, or the exor. or administrator of the undersigned, shall have given the bank notice in writing to make no further advances on the security of this guarantee." In 1913, the bank, without notice to the guarantors but with the assent of the debtor, increased the rate of interest upon the advances to 8 per cent., though, by Bank Act (R. S. Can. c. 29), s. 91, it was illegal for a bank to charge more than 7 per cent. Subsequently one of the signatories died, & his exors. gave notice purporting to terminate the liability of the estate of the deceased under the guarantee:—Held: (1) the guarantee remained in force against all the guarantors until each & all of them or their respective exors. or administrators gave notice to determine it; (2) the increase in the rate of interest did not discharge the guarantors, but they were liable for the principal sum advanced & for such interest as the debtor was legally to pay.—*EGBERT v. 986a. ——— Without consent of customer.—It is an implied term of the contract between a banker & his customer that the bank will not divulge to third persons, without the consent of the customer express or implied, either the state of the customer's account, or any of his transactions with the bank, or any information relating to the customer acquired through the keeping of his account, unless the banker is compelled to do so by order of a ct., or the circumstances give rise to a public duty of disclosure, or the protection of the banker's own interests requires it.

Pltf. was a customer of deft. bank. A cheque was drawn by another customer of defts. in favour of pltf., who instead of paying it in to his own account indorsed it to a third person who had an account at another bank. On the return of the cheque to defts. their manager inquired of the last-named bank who the person was to whom it had been paid, & was told it was a bookmaker. That information defts. disclosed to third persons:—Held: that disclosure constituted a breach of defts.' duty to pltf., for though the information was acquired not through pltf.'s account but through that of the drawer of the cheque, it was acquired by defts.

356a. Whether binding at second trial.—A man was employed by a railway co. to sweep their yard & goods warehouse. Several lines of rails ran through the yard, & it was his duty to sweep between the lines, but to stand clear of them when trucks were being run over them. On June 10, 1918, a capstan man in the employ of defts. gave notice to the man that he was going to run trucks into the yard, which notice the man acknowledged. The first truck was sent in, & the capstan man stated that he saw the man apply the brake to it, which was not a part of his duty, & then leave the yard. A second truck was then sent down on another line, & shortly afterwards the man was found sitting on the ground, having sustained injuries from which he died. Upon a claim by his widow for compensation under Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906 (c. 58), an admission was made by counsel at the trial that "deceased was crushed between two waggons & sustained abdominal injury from which he died." —]—When adultery is to be inferred solely from the length of gestation of a child in utero, & evidence adverse to the wife, its mother, as regards her conduct, is absent, the same considerations apply as in a case of legitimacy & the presumption thereof. In such a case the evidence to negative lawful access as the cause of pregnancy must be strong, distinct, satisfactory, & conclusive, & must not consist of a mere balance of probability. If on medical evidence there is no distinct & inherent impossibility of access by the husband which could account for the birth of a child, the wife cannot be found guilty of adultery.—*GASKILL v. 56 vii. ————]—The evidence of a man & his wife, given for the purpose of bastardising a child born during wedlock, & at a time consistent with lawful conception, is not admissible. —Re BROWN & ARDRE, [1925] 3 D. L. R. 873; 57 O. L. R. 297.—CAN.

58 viii. ————]—A husband sued his wife for divorce on the ground of adultery, which she denied. The wife had given birth to a child, of which the husband alleged that he was not the father. The husband gave evidence of non-access. The birth had been registered by the wife, who gave the name of a man other than her husband as its father:—Held: (1) the husband's evidence as to non-access was inadmissible; (2) the registration of the child's birth by the wife did not throw the onus upon her of proving that the child was not an adulterine child, but the onus of proof remained upon the husband. —SERMON v. SERMON, [1926] App. D. 47.—S. AF.

Eight days after the commencement of this visit the woman applied to a justice of the peace acting for the petty sessional division of the place where her sister resided for a summons against the man alleged by her to be the father of her child:—Held: the woman resided in that petty sessional division within 1872 Act, s. 3, so as to give the justices of that petty sessional division jurisdiction to make an affiliation order against the putative father, as that sect. did not require that the application should be made to a justice of the peace acting for the petty sessional division of the place where the woman usually or permanently resided.

- 325a. ————]—Applt. was charged on complaint preferred by resp. with being the father of a bastard child of resp. Applt. was a farmer & a bachelor. Resp. was his house-keeper. On the morning of the birth when resp. was in labour, applt., who had no other female servant, lit a fire for her & took her some tea & brandy. He also sent for the doctor. After the birth he allowed her & the child to remain for five weeks & two days, until June 17, in his house. There was no evidence whether she was sufficiently recovered to have left at an earlier date. Applt. admitted that during those five weeks & two days he never asked resp. who was the father of her child. Resp. in her evidence said that during that time, though she did not fix the date except that it was before June 16, she asked applt. what he was going to do about the child, & he said that there was nothing for him to do but to pay. After resp. had left his house she wrote him a letter charging him with being the father of the child, & asking him if he meant to pay for its maintenance. To that letter he made no reply:—Held: the above facts did not afford any evidence corroborating the evidence of resp. in some material particular, as required by 1872 Act, s. 4.—*THOMAS v. —“Fresh evidence.”—On the application of resp., justices made an order adjudging that applt. was the father of her illegitimate child, & ordered him to make her a periodical payment. On a subsequent application by applt. under Criminal Justice Administration Act, 1914 (c. 58), s. 30 (3), to revoke the whole order, he tendered fresh evidence, which went only to show that he was not the father of the child. The justices refused to hear it, holding that they had no power to deal with that part of the order which adjudged the paternity:—Held: (1) the justices were right; (2) (AVORY & SHEARMAN, J.J.) there being nothing to show that the evidence tendered was of facts which had occurred since the original hearing, or had come to the knowledge of applt. since the hearing, that evidence was not “fresh evidence” within sect. 30 (3).—*COLCHESTER v. 403a. — New evidence.—Complainant in an affiliation summons was a married woman who was not living apart from her husband at the material date, & an order on the evidence & on his own admission was made against one M. After the time for appealing against this order had expired, the rule in the present case was obtained on an affidavit by complainant's husband that he had cohabited with complainant at the material date & could have been the father of the child:—Held: the question of access or non-access was a question of fact for the justices, from which they were entitled to find that M. was the child's father; the ct. would not, in support of a rule for a certiorari, rehear a case upon further evidence on a disputed question of fact, & perform the functions of quarter sessions, to which, owing to lapse of time, an appeal could not be made.—*R. v. 403b. — Sufficiency of corroboration.—

On a bastardy summons justices, having heard the evidence of the mother & such other evidence as was produced by her & other evidence tendered by the person alleged to be the father, made an order in these terms: "On hearing the complaint & the evidence of complainant & other evidence satisfactorily corroborating in a material particular her evidence & also the evidence tendered by deft., & being satisfied of the truth of the complaint, it is adjudged that deft. is the putative father of the child":—Held: the question whether the evidence of the mother was corroborated in some material particular by other evidence to the satisfaction of the justices, was a matter to be decided by the justices & even if the other evidence did not corroborate the evidence of the mother, the justices had acted within their jurisdiction, & a writ of certiorari should not issue to quash their order.—*R. v. y ii. — At what place.—In a complaint under Children of Unmarried Parents Act, R. S. B. C., 1924 (c. 34),

s. 7 (1), "the cause" of the complaint within Summary Convictions Act, R. S. B. C., 1921 (c. 215), s. 77, is the seduction & not the birth of the child; & an appeal from the dismissal of the complaint is properly taken to the county ct. nearest the place where the seduction occurred.—ELDRIDGE v. 797a. Creditor who has assented to deed of arrangement—Deed void for want of registration.]—On June 11, 1921, applt. co. recovered judgment against debtor for a certain sum & cost. On Apr. 18, 1922, debtor executed a document in the form of a memorandum of agreement by which he assigned his property to trustees for the benefit of his creditors. The agreement provided (inter alia) that it should not be registered either as a composition or deed of arrangement or otherwise & contained a schedule of creditors & their debts. At the date of the agreement there were five bkpcy. petitions pending against debtor by creditors other than applt. co. As a result of negotiations between debtor & the five creditors & in consideration of his entering into the agreement of Apr. 18, 1922, the five creditors agreed to the dismissal of their petitions & signed letters dated Apr. 17, 1922, which were all in the same form, & contained a statement that it was understood that it was not intended to register the agreement as a deed of arrangement, by which they respectively agreed that so long as debtor complied with the terms of the agreement of Apr. 18, 1922, they would not bring any action against him in respect of their scheduled debts or attempt to set aside the agreement. On July 18, 1922, applt. co. signed a letter of assent in the same terms, which was also dated Apr. 17, 1922, & agreed to hand it over to debtor on receiving from him a promissory note or bill of exchange of a third party for £300. This condition debtor performed. The letter was not, however, handed over to debtor owing to the refusal by him to pay to applt. co. an agreed sum for costs, a term which the ct. held formed no part of the original bargain. Applt. co. subsequently issued a bkpcy. notice against debtor founded on its judgment debt. The registrar set the bkpcy. notice aside on the ground that applt. co. was bound by the agreement contained in the letter

(1) the agreement of Apr. 18, 1922, being a deed of arrangement, was void for want of registration under 1914 (Deeds) Act, & the letter of assent, being an assent to a void instrument, was also itself void; (2) as debtor & all the creditors who assented to the agreement knew from the terms of the instrument itself & from the statement contained in the letters signed by them that the agreement was void, & there was no representation that the agreement was valid, there was no question of estoppel, & applt. co. was not estopped from issuing the bkpcy. notice.—Re A BANKRUPTCY NOTICE, [1924] 2 Ch. 76; 93 L. Debtors paid a sum of £100, including £5 for costs, nine days later, but in the belief that the notice would be disputed the creditors issued & served a fresh bkpcy. notice about two months later for £857, & that notice not having been complied with within seven days, a petition based on the fresh bkpcy. notice was presented & served. Debtors gave notice of an application to set aside service of the petition, but the registrar refused to do so, & made a receiving order on the fresh bkpcy. notice.—Held: (1) debtors could not refuse to comply with the fresh bkpcy. notice on the ground that as the previous notice had resulted in an act of bkpcy. this had put it out of the power of debtors to make any payment in compliance ment in compliance with the fresh notice it might be that if a trustee were appointed under the previous bkpcy. notice the payment might be set aside, & the money made available for the general body of creditors.—Re DEBTORS (No. 771 of 1926) (1926), 43 T. On Feb. 25, 1924, their director with their accountant attended the office of one of the trustees under the deed & suggested that they or some other new creditor should be represented on the committee of inspection. The appeal was subsequently dismissed & an order was made adjudicating him bkpt. At the date of the receiving order bkpt. had an account at a bank. 1894a. — Duty to recover statutory debt.]—

In 1919 debtor paid debt., a bookmaker, various cheques for bets lost on horse racing, & these cheques were cleared through various banks, as holders. On Aug. 30, 1920, debtor was adjudicated bkpt. & on Mar. 30, 1921, his trustee in bkpcy. by the direction of his committee of inspection, commenced an action to recover £955, the amount admitted to be due, if recoverable. The action was transferred to the judge in bkpcy. under Bkpcy. Rules, 1915, r. 123. Debt. took the point that such an action ought not to be brought by an officer of the ct., as the claim, however legal, was practically dishonest, & that all cts. must apply the rule in Re Condon, Ex p. James, No. 60, ante.—Held: the claim the trustee in bkpcy. was seeking to enforce was in respect of a debt which under Gaming Act, 1835 (c. 41), s. 2, & the decision of the House of Lords in Sutters v. Briggs (see GAMING & WAGERING, Vol. XXV., p. 418, No. 213), was a statutory debt, & there was nothing in Re Condon, Ex p. James, or in any of the cases in which the rule in that case had been followed, which entitled the ct. to say that if & when a right of action in respect of such a debt vested in a trustee in bkpcy., it was a dishonest or dishonourable thing for him as an officer of the ct. to enforce it, & judgment for the trustee in bkpcy. must be entered in the action for the amount claimed.—*SCRANTON'S TRUSTEE v. 1894b. — Duty to act equitably.—Recovery of money paid to bankrupt with approval of official receiver.]—On June 26, 1924, a receiving order was made against W. on a petition presented on May 25, 1924, in respect of an act of bkpcy. on May 1, 1924. W. was a promoter of boxing contests & had in view at the date of the presentation of the petition boxing competitions, one of which was held at the Stadium, Wembley, on Aug. 9, 1924. He appealed against the receiving order, & pending that appeal the receiving order was not gazetted. His appeal having failed it was then gazetted on July 29, 1924. At an interview between W., his solr., the solr. for the Wembley authorities & A., the assistant official receiver, who under Bkpcy. Rules, 1915, r. 316, represented the official receiver, A. was told of the proposed boxing contest & the judge held on the evidence that at the interview W. told A. he desired notwithstanding the receiving order to be allowed to stage the contest as the only hope of providing assets to meet the claims of his creditors, & that it was arranged he could do so without any interference by the official receiver, on W. undertaking not to use the proceeds of the sale of tickets for his private purposes but only for discharging the expenses of the staging of the contest & to hand over any balance to the official receiver. On that arrangement being made W. proceeded with the negotiations for the contest & an agreement was executed by which he gave the Wembley authorities the right to collect all moneys paid for tickets at the turnstiles, & they were to have those moneys as a security for the payment by W. for the use of the Stadium. Various ticket agents paid W. for blocks of tickets to be sold by them to the public. The contest, which was held at the Stadium on Aug. 9, 1924, only realised after payment of all expenses £730 which W. paid to the official receiver. On Sept. 6, 1924, W. was adjudicated bkpt., & on Sept. 9, S. was appointed trustee in the bkpcy. On a motion by S. to recover from the various ticket agents all sums paid by them since the date of the receiving order to W. for tickets they had bought from him & to recover the money collected by the Wembley authorities at the turnstiles: Held: A. had power to give his sanction to W.'s receipt of the proceeds of the sale of tickets to be applied by him in discharging expenses & the trustee in bkpcy. was bound by the sanction so given, but even if he were not so bound & even if A. exceeded his powers the trustee could not take the benefit of W.'s activities without accepting their burden, & the payment to W. of the moneys which the trustee claimed, being the direct result of the leave obtained by W. from A. to stage the boxing contests, it would be inequitable & unjust to make resp. pay these moneys over again for the benefit of W.'s creditors & to hold that the charge given to the Wembley authorities was nugatory.—*Re WILSON, Ex p. 2902a. ————J—By marriage articles in 1914, made between husband & wife & three trustees, it was agreed that, after the intended marriage, an indenture of settlement should be executed & that the husband would bring into settlement all property to which he then was or thereafter might become entitled, to be held, subject to life interests in favour of husband & wife, upon trusts to be mutually agreed between the trustees of the settlement. It was further agreed that the first trustees of the settlement should be the three trustees of the articles therein named, & that if they or either of them should fail to accept the trusteeship of the settlement, then such other person or persons as the spouses should nominate; & that in the meantime until the execution of the settlement the persons in whom such property should be vested should hold the same upon the trusts of the settlement. The marriage was solemnised on the day of the execution of the articles. On the death of his father on Feb. 22, 1918, the husband, under his will, became entitled in reversion, subject to the life interest of testator's widow, to a share in his residuary estate. On June 13, 1919, the trustees of the articles gave notice to the will trustees of the execution of the articles. On Oct. 21, 1920, the husband, in pursuance of his contract contained in the articles, executed a settlement by which he assigned to the trustees thereof, of whom there were three & of whom one was also a trustee under the articles, but the other two were not, his interest under his father's will upon trusts for the benefit of his wife & children. On Dec. 5, 1921, the settlor was adjudicated bkpt. The trustee in bkpcy. moved for a declaration that the settlement & the transfer of the property purported to be made thereunder were void as against him:—Held: (1) the acquisition by bkpt. on his father's death of the property which was non-existent at the date of the articles did not operate under the well settled doctrine as a complete equitable assignment of that property, as the persons to whom the property was contracted to be assigned & the trusts upon which such persons were to hold it were not ascertained at the date of such acquisition; (2) even if there had been an equitable assignment within that doctrine, it would not have operated as a transfer of property within the true meaning of 1914 Act, s. 42 (3); (3) the assignment contained in the settlement of Oct. 1920, operated as a transfer of property within that sub-sect. & was void by reason of its execution within two years of the commencement of the bkpcy.—*Re DENT, Ex p. 2978a. Proof by plaintiff against bankrupt defendant—Stay of action after bankruptcy—Proof in bankruptcy for amount claimed in action.—On Oct. 25, 1920, resp., a mtge. broker, hereinafter called pltf., issued a writ against debtor in the K. B. Div. to recover a sum of £650 for commission earned. On June 20, 1921, the action was set down for trial. On July 19, 1921, a receiving order was made against debtor. On Feb. 2, 1922, on the application of pltf. made in the action the action was stayed with liberty to pltf. to restore. On Mar. 6, 1922, pltf., instead of applying to restore the action, lodged his proof in the bkpcy. of debtor for £650. The official receiver rejected his proof, but on Jan. 17, 1923, the county ct. judge reversed the decision of the official receiver & admitted the proof. On Sept. 29, 1923, pltf. lodged a further proof for £46 17s. 9d. for his untaxed costs of the action, all of which were incurred before the date of the receiving order. On Oct. 31, 1923, the official receiver rejected that proof. Pltf. appealed, & on Feb. 11, 1924, the county ct. judge reversed his decision & ordered that the proof of the costs, amounting to £46 17s. 9d., should be admitted subject to taxation. On the appeal of the official receiver:—Held: (1) as pltf. had obtained no judgment dealing either with his claim in the action or the costs thereof, but had elected to stay his action & to prove in bkpcy. for the amount claimed in the action, he was not entitled to prove for his untaxed costs of the action; (2) (ASTBURY, J.) the sum for which pltf. sought to prove in respect of his costs was not a debt or liability certain or contingent to which debtor was subject at the date of the receiving order or to which he might become subject before his discharge by reason of any obligation incurred before that date, within 1914 Act, s. 30 (3), & therefore was not provable.—Re PITCHFORD, [1924] 2 Ch. 260; *sub nom. - The mere fact that the trustee cannot recover either payments made to a creditor whose proof is subsequently expunged or overpayments made to a creditor whose proof is subsequently reduced, does not prevent the operation of that equitable principle in the case of a proof in bkpcy. Nor does the judgment of JESSE, M.R., in *Re Tail, Ex p. 3375a. Deposit of securities—To secure joint debt of firm—Debts due under separate personal guarantees of partners.]—The general rule in bkpcy., that, when a creditor seeks to prove against his debtor's estate, he must give up or value any security which if not retained by him would go to augment that estate, presupposes that the security is for the particular debt for which he seeks to prove, & does not apply to a case where the security is for a different debt.

Where, therefore, two of the partners of a firm deposited with the bankers of the firm securities which belonged to them individually to secure a joint debt of the firm, & also gave the bankers their separate personal guarantees up to a limited amount to pay the joint debt of the firm, & the firm subsequently, as debtors, executed a deed of assignment for the benefit of their creditors, which provided that in the administration of the joint & separate estates of the debtors the rules prevailing in bkpcy. should be followed:—Held: as the bankers did not hold a charge on the securities so deposited for the debts due under the separate guarantees given by the two partners, & therefore, were not "secured creditors" within the definition in 1914 Act, s. 167, in respect of tive account with a firm of stockbrokers & deposited with them as security for any debit balance which might from time to time be owing by him on that account the indicia of title to various bonds & shares, including certain rubber shares. In 1920 the firm sold the rubber shares without the knowledge or authority of deft., who was kept in ignorance of the sale till after the bkpcy. of the firm. On Feb. 16, 1922, a receiving order was made against the firm & they were adjudicated bkpt. In Feb. 1923, the trustee in bkpcy. of the firm rendered deft. a final account, which, after giving credit to deft. for the proceeds of the sale of the shares, showed a balance due from deft. In an action to recover that balance the trustee claimed that the rights of the parties ought to be adjusted under the mutual credits clause of 1914 Act, as at the date of the receiving order. The judge, in ordering an account to be taken, directed that the value of the shares, to be ascertained when the account was certified, that being the date when the shares ought to have been returned to deft., should be set off against the claim of the trustee.—Held: the brokers could not have maintained an action for their debt if they were not in a position to hand over the shares against payment, & the trustee in bkpcy. had no higher right; no question of set-off arose under the mutual credits clause of 1914 Act, the right of deft. being to a return of the shares in specie; & in the special circumstances of the case the order of the judge was correct.—*ELLIS & CO.'S TRUSTEE v. Shortly afterwards, the provisional liquidator of the co., which was subsequently, in Apr. 1925, ordered to be wound up, paid to appl't. the amount for which he had recovered judgment, & in Apr. 1926, an order was made in the winding up upon appl't. to repay to the liquidator that amount, on the ground that the payment to him by the liquidator was void as a fraudulent preference. In consequence of appl't.'s non-compliance with that order, a bkpcy. notice was served upon him, & a receiving order made against him, the registrar refusing to allow appl't. to set off against the amount he had been so ordered to repay to the liquidator the sum for which he had recovered judgment against the co.:—Held: appl't. had not, at the date of the receiving order, any valid or effectual right of set-off in respect of the sum he had been ordered to repay to the liquidator.—Re A Debtor (82 of 1926), [1927] 1 Ch. 410; 136 L.  4665a. — Necessary before other side entitled to refer to contents.—On June 29, 1923, resps., having received from bkpt. an order for goods, on the same day delivered them to bkpt. together with an invoice bearing the same date, which subsequently at bkpt.'s request was post-dated to July 10. On July 20, bkpt., although fully realising his insolvency, sent to resps. & to 107 other creditors cheques which were all post-dated to July 31 in settlement of their several accounts. On July 31 bkpt. gave notice to his creditors that he was about to suspend payment. Not one of those post-dated cheques was paid on presentation; but on July 30, the day preceding the act of bkpcy., bkpt. paid in cash to resps., who had no knowledge of bkpt.'s financial difficulties, the amount he owed them less discount. On Aug. 30, 1923, on a creditor's petition presented on Aug. 3, an order of adjudication was made against bkpt. Upon a motion by the trustee in bkpcy. for a declaration that the payment to resps. was a fraudulent preference under 1914 Act, s. 44 (1), resps. filed an affidavit in opposition, which contained statements which revealed a voluntary offer on July 30 on the part of bkpt. to resps. to pay the amount due to them in cash; & the question was then raised whether the trustee had the right, which he claimed, to read those statements as admissions by resps. of the absence of pressure & of the entirely voluntary nature of the payment:—Held: (1) the practice in the Bkpcy. Ct., differing in this respect from the practice in the Ch. Div., was that where an affidavit had been filed by a resp. to an application, applt. was only entitled to refer to the contents thereof after resp. on opening his case had elected to read it; (2) where a bkpt. in imminent expectation of bkpcy. voluntarily pays a particular creditor with the result of giving him a preference in fact, & the reason for such payment is unexplained, a prima facie case of fraudulent preference is established; therefore, the trustee having proved a prima facie case of fraudulent preference & the creditors having withdrawn their affidavit in opposition, & there being therefore no evidence to the contrary, the trustee was entitled to succeed on his application.—*Re COHEN, Ex p. ferred his assets, including certain furniture, to a co. formed by him. On Sept. 27 he committed an act of bkpey. upon which a petition was presented on Oct. 8, & a receiving order was made against him on Oct. 24, followed by an adjudication on Dec. 12. After the date of the receiving order part of the furniture was sold by the co. to a bond fide purchaser for value without notice, by whom it was resold to another purchaser in the same position. On Feb. 3, 1919, the transfer of Sept. 20, 1917, was held to be fraudulent & void & an act of bkpey., & the co. was ordered to deliver to the trustee all the property comprised in that sale. The value of the property having been found by the registrar, a further order was made against the co. to pay the amount of that value to the trustee. No payment having been made under that order the trustee claimed to recover the furniture or its value from the ultimate purchaser: Held: the title of the trustee related back to the act of bkpey. of Sept. 20, 1917, & neither the original nor any subsequent transferee could establish any title as against the trustee.—Re GUNSBURG, [1920] 2 K. By an order in 1895 after the dissolution of C's marriage, it was ordered that the trustees should set apart the whole of the income of the settled funds which was then payable to him, & apply it for the children of the marriage until majority. C. became bkpt. in 1904, & his youngest child attained twenty-one in 1910:—Held: the above order was an act or event antecedent to his bkpcy. by which C's interest in the whole income was determined for a substantial period, & a forfeiture took place at the time the order was made, & nothing passed to the trustee in bkpcy.—*Re CAREW'S TRUSTS, GELLIBRAND v. Shortly after the death of testatrix B. entered into a scheme for composition with his creditors, & he then signed an authority to the trustees of testatrix's will "until further notice" to pay to the trustee under the scheme "the income now due or to accrue due" to B. from her estate. It appeared that there had been no communication by B. to the trustee of the scheme for composition concerning the authority given to the trustees of the will until after these proceedings had been taken in the matter:—Held: in these circumstances the authority given to the trustees of the will did not operate as a good equitable assignment of B.'s interest in testatrix's estate & did not work a forfeiture thereof, inasmuch as in the absence of communication concerning the authority, the same remained simply a bare authority which was revocable.—*Re HAMILTON, FITZGEORGE v. Testator died in 1910 & on Apr. 16, 1914, B. was adjudicated bkpt. On Dec. 14, 1925, B.'s life interest fell into possession, & on Apr. 7, 1926, he procured the annulment of his bkpcy. Between Dec. 14, 1925, & the date of the annulment the trustees received income in respect of the residuary estate, but dealt only with such part as did not include the income in respect of B.'s interest, no payment being made in respect of that by them:—Held: as after Dec. 14, 1925, the trustees received sums in respect of the income of testator's estate which they could have been asked to hand over to the trustee in the bkpcy. of B. before the annulment of his bkpcy., there existed something upon which the forfeiture could operate, the test being whether there was any actual income of the share which could be treated by the trustees as payable to, or retained for, or appropriated for, the residuary legatee, & the annulment was not in time to prevent the operation of the forfeiture clause. *Re FORDER, FORDER v. - 5936a. "Unless he attempts to become bankrupt"—Whether applicable to bankruptcy in invitum or generally.—Testator, by his will dated

Dec. 21, 1911, devised & bequeathed his real & personal estate to his trustees upon trust to sell & convert with power to postpone, & proceeded: "Out of my estate I desire my trustees to pay to my son H. an annuity of £156 to be paid monthly, unless he attempts to assign it or to become bkpt. In these events it shall be entirely optional with my trustees to pay him the annuity, my wish & intention being that the money is to be for his personal use to keep him from want. If they think his conduct or circumstances deserves or requires it, I authorise them to increase the annuity to £260 per annum, payable as & on the condition stated."

Testator then directed that the residue of the income of his estate should be paid to his wife during her life or widowhood, & that after her death or remarriage it should be applied for the maintenance of his daughter until she attained the age of twenty-five years, & that upon her attaining that age the whole of the residue of his property should be given to her. By a codicil to his will, dated Sept. 10, 1918, testator devised two freehold farms to his son H. for the term of his life or "until he shall do some act to effectuate a sale or mtge. thereof or which shall forfeit the same in the case of bkpcy.," in either of which events the farms were to fall back into & form part of his residuary estate. Testator died on Sept. 13, 1918, leaving his widow, his daughter, & his son H. surviving. On Nov. 3, 1911, a receiving order had been made against H. on a creditor's petition, the act of bkpcy. being the failure to comply with a bkpcy. notice, & on Nov. 24, 1911, he was adjudged bkpt. Testator made his will & codicil with knowledge of these facts. On Jan. 22, 1919, H. obtained his discharge, but his creditors had not been paid in full, & the bkpcy. had not been annulled. On a summons taken out by the trustees for the determination of the questions whether the legacy given to H. by the will had become forfeited by his bkpcy., & whether the freeholds devised to him by the codicil belonged to him or formed part of the residuary estate:—Held: (1) the words "unless he attempts to become bkpt." in the will must be read in their strict grammatical sense & as so read did not apply to a bkpcy. in rem or bkpcy. generally, & therefore no forfeiture of the annuity had occurred on which the discretionary trust arose, & consequently the annuity was payable to the trustee in H.'s bkpcy.; (2) the words of devise in the codicil though phrased in words of futurity applied under the doctrine of Trappes v. Meredith, No. 5932, ante, to the past bkpcy. of H., & there was no principle upon which the ct. would be justified in holding that the doctrine was not applicable to legal estates, & consequently the devised freeholds had ever since the death of testator formed part of his residuary estate.—*Re EVANS, PUBLIC TRUSTEE v. —]—In 1913 deft., a domiciled Englishman, entered into an hotel partnership with other persons in Belgium in connection with the Ghent Exhibition. Deft. became tenant of a house in Ghent for a period of eight months from Apr. 1913, & employed clerks & other persons. The partnership incurred heavy liabilities, & by a decree of the Commercial Ct. at Ghent, dated Aug. 9, 1913, the partnership & its members were declared to be insolvent pursuant to an article of the Belgian Civil Code. The decree was pronounced by the ct. without notice to deft., but subsequently, in accordance with the recognised procedure, he was notified of the decree & appeared by solr. to show cause why it should be dissolved. It was, however, affirmed by the Ct. of Appeal. Pltf., trustee in the bkpey., brought an action in England alleging that deft. was possessed of assets within the jurisdiction of the English cts. & claiming a declaration that all deft.'s assets had become vested in pltf. as trustee:—Held: (1) the decree of the Belgian ct. was valid inasmuch as deft. had submitted to the jurisdiction; (2) the proceedings were not contrary to natural justice, inasmuch as deft. had been afforded an opportunity of being heard; (3) subject to the decision of other issues not before the ct., there should be a declaration that pltf. was entitled to all the movable assets of deft., wherever situate, & to the appointment of a receiver.—*BERGEREM v. r. i. —] Although a foreign Bkpey. Act cannot, of its own force, operate beyond the country which enacted it, yet private international law & the comity of nations operating on the general principles relating to movable property will recognise its extra-territorial effect, so far at least it deals with personal property, especially where, as in the case of the U.S. Bkpey. Act, the Act does not expressly confine itself to property within the United States, but extends to "all property" of bkpt.; & the fact that the U.S. Bkpey. Act is given effect in Canada only by comity of nations is not a ground for holding that it should be given no greater effect in Canada than would be given to the Canadian Bkpey. Act in the United States. WILLIAMS v. RICE (Man.), [1926] 3 D. L. R. 223; [1926] 2 W. W. R. 192. CAN.

sa. Insolvency in South Africa—Property in Ireland.—By an order of the Supreme Ct. of the Union of South Africa the estate of an insolvent was sequestrated for the benefit of his creditors; subsequently a trustee of the estate was elected, & was declared entitled to administer the estate in accordance with Insolvency Act, 1916. The insolvent was entitled to certain freehold & leasehold property in Ireland. Under the law of the Union of South Africa the trustee was entitled to the immovable property of the insolvent situate in Ireland, so far as such right did not conflict with the law in Ireland. The Supreme Ct. of South Africa having requested the Irish ct. to act in its aid, the trustee applied for an order vesting the property in him:—Held: he was entitled 6659a. ———.]—For some years before his bkpcy. a surveyor & assessment specialist with a staff of clerks had entered into contracts with clients for personal service in the latter capacity. Under these contracts he had to value his clients' properties for rating purposes & give expert evidence on their appeals, his remuneration being a percentage of the reduction of their assessments when obtained. He mortgaged these contracts & the sums to become due on completion thereof to a mtgee., who by special arrangement with the mtgor. gave no notice to the clients so as not to imperil the mtgor's business position, the mtgor. being allowed to collect the fees when due in his own name & hand them over to the mtgee. At the date of the mtgor.'s bkpcy., some fees (a) were due on completed contracts, but some fees (b) were still unearned. The trustee employed bkpt. & some of his staff to carry out the uncompleted contracts & earn fees (b):—Held: (1) though the work to be done under the contracts required a certain amount of technical skill on which bkpt.'s clients relied, it was nevertheless part of bkpt.'s business, so that the fees (a) due at the date of the bkpcy. were due to him "in the course of his trade or business" & being in his order & disposition by the consent of the mtgee. belonged to the trustee under 1914 Act, s. 38 (c); (2) the mtgee. of fees (b) earned since the bkpcy. was inoperative against the trustee.—Re COLLINS, [1925] 1 Ch. 556; 133 L. The chattels consisted of cutting tables, work tables, machines, stools, etc. The agreement was determinable in the event (inter alia) of a receiving order in bkpey. being made against the hirers, upon which all payments made by the hirers were forfeitable & the chattels were to be delivered to the owner. On Sept. 6, 1922, a receiving order was made against the hirers; on Sept. 21 they were adjudicated bkpt., & on Sept. 25 a trustee in the bkpey. was appointed. On motion by the trustee for a declaration that the chattels formed part of the estate of bkpts. as being in their order & disposition with the consent of the true owner:—Held: there was no proof of a general custom of hiring out chattels such as

were specified in the agreement, nor was such a custom recognised by the cts. The inference of ownership was inevitable that by reason of the possession & user of the goods in the trade or business of the trader they "must" be the property of bkpts.—*Re KAUFMAN SEGAL & DOMB, Ex p. 6858a. Judgment debt.—S., a customer of bkpt., a stockbroker, became indebted to him in respect of Stock Exchange transactions in a sum for which bkpt., on Dec. 18, 1923, recovered judgment. Later, S. became similarly indebted to bkpt. in a further sum. On Jan. 15, 1924, bkpt. assigned both debts to W. to secure £500, & covenanted with him that, in the event of his refraining from giving notice of the assignment to S., he, bkpt., would, on payment of the debts or any part thereof, hand the cheque or other form of payment to W. On Feb. 27, 1924, bkpt. committed an act of bkpey. In Mar. 1924, J., who acted as solr. for both bkpt. & W. in the matter of the assignment, on the instructions of both & without disclosing same, made an agreement with S. for the liquidation of the two debts, whereby S. undertook to pay the aggregate amount thereof by monthly instalments, the first instalments being allocated to the payment of the later of the two debts & the subsequent ones to the payment of the judgment debt; & S. further agreed to deliver promissory notes payable to bkpt. or order to cover the instalments allocated to the later debt. J. received the notes from S. & as agent of W., collected the amounts as they fell due on the notes & paid part thereof to W. & retained the balance. After payment J. returned the notes to S. to be cancelled. At that time neither J. nor W. nor S. had notice of any available act of bkpey. On Sept. 18, 1924, a receiving order was made, at which date S. had paid & W. had received from J. sums amounting to £90 in respect of the later debt. Upon receiving notice of the receiving order, J. gave notice to S. of the assignment. On Sept. 25, 1924, an order of adjudication was made, & on Oct. 7, 1924, appct. was appointed trustee. In Apr. 1925, W. died, & his exor. was made resp. to the motion by which a declaration was sought that the two debts were at the commencement of the bkpey. in the order & disposition of bkpt. & property of bkpt. divisible amongst his creditors:—Held: (1) the earlier debt, which, admittedly, arose in the course of bkpt.'s business, was, notwithstanding its conversion into a judg-

He retained the £72 received on account for fourteen days & then paid it to the execution creditors. On Mar. 16 the sheriff made a second levy, but on being paid £53 on account of the debt in addition to fees & possession money, he again withdrew reserving a right of re-entry for the £19 balance. After retaining the £53 for fourteen days he paid it to the execution creditors. On Apr. 26 the sheriff made a third levy, but the goods seized being found on interpleader to belong to a third party, he finally withdrew & made a return of nulla bona on May 2. On Sept. 8 a petition in bkpy. based on an act of bkpy. of Aug. 19 was presented. A receiving order was made on Sept. 29 followed by an adjudication on Oct. 1 & an order for summary administration on Oct. 3.—Held: the execution was completed within 1914 Act, ss. 40, 41, by the return of nulla bona on May 2, & the trustee had no title to the £72 & £53 realised by that completed execution.

6965a. "Any other petition" Notice not given within fourteen days.]—A sheriff, on behalf of an execution creditor, levied an execution against debtor for more than £20, & received the money from debtor to avoid a sale. Within fourteen days of the payment the sheriff received notice of a bkpey. petition on which an order would have been made had not debtor in the meanwhile filed his own petition on which a receiving order was made as a matter of course. Notice of this second petition was given to the sheriff more than fourteen days after the payment, but while the money was still in his hands pending the result of the first petition. The trustee in bkpey. & the execution creditor both claimed the money:—Held: the words in 1914 Act, s. 41 (2), "or on any other petition of which the sheriff has notice," were not to be qualified by the addition of the words "within the said fourteen days" so as to permit the sheriff to pay the proceeds of the execution to the execution creditor because notice of the second petition on which the receiving order was made was not given within fourteen days of the receipt of such proceeds. The sheriff must hold, in the first instance, to see whether a receiving order would be made, & if he had notice of another petition, even after the lapse of fourteen days, then he must hold to see whether an order would be made on that other petition, or on any petition.—*LATTER v. 7113a. — Gift by brother to sister.—By a deed of gift dated Oct. 7, 1919, debtor, who was adjudged bkpt. on Nov. 23, 1920, "in consideration of his natural love & affection for the donee" purported to assign & convey to his sister, resp., "the business carried on by him at 58a, Old Compton Street, Soho, & the stock-in-trade, wine & produce in & about the premises." At the date of the deed petitioning creditors were proceeding to enforce judgment under R. S. C., Ord. 14, & on Mar. 18, 1920, obtained final judgment against debtor for £527 7s. 4d. for goods sold & costs. On Mar. 20, 1920, execution was levied. Upon such levy being made, resp. claimed under the deed of gift the whole of the furniture & stock seized by the sheriff. An interpleader summons was taken out by the sheriff, & upon the hearing thereof, on Mar. 26, 1920, the master ordered claimant to pay into ct. £800 or give security for such amount, & in default the sheriff was authorised to sell the property seized & pay the proceeds into ct. to abide the result of an issue directed to be tried between claimant & the execution creditors. Pursuant to the order the sheriff sold the goods on Apr. 28, 1920, & on May 20, 1920, paid the sum of £202 12s. 2d. into ct. On Nov. 3, 1920, the parties to the interpleader summons agreed to divide the money between them & to withdraw the record; these terms were embodied in an order of the master of that date. In the meantime, however, a receiving order was made on Nov. 1, 1920, & petitioning creditors, the execution creditors, informed the official receiver of the sum of money being in ct. & of the terms of settlement so agreed as aforesaid. Thereupon the official receiver intervened, & on Nov. 1, 1920, gave notice in writing to the Paymaster-General of the Supreme Ct. of the receiving order, & this notice had the effect of preventing the order being acted upon. The trustee moved for a declaration that the deed of gift was void as against him. Held: (1) the deed of gift was a voluntary settlement & being made within two years of the bkpey., was void; (2) the execution having been completed & the proceeds held by the sheriff for fourteen days, the trustee's title was barred, because, although the execution was not completed before the sheriff had been in possession for twenty-one days, the act of bkpey. thereby created had not occurred within three months of the presentation of the petition & was not therefore available to establish the trustee's title.—*Re CHANDETTI, Ex p. The husband was adjudged bkpt. on June 20, 1922, within two years of the assignment. On motion by the trustee in the bkpy. for a declaration that the assignment was void against him as being a voluntary settlement under 1914 Act, s. 42:—Held, there was ample consideration in the assignment, & the wife was a "purchaser" for valuable consideration within the sect. —*Re CHARTERS, Ex p. Debtor was able to pay his creditors 2s. in the pound, but the transfer of the goods to applt. was arranged on a basis that the debt was worth 20s. in the pound & the goods were not of the class with which applt. was in the habit of dealing, & applt. knew that debtor was unable to pay his debts, & the transaction took place on the eve of bkpy. when debtor must have known 7414a. — Payment to agent of creditor—Agent paying over sum to principal in course of business.—A payment by a debtor to an agent who receives the money in the ordinary course of his employment for the use of a creditor is not a payment in favour of a "person in trust for any creditor," within 1914 Act, s. 44. The effect of that sect. is not to render the personal liability of an agent to repay a debt, payment of which he has received on behalf of his principal, greater than his liability in a case where money has been paid to him for the use of his principal in circumstances which entitle the person paying it to recover it back, even though it should turn out that, in fact, the payment constituted a fraudulent preference within the sect.

M. being indebted to G. & also to a co. for the price of goods supplied, on Jan. 14, 1921, paid to C. & B., agents of G. & the co. &, to the knowledge of debtor, authorised to receive the payment, the sum of £1,500 in settlement of the amounts respectively owing to G. & the co. The agents in the ordinary course of their employment received that sum for the use of their principals & paid over part thereof to G. & the balance to the co., such payment being made in good faith, in the belief that the payment was a good & valid payment, in ignorance of the impending bkpy. of debtor & long before any claim by the trustees in the bkpy. On Feb. 11, 1921, debtor committed an act of bkpy. by assigning his property in favour of his creditors. & on Mar. 12, 1921, a receiving order was made against him on which he was adjudicated bkpt. Upon a motion by the trustees of bkpt. for an order on C. & B. as agents, neither of their principals having been made resps., to repay the £1,500 on the ground that the payment was void against the trustees as a fraudulent preference:—Held: (1) C. & B. received the money merely as agents of & for the use of the creditors in the ordinary course of their employment, & not as "persons in trust for any creditor" within 1914 Act, s. 44; (2) the circumstances under which the money was received & paid over precluded appcts. from recovering the money, even though it were proved that the payment, in fact, constituted a fraudulent preference, as to which the ct. did not consider it to be necessary to decide. Seemle: (3) the personal liability of a person to whom payment has been made "in trust for any creditor" under 1914 Act, s. 41, must depend upon the facts of each case; in particular, whether the trustee had acted in good faith & whether he still held the money or had paid it over to the creditor before having received notice that the payment constituted a fraudulent preference.—*Re MORANT, Ex p. 7603a. — Employee of company—Refusal of company to pay—Termination of employment alleged.]—Bkpt., after his adjudication, entered into an agreement of service in writing for one year at a salary of £1,000, the agreement being signed in the name of a joint stock co., underneath which was the name of the managing director followed by the words, "managing director." An order was subsequently made by a registrar, under 1914 Act, s. 51 (2), that £300 out of a sum of £116 13s. 4d. due under the agreement from the co. &/or its managing director to bkpt. be forthwith paid by them to the trustee of the estate of bkpt. When the registrar made that order the only parties before the ct. were the trustee & bkpt. Neither the co. nor its managing director paid the £300, but alleged that nothing was due to bkpt. upon the ground that he had broken the agreement by absenting himself from his employment. The trustee then served a notice of motion in the High Ct. upon the co. & its managing director asking for a declaration that he was entitled to the £300 from resp. as forming part of the property of bkpt., & for an order for payment of that amount. The judge found that no dismissal had taken place nor had bkpt. by his conduct, given notice of his intention not to perform the contract which could be treated by resp. as an anticipatory breach. No point was taken as to whether the managing director was properly made resp.: Held: in the circumstances there must be a declaration & order for payment in terms of the notice of motion. Re LAVEY, Ex p. TRUSTEE, [1920] 1 K. 8104a. — Costs of carrying out order of court.— Upon a motion by a trustee in bkpy. to which bkpt.'s wife was resp. a declaration was made that certain furniture which was upon premises occupied by bkpt. & his wife formed part of the property of bkpt. divisible among the creditors, & the ct. ordered the wife to account on oath before a registrar for the furniture & to pay the taxed costs of incident to the motion. At the end of the declaration & order a provision was inserted, at the request of, & by way of indulgence to, the wife that, with a view to the furniture being bought by or on behalf of the wife from the trustee at a valuation by an independent valuer to be appointed by the parties or in case of difference to be appointed by the judge, & the wife undertaking not to part with or dispose of the furniture, execution should not issue except by leave of the judge. The furniture was valued by a firm of valuers selected by the wife out of three firms suggested by the trustee, & bought by or on behalf of the wife at a price based upon the valuation. Upon the taxation of the trustee's solrs.' bill of costs, the taxing master disallowed as against the wife the fee paid by the trustee to the firm of valuers, upon the ground that the costs relating to the purchase of the furniture by or on behalf of the wife under the valuation did not come within the order, & were not costs of carrying it out. On a motion by the solrs. to review the taxation:—Held: the taxation must be reviewed & the fee for the valuation allowed as against the wife, inasmuch as it formed part of the costs of carrying out the order & was therefore within the rule that where costs of suit are given generally by decree at the hearing, the subsequent costs of working out the directions of the decree will be included. —Re LAVEY, Ex p. COHEN & COHEN, [1920] 3 K. 8104b. — Costs of transcript of shorthand notes of evidence.—The trustee by motion applied against resp. to impeach certain transactions & gave formal notice by letter that he would read in support of the motion the transcript of the shorthand notes of the evidence given by witnesses at a private sitting. This motion was dismissed with costs. On taxing resp.'s bill of costs the taxing master dismissed: the trustee should have proceeded under r. 120, which provides a summary method of disposing of matters of this kind by a motion in chambers, which may afterwards take the form of an issue or trial; the ct. should discountenance costly proceedings when summary & inexpensive proceedings are open to the trustee.—*STILLWATER LUMBER & SHINGLE CO. v. Admiralty, & a motion by the assignee to set aside the writ of summons & warrant of arrest issued in the ct. by the mortgagee against the ship should be dismissed with costs. The only right of the assignee under Bkpy. Act is to defend the action & he cannot otherwise interfere therein. WHITE & CO. v. THE LIONIA (1922), 69 D. L. R. 94; 20 Exch. C. R. 327.—CAN.

Act, s. 68 (2), provides that "subject to the provisions of this Act & to General Rules, the costs of & incidental to any proceeding in ct. . . shall be in the discretion of the ct." The word "et." has impliedly a wider meaning than that given in the interpretation clause, & the sect. applies to the Ct. of Appeal. In 1924 debtor executed a deed of arrangement for the benefit of his creditors generally. The deed was expressed to be made between debtor of the first, the trustee of the second part, three named creditors of the third part, & "the several persons, companies, & partnership firms, being creditors of debtor, whose names & seals are set out & affixed to the schedule hereto, or who shall otherwise in writing assent to these presents, hereinafter called 'the creditors'" of the fourth part. Applt., who refused to consent to the deed, applied under the above sect. for a declaration that she was entitled as against the trustee of the deed to a charge on all the nance & health of himself & his family, according to circumstances, nor, of themselves, improvidence or "great carelessness" in expenditure, import a fraudulent intent. The registrar in bkpcy. dismissed the application on the ground that he had no jurisdiction under the sect. to entertain it. 8778a. — — — In 1901 debtor who was heavily indebted, & against whom bkpcy proceedings were pending, signed an instrument under which a trustee was to receive the whole of debtor's income & after making certain deductions to distribute the balance among the creditors, & in consideration of the arrangement the creditors agreed that all proceedings in bkpcy. or otherwise were to be stayed & to accept payment of their debts by instalments & to release debtor from all claims or demands in respect of their debts. The instrument provided that no document executed by debtor should be registered under the above Act. A number of the then creditors including appt. assented to the instrument, which was never registered under the Act. The arrangement was carried out until the death of debtor, which occurred in Nov. 1918, appt. receiving pro rata amounts on his debt between Aug. 1905 & July 1917. The debt carried interest at 4 per cent. & the payments under the arrangement to appt. were not sufficient to cover the interest so that an amount exceeding the original debt was still owing to appt. In Feb 1919, an administration order under 1911 Act, s. 130, was made upon a creditor's petition for the administration of deceased debtor's estate as being a person who had died insolvent, & the estate was being administered by the official receiver. At the time of debtor's death there was in the hands of the trustee under the instrument a sum of £465 8s 3d. which the official receiver claimed on the ground that it formed part of the personal estate of debtor, & the trustee paid the amount to him upon the terms that the official receiver was to be in the same position as he would have been if the money had remained in the trustee's hands. On a motion by appt. for a declaration that the £465 8s 3d. was held by the trustee on behalf of the assenting creditors, including appt., was divisible amongst them, & that appt. was entitled to prove in the administration of the estate for the balance due to him from debtor after giving credit for all sums received or receivable under the arrangement.

Held: (1) the instrument was a deed of arrangement within 387 Act, s. 1 (2), upon the ground that it was an assignment of property by debtor for the benefit of his creditors generally & also upon the ground that it was an agreement for a composition, (2) not having been registered it was void under sect. 5 of the Act; (3) as the instrument was void it created no trust for the benefit of the creditors, & the trustee under the instrument held the £465 8s. 3d. to the use of the official receiver as the representative of debtor, & was bound to repay it to him; (4) as the only direction to apply the money received by the trustee was contained in the void instrument & all parties knew & acted upon the assumption that it was invalid, deceased debtor would not have been, nor was the official receiver as his representative, estopped from setting up its invalidity & claiming from the trustee any money still in his hands; (5) equally there was no estoppel which prevented appct. from setting up the invalidity of the instrument & proving in the administration for the balance due to him from debtor; (6) as the instrument was void the release of the debts it contained was of no effect; (7) as under the instrument there was only a provision for payment to the creditors of debtor's income so long as he lived, no promise to pay the balance of the debts could be implied from the payments which had been made so as to take the debts out of the operation of the statutes of limitation, & appct.'s right to prove in the administration for the balance due to him was therefore barred. *Re LEE, Ex p. Some of his creditors, whose claims amounted to £150 were not parties to the scheme or deed, & acting under legal advice, debtor did not register the deed. After paying his trade creditors, including ptfcs., a small portion of the composition, debtor sold his business & entered into another scheme of arrangement with his creditors, to which ptfcs. refused to be parties, & they sued for the original debt owing to them, less the amount which they had received under the composition:—Held: (1) the deed came within Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1914 (c. 47), s. 1 (1) (b), & not being registered, was void; (2) ptfcs., who had assented to the deed, were not estopped by such assent from denying the validity of the deed; (3) assuming that they were so estopped, debtor, by selling his business before Apr. 30, 1926, had not fulfilled the conditions of the deed under which he would be released from his original liability, & therefore ptfcs. were relegated to their original rights & were entitled to succeed on their claim. 8810 i. ——Reasonable security provided.—In a composition scheme, if one of the creditors obtains an advantage over the others the ct. will scrutinise the scheme very closely. Where under a scheme all the creditors would receive more than 50 per cent. & it was reasonable & provided for immediate payment of all but one of the creditors, but the creditor who financed the scheme would be entitled to be paid in full, the ct. ratified the composition as the most advantageous that could be proposed. —Re GARDNER & COY. v. 588a. —.— Particular purpose—Fraudulent use for another purpose.]—A cheque was signed in blank by one of the partners in a syndicate, in the belief that the stamp of the syndicate would be subsequently affixed & the cheque used for the ordinary business of the syndicate. It was made payable to another partner, & was indorsed by a third partner, who believed the same as the drawer, as well as by the payee. The payee, in fraud of the other two partners, did not affix the stamp of the syndicate & used the cheque for the purpose of raising a loan from money-lenders, for which he gave a promissory note binding him to repay an agreed sum by monthly instalments. When one of the instalments fell due, the cheque was tendered in payment & was dishonoured upon presentation, & the money-lenders then sued the drawer & the indorser:—Held: the drawer & indorser were liable on the cheque, as there had been nothing to put ptfs. on inquiry whether a fraud was being perpetrated by the payee, & as both defts., when signing the document, had intended that the document should be negotiated as a cheque, the cheque could not be regarded as a document given in escrow.—*GUILDFORD TRUST, LTD. v. - 763a. ——— “Directors” added after signatures—Acceptance by company—Drawer requiring indorsement by directors.]—A bill of exchange addressed to a limited co. was accepted in the following form: “Accepted payable at the W. Bank—A.B. & C.D., directors—Fashions Fair Exhibition, Ltd.” The drawer when sending the bill to the co. for acceptance stated in his letter that as a condition of his doing the work for which the bill was drawn he should require it to be indorsed by the directors as well as accepted by the co. Accordingly the same two directors signed the bill also on the back, “Fashions Fair Exhibition, Ltd. A.B. & C.D., directors,” & one of them when returning the accepted bill drew attention in his letter to the fact that it was “duly indorsed by two directors of the co. as requested by you.” In an action against A.B. & C.D. as indorsers of the bill:—Held: (1) they were personally liable, upon the ground that if the indorsement was to be treated as that of the co. it gave no greater validity to the bill than was already contained in the acceptance, & therefore under 1882 Act, s. 26 (2), the construction that it was the personal indorsement of debts. was to be adopted; (2) even if the indorsement stood by itself, as debts.’ signature did not in terms say that they were signing on behalf of the co., the addition to their names of the word “directors” must be treated as a word of description only & not as excluding their liability; (3) the ct. were entitled to look at the surrounding circumstances under which the bill was signed, including the letters which passed between the parties on the subject of the indorsement, from which it was to be inferred that debts. by indorsing intended to guarantee the payment of the bill.—ELLIOTT v. BAX-IRONSIDE, [1925] 2 K. B. 301; 94 L. J. K. B. 807; 133 L. T. 624; 41 T. L. R. 631, C. A.

Ltd.” as drawer. They had been accepted in respect of goods supplied by the co. to debts., & pltf. had stated that it must be “clearly understood that I am in no way accepting any liability or responsibility whatever in respect of the orders themselves”:—Held: (1) the above were not “surrounding circumstances” from which the intention of the parties could be inferred, & such intention must be gathered from the terms of the document alone; (2) the words “Receiver, F. Ltd.” were words of description only, & the bills did not purport to have been drawn on behalf of the co.; (3) pltf. was entitled to recover against debts. upon the bills.—KETTLE v. g (p. 185) i. ———. ———. To be the holder of a promissory note & entitled to sue on it in his own name, pltf. must be either the payee or the indorsee in possession of the note.—BARNES v. LAUZON, [1923] 2 W. W. R. 19.—CAN.

m (p. 188) i. ———. ———. Assignment to evade counterclaim.—Def. made a note in favour of C., who lost it. C. made an assignment of it to J. in order that J. might bring an action thereon & so prevent def. bringing a counterclaim against C. Just before trial the note was found & indorsed to J.:—Held: C. must be joined as pltf., & def. allowed to bring in his counterclaim.—JONES & COLQUHOUN v. FINCH (1922), 66 D. L. R. 822.—CAN.

m (p. 188) ii. ———. ———. Indorsement in consideration of advances—Advances repaid.—Held: an action might be brought either in the name of the indorser or holder.—CLAW & DOULL, [1920] 1 W. W. R. 1060.—CAN.

m (p. 188) iii. ———. ———. "On account of" payee.—An indorsement was not struck out & action was brought on the note in the name of the payee. At the trial the judge allowed pltf. to amend by adding the indorsee as co-pltf., def. having objected that pltf. had no right of action; & judgment was given for the indorsee, but costs were given def. against the payee, the original pltf. Def. appealed on the grounds that no amendment should have been allowed, & pltf. was not entitled to judgment. Appeal dismissed.—JACKSON MACHINEN, LTD. v. MICHALUCK, [1922] 2 W. W. R. 572; 67 D. L. R. 182; 15 Sask. L. R. 467.—CAN.

On bills drawn against confirmed credit—Bills not presented to bank.]—Appls., merchants at Calcutta, sold goods to merchants in London at c.i.f. price, payment by drafts against a confirmed credit, to be opened by the buyers. On shipment of the goods applts. drew on the buyers bills payable to resps., who negotiated them with notice that they were drawn against a confirmed credit opened by the buyers with the B. Bank. Appls. handed to resps. with the bills the shipping documents, also a memorandum describing the bills as D/A, i.e., documents against acceptance, drafts. Resps. handed the documents to the buyers against their acceptances, which were dishonoured upon maturity. *Resps. sued applts. as drawers of bills: Held: resps. were entitled to bound to treat the description of the bills as D/A drafts as a direction to hand the documents to the drawers on their acceptance, & applts. had no defence, set-off or counterclaim in respect of the loss of the rights which they would have had under the confirmed credit, if the documents had been handed to the B. 2096a. ————]—J. sold certain goods to C., Ltd., of which G. was managing director & in which he was largely interested. In payment for these goods J. drew a bill of exchange to his own order at three months for £450 upon C., Ltd., who accepted it, & it was indorsed by G. before J. had indorsed it as payee, & his name appeared below that of G. The bill was indorsed by G. in order to enable J. to discount it, & for no consideration moving from J. to G., who was to be under no liability to J. The bill was discounted by J.'s bank & was not met at maturity. An arrangement was subsequently made by which C., Ltd., paid £100 in cash to the bank in part satisfaction & the bank received two bills drawn by J. to his own order & accepted by C., Ltd., for £175 each at one month & two months respectively. These bills were indorsed by G. before they were signed by J. either as drawer or payee. They were afterwards indorsed by J. whose name appeared on the bills below that of G. The first bill not having been met at maturity, J. took it up & sued C., Ltd., & G. upon the bill & recovered judgment, & afterwards presented a petition in bankruptcy in the county ct. against G., founded on the judgment debt, upon which a receiving order was made against him. On appeal:—Held: (1) J., authority under 1882 Act, s. 20, to fill in his own name as drawer & payee; (2) there was sufficient consideration passing from J. to G. to entitle J. to sue G. on the bill notwithstanding the order in which the signatures appeared on the bill; (3) by reason of the agreement between J. & G., G. could not have set up any defence against J. arising out of his own prior indorsement; (4) the judgment debt was a good petitioning creditor's debt & the receiving order was rightly made.—Re GOOCH, Ex p. JUDD, [1921] 2 K. 2096b. ————]—In May, sold to A. & Co. 19,000 cases of at the price of 10s. per case, cash against delivery order. A. & Co., being unable to find the money, applied for financial assistance to resps., who undertook as between themselves & A. & Co. to find 75 per cent of the money, there being then about 16,000 cases which had not been taken up. On Aug. 10, 1920, at a meeting between applts., resps. & A. & Co., it was agreed that resps. should indorse a series of eight bills of exchange, seven for £1,000 each & one for £117 odd, to be drawn by applts. on A. & Co. payable six months after date to applts.' order, & that applts., in consideration of the bills being duly indorsed by resps., should hand to resps. delivery orders for the balance of the cases. These bills were at once drawn by applts. on A. & Co. expressed to be payable to applts.' order, & were accepted by A. & Co. & indorsed by resps. Room was left above the name of resps. for the indorsement of the name of any person to whom applts. should direct payment. Resps. then handed the bills to applts. in exchange for the delivery orders. One bill having been discharged, applts. shortly before the remaining bills became due indorsed their name as payee on the bills above resps.' signature. Applts. duly presented the bills to A. & Co., who dishonoured them. They then gave notice of dishonour & claimed payment from resps., who denied liability. In an action by applts. to recover the amount of the bills against resps. as indorsers:—Held: (1) on the facts resps. must be taken to have intended to make themselves liable to applts. on the bills; (2) the bills, when handed to applts., were wanting in a material particular within 1882 Act, s. 20, by reason of the absence of any indorsement by applts.

2416a. ——— Verbal agreement for acceptance of composition.]—Pltf. was the holder of a bill of exchange accepted by deft. for goods supplied. Before the bill became due deft. had made a verbal offer to his creditors to pay a composition in discharge of his liabilities. At a meeting of the creditors, which was attended by pltf.'s agent, the creditors passed a resolution accepting deft.'s offer. The resolution was reduced to writing & was signed by a number of the creditors, including pltf.'s agent, but not by deft. The creditors subsequently executed a deed assigning their debts to deft.'s solr. in consideration of deft.'s solr. paying the amounts owing to them under the composition. Pltf. was not a party to that deed. In an action by the holder of the bill against the acceptor, for the amount of the bill:—Held: upholding a contention of pltf., which was not raised in the cts. below, 1882 Act, s. 62, had not been complied with, as pltf. had neither renounced his rights under the bill in writing, nor delivered the bill up to the acceptor &, therefore, pltf. was entitled to recover the full amount of the bill.—*RIMALT v. It was sent to London, was accepted by resps. payable at a London bank, & returned to France, where it was indorsed by E. in his own name, on behalf, & with the authority, of M., to appls. On presentation for payment, resps. refused to meet it on the ground that it did not bear the indorsement of M., the payee, but merely the indorsement of E. In an action on the bill against resps. as acceptors evidence was given that by French law an indorsement might be validly made by a duly authorised agent signing his own name :—Held : appls. as indorsees obtained a good title to the bill by virtue of 1882 Act, s. 72, & were entitled to recover the amount thereof from resps. as acceptors.—KOECHLIN ET CIE. v. on a certain contract & in consideration of pltf. giving further time within which to pay for the goods, set aside certain specified goods in two rooms on defts.' premises, which were locked up & the keys handed to pltf., no other goods being in those two rooms. The terms of the transaction were recorded in two letters written by deft. co. to pltf., one letter written before the keys were handed over, & the second letter subsequently. The second letter contained the words, "The goods to be locked up, the keys in your possession, & you to have the right to remove same as desired." The co. went into liquidation & the liquidator claimed that the transaction was invalid under Companies Act, 1908 (c. 69), s. 93 (1) (c), as being a charge created or evidenced by an instrument which if executed by an individual would require registration as a bill of sale. Pltf. brought an action claiming a declaration that the goods were in his possession, & that he was entitled to remove them: Held: possession of the goods passed to pltf. by the delivery of the keys of the rooms in which they were locked up, notwithstanding that those rooms were on defts.' premises, inasmuch as defts. had conferred upon pltf. a licence to make the necessary entry in order to use the keys, which licence could not be revoked, & therefore the transaction was valid as against the liquidator, & pltf. was entitled to remove the goods.—*WRIGHTSON v. - 98a. Letter assigning chattel in hands of third party—Cr proceeds of sale—As security for overdraft.—The owner of a motor car which was in the hands of deft., a motor engineer, for the purpose of repairs, & which he had instructed deft. to sell on his behalf when repaired, had an account at pltf's bank, which was overdrawn. Being requested by pltf's to give security for the overdraft he wrote to deft. a letter authorising him "to hold the car to the order of" the bank "or the proceeds when sold," & sent a copy of that letter to pltf's. The letter was not registered as a bill of sale. The car having been sold & the price received by deft., pltf's claimed the proceeds:—Held: the letter in question created one entire charge upon the car & the proceeds which represented it, & the equitable assignment of the proceeds could not be severed from the assignment of the car itself; the letter was consequently a bill of sale & void for want of registration & for non-compliance with the statutory form.—NATIONAL PROVINCIAL & UNION BANK OF ENGLAND v. - 138a. Letter of trust on redelivery for realisation of pledged bills of lading.—A limited co. pledged bills of lading with a bank to secure an overdraft. When it was time to sell the goods, the co. in accordance with the well-established mercantile practice obtained the bills of lading from the bank for realisation on the terms stated in the usual letter of trust given by the co. to the bank, to wit, that the co. received the bills of lading in trust on the bank's account & undertook to hold the goods when received & the proceeds when sold as the bank's trustees & to remit the entire net proceeds as realised :—Held : the letter of trust was not a bill of sale at all within the definition of 1878 Act, s. 4. Seemle : if it had been so, it would on the evidence have been a document "used in the ordinary course of business" within the exception in that definition.—Re
